I support the law which gives me the right to my contact lens prescription. I believe that if I pay for the frame then I have a right to the results (the prescription).
It is much cheaper for me to purchase

I will be wearing contacts for the rest of my life financial savings is important to me. But the bottom line is -

Dear Mr. Secretary,

I adamately support the law which gives me the right to my contact lens prescription! The consumer pays for the doctor's findings and this is just one of them.

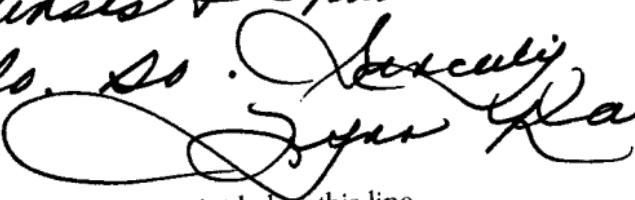

In addition, I feel consumers should be able to order their lenses in the most convenient way for them. Recently I went to the eye doctor and bought contacts after our usual debate. What did I find? Just what the doctor said would happen if I bought contacts on line. Yet it was him that gave/sold me <sup>Please do not print below this line</sup> ~~expired contacts~~ <sup>(W)</sup>.

I deserve to have the same rights, as I do with

I always thought it was weird that when I went for an eye exam they would give me the glasses prescription, but not the contact one. It appeared they were trying to control where I bought my contacts from.

~~REMOVED~~ In order to receive my last prescription I had to fill out a form that allowed the Dr.'s to give me, the patient, my own files. I sincerely hope + trust that you protect my right to know my own lens prescription strengths.

I am in favor of the new contact lens law. After paying for an eye exam, my eye doctor offered to sell me a pair of contacts for $120. Dear Federal Trade Commission,

Sincerely,
Ginger Allen

Until I discovered Costco's contact lens exam (2004), I spent 5 years going to lens crafters. The technicians at lens crafters hate giving its customers their contact lens prescriptions!! It's a real struggle. In one case, the cashier was so insistent that I buy my contact lenses from their store that she almost ran my credit card through for contact lenses that I never agreed to buy from them. After arguing with the employees, you might be lucky enough to get your contact lens prescription that you just paid a fortune for. I support the law which gives me the right to my lens prescription. Buying contact lenses should be easy. I want to choose who Please do not print below this line I buy them from.

I am writing in support of the Fairness to Contact Lens Consumers Act of 2003.
I want to receive a copy of my contact Lens prescription from any eye doctor who examines me, and I want to be free to choose where I buy my lenses. Since I only get my eyes examined once a year, but need to buy lenses more frequently than that, I want the convenience of holding my own
