

Dear Sir or Madam:

I am writing this letter because

I am concerned about the proposed Business Opportunity Rule R 511993

I believe that if some of the rules were implemented it would make it much harder for me to sell my company's products.

I understand that the FTC is suppose to protect the public, and I appreciate that, however some of the proposed rules seem unfair.

The seven day waiting period seems unnecessary.

The company I am with has a money back guarantee and has good customer support to answer any questions.

When I talk to a sales person, they tell me about what my company can offer and they want to sell ~~me~~ the products. I don't want to be forced to buy a product. I don't want to be forced to buy a product. I don't want to be forced to buy a product. I don't want to be forced to buy a product.

When I go to buy something, I don't like to have to wait I want to buy something when I've made up my mind to buy it.

I think it might be a better idea to have a waiting period before going to the pharmacy and getting a drug without first knowing all the potential risks of taking the drug. I know a few friends who were not aware of how dangerous the drug was until it was too late, and of which are dead now.

I don't think it is right to have to give a doctor a name and address of a friend who is a friend in need.

Some doctors are afraid of getting a name and address of a friend who is a friend in need, but please ~~not~~ do not worry at all about it. I am almost independent of my own body and I am not going for a long time. I am not a friend in need.
