

Thu 5/20/2004

We have to stop the unwanted and uninvited proliferation of spyware, malware, and the general crap that is taking over and ruining the Internet. I work on computers and instead of my customers getting good use out of their computer budget and being able to buy applications to better their business, their money is being spent on trying to keep spyware out of their computer. The costs are outrageous. The spyware slows the computers down to a crawl and eventually renders them useless. Please listen to the victims here and put into effect laws that will stop this.

Ed Kasovic