Dear Sirs — re: FTC project # P094513

Look around - the American Public is "waddling" down the street! Where do you think it begins — childhood? It's difficult enough to encourage eating vegetables and enough grams, without the rampant enticement of "goodies" food that does nothing but overload their vital organs with fat.

Come on America, it's time for a "turn-around" on our children's health. Wouldn't we be a little more tolerant of the money food advertisers acquire if they encouraged good health eating in the process. Keep feeding our kids this negative info and as adults their "fat brains" won't live long enough to buy your products. A truly worried American, for common sense,
