As a contact lens wearer for 20 years, I would like to express my support for the new Contact Lens Law.

I believe that once I have had my eyes examined by my eye doctor, it is my inherent right to have a free copy of my prescription. In the past, I have had some eye doctors who would not give that to me, so that I was forced to purchase contacts from their office, at a much higher price.

I think this is wrong. I now am fortunate enough to obtain copies of my prescription, thus enabling me to have a choice as to where I purchase my lenses.

I am sure that there are some doctors who do not like this and are lobbying you for limiting the patients' rights. I urge you to uphold the current law.

Thank you,
Lisa Gordon
