The FTC Spyware Workshop.

Perhaps the best line uttered all day came from Urquart, who said, "We can't call these people consumers, they're victims."

Makers of spyware and adware are criminals. I think it is a crime for these people to put software on my system without my knowledge. They should be required to notify me before they install anything and give me a chance to not have it installed.

They talk about their rights to free speech, well I demand my right to my privacy.

Get going on a federal law that would protect my privacy from these pirates.

Thank you.
