To whom it may concern,

I Rosa Dahbur support the 2003 Fairness Contact Lens Consumers Act.
Doctor's requiring to give the consumer a copy of the prescription at no charge is the correct thing to do.
I think that's terrible after being examined by the doctor and paying your co-payment.
The secretary replies there will be an additional charge for the prescription.
I then should have the right to purchase my contact lens or eye glasses from whomever I choose.
When purchasing a product, one of the most important things is consumer service.

Thank you,

Rosa Dahbur
