If this new policy is implemented and applied to non-profit organization there will be a dramatic drop in moral of people trying to help these organizations that provide a tremendous support to those in need.

In addition the company I work for strictly enforces the do not call list. Management strictly trains all employees how to proceed with customers who are currently on the list or wishes to be added to the list.

This policy is an excellent choice for companies who do fraudulent business not the ones who are legitimate ones like the company I work for.

Before implementing the revisions to the Telemarketing Sales Rule, please consider this letter. If I can provide you with any information please free to contact me anytime at [redacted]
