Subject: Proposed contact lens rule

To whom it may concern,

I have recently been notified by my contact lens provider about a newly proposed law that would enable consumers to receive their prescription from their eye doctors on the spot. I believe that is a wonderful element to the plan, however, I oppose any law that would make it necessary for consumers to wait several days before having their prescriptions filled. As a consumer and frequent traveler, I often find it necessary to fill a prescription with very short notice. I am very appreciative of the convenience I have experienced, and I would be very upset if that convenience was hindered by a congressional law. I understand the health concerns of congress, yet I also value the ability to choose my provider and have fast and reliable service. Is that not, in all seriousness, the American way?

Sincerely,

Aliza Sieradski
