I love being able to purchase my contacts over the internet, not from my eye doctor. He charges twice as much, and the service isn't as good. I also think it is ridiculous that I have to have an eye appointment every year in order to order contacts over the internet. (I live in California.) This is just a scam for eye doctors. I am perfectly capable of determining whether or not I need a new prescription, and since my prescription hasn't changed for 10 years, this is excessive regulation that costs me, the consumer.

Please don't give in to the eye doctors' lobbying efforts!

Thanks.
