

June 13, 2006

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to express my concern over the proposed Business Opportunity Rule (R511993). I am concerned that if it is passed as written that it will make it very difficult for me to continue to have a home based business.

Many of my customers need to have their products in a timely manner. I believe that forcing them to wait 7 days before their products are shipped would put an undue hardship on many of them.

Also - disclosing to each customer every frivolous lawsuit that has been brought against the company - irregardless of whether it has been dismissed without merit - would paint a very unfair picture.

I appreciate the work of the FTC to protect consumers, but I believe that there are other alternatives to accomplish this goal without hurting home based businesses that seek to operate in integrity.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Sincerely,

Ph.