

I support the proposed action on labeling spam.

It is frustrating when the "remove" option is bogus and doesn't work, but I guess that is already illegal (as it should be).

So, the bigger question is: how will this affect the people who already blow off the law? Or is this just to have more options to go after them?

Scott Anderson