

88 (16)

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

JAMAL "J" BLACK " Samual J Black
WHITE Philly 1039 723 Spring garden St.
Philadelphia PA
[Handwritten signature]

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Patricia Redman
2039 N. 44th Street
Phila PA

Joseph A. Allison
Catherine Beckett

May 12, 2000

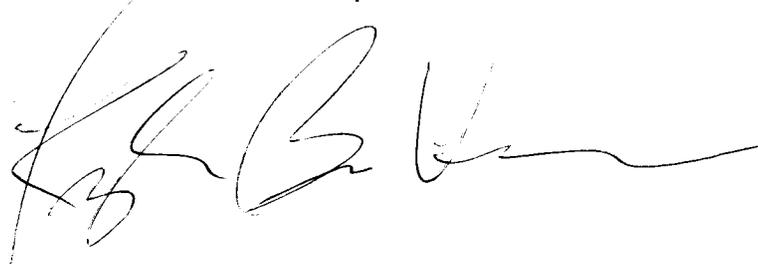

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Ralph B Von
946 S. MAIN
MOUNT HOLLY, N.J.

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

JASON K. LITTLE
359 HOUSTON LANE
SILVER LANE, MARYLAND

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

M. K. R. 4h

839 Bodholme Lane

Willingboro, New Jersey

M. K. R. 4h

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Rob Skinner
131 Water Street
Williamstown, Mass

Rob Skinner

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

1920 Wildard St
Duhio, Pa.

A large, stylized handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be 'Andrew De'.

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

James William

*James William
306 Stella St
PHILA PA -*

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

3601 Southeast
Phila Pa

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Tank Richardson

T. Richardson
1845 ORKney St.
Phila. Pa.

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Precise Records

Michael B. Jordan

M/B/J

Michael Jordan
Precise Records
308 Valley Ave
Baltimore, MD

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Letitia Stusanija
4853 Jefferson St
Pulaski . N.J.

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Yolanda Moore

Yolanda Moore
1689 Forge St.
Baldwin, NY

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

M. Gibbs
51200 MLK Hwy
Phila. PA

- h/ert
[Signature]

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

J. Gibb

*J. Gibb
2315 W. Main
Phila. Pa.*

May 12, 2000

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

I quote from your press release dated May 10, 2000: "In the early 1990s many new music retailers, including major consumer electronics stores, started to sell CDs at low prices to gain customers and market share..."

The price war started with electronics stores running ads for $15.98 list CDs (cost $10.24) at $9.99 and $16.98 list CDs (cost $10.65) at $10.99 in order to drive traffic into stores to buy VCRs, stereos, computer, televisions, etc. This "Loss Leader" concept resulted in thousands of retail (family owned) record outlets and major music chains going out of business. Obviously they could not afford to sell at a price below their cost. Although it is not in your area of jurisdiction, can you picture how many empty store fronts there are now in neighborhoods that can least afford them!

The major distributors started MAP in 1995 and saved my business along with thousands of other record retail stores. In addition to the competition I am facing with the internet, digital down loading, and MP-3, I am confronted by a commission whose ruling will bring harm to me, my family and the record industry. I urge that you re-think your decision on MAP.

There is no doubt in my mind the price war will start soon in 2000 and my 25 years of hard work and good business will end, because you will allow electronics stores to sell below cost on music with the sole purpose of a profit built into other more expensive items.

Marvin White

*Marvin White
501 New Page Rd
Lewiston Pa*