I do not see why any Company or individual would need to snoop on people's computers. Why don't they act forthright in their advertising, or mail out questionnaires? If someone is interested, they will respond. It is an infringement on our privacy and I have spent a great deal of money trying to get rid of these parasites that attach themselves to your computer to see what your buying habits etc. are.

Then, to top off the fact that they are snooping, you get barraged with unwanted (SPAM) e-mails saying that you signed up for their "Newsletters" and such. It is a bunch of garbage and it needs to be stopped NOW!
