

Re: Issue # 411002

To whom it may concern,

In my life, being able to have the flexibility as to where I can purchase my contacts is very important to me, as are convenient ways of having rush deliveries. The idea that my eye doctor can limit my options in this country is a frightening and frustrating idea. I should have the ability to purchase my contact lenses from any quality vendor as I please with my up-to-date prescription. I have had terrible experiences with eye doctors (and now rely solely on my Ophthalmologist) -- the idea of only having them as an option is not encouraging to me, and may make me contemplate lasik surgery I do not want.

Please consider the consumer's rights as lobbies try to make you see things differently.

Many thanks,
