Dear Federal Trade Commission:

I support the new Contact Lens Law. I have been a regular customer of 1800contacts.com now for several years now and have thoroughly enjoyed the convenience of being able to order my contacts from competitively priced suppliers. I travel alot and it is not convenient to track down a local optomtrist, pay for an office visit, get an eye exam, and then be forced to pay whatever the market will bare for contact lens. I've also had difficulty in getting my local optometrist sending copies of my prescription to other contact lens suppliers. Optometrists should be forced to compete in an open competitive market for contact lens sales, just like any other supplier of products. Please pass the legislation that will require optometrists to provide our prescriptions to whatever supplier we, as the consumer, select to purchase our contacts from.

Sincerely,

Randy Manek
