ORDER

Before the Court are Plaintiff Federal Trade Commission’s (“FTC’s”) Motion for Temporary Restraining Order (hereinafter “TRO Motion”) (Doc. 109) and Motion for Preliminary Injunction (hereinafter “PI Motion”) (Doc. 110.) Therein, Plaintiff moves the Court, pursuant to § 13(b) of the Federal Trade Commission Act (hereinafter “FTC Act”), 15 U.S.C. § 53(b), and Section 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26, to enjoin Defendants Phoebe Putney Health System Inc. (“PPHS”), Phoebe Putney Memorial Hospital, Inc. (“PPMH”), Phoebe North, Inc. (“PNI”) (hereinafter collectively referred to as “Phoebe Putney”); HCA, Inc. (“HCA”); Palmyra Park Hospital, Inc. (“Palmyra”); and Hospital Authority of Albany-Dougherty County (“the Authority”), including their domestic and foreign agents, divisions, parents, subsidiaries, affiliates, partnerships, or joint ventures, from any further integration of the assets and operations of Palmyra

(n/k/a Phoebe North) with those of Phoebe Putney, and requiring them to preserve the status quo at Phoebe North. (Doc. 109 at 1-2).

Plaintiff maintains that a temporary restraining order (“TRO”) and a preliminary injunction (“PI”) are needed to maintain the status quo pending the outcome of the FTC’s ongoing expedited administrative proceeding, and any appeals, regarding whether the Transaction violates Section 7 of the Clayton Act 15 U.S.C. § 18, and Section 5 of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45. (Id. at 2.) Specifically, Plaintiff asserts that temporary injunctive relief is necessary to prevent competitive harm during the pendency of the preliminary injunction proceedings.¹ (Id.)

On May 14, 2013, the Court held a telephone conference with the Parties. During the phone conference, the Court heard argument from all sides regarding the propriety and scope of a TRO. After considering the factors required for establishing the need for a TRO², the Court determined that Plaintiff carried its burden of persuasion to establish the need for the imposition of the “extraordinary and drastic remedy” of a TRO pending the outcome of the Court’s decision on the PI Motion. See Mazurek v. Armstrong, 520 U.S. 968, 972 (1997) (per curiam) (citation omitted).

² To sufficiently establish the need for a temporary restraining order, a movant must show (1) a substantial likelihood of success on the merits of its case, (2) that irreparable harm would result in the absence of the TRO, (3) that the balance of equities favors granting the TRO, (4) that the public interest would not be harmed by the injunction, Mesa Air Group, Inc. v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 573 F.3d 1124, 1127 (11th Cir. 2009) (citing BellSouth Telecomms., Inc. v. MCI Metro Access Transmission Svcs., LLC, 425 F.3d 964, 968 (11th Cir. 2005)), and that “no adequate remedy at law” exists, Reynolds v. Roberts, 207 F.3d 1288, 1299 (11th Cir. 2000) (citing Beacon Theatres, Inc. v. Westover, 359 U.S. 500, 506-07 (1959)).

As to the terms of the TRO, the Court ordered that Defendants take no further steps to consolidate Palmyra (n/k/a Phoebe North) and Phoebe Putney, to wit, maintain the status quo as it exists today. In response to Plaintiff's request that the Court order Defendants to refrain from instituting any price changes, the Court ordered that Defendants are prohibited from making any price changes to existing contracts; however, said prohibition does not extend to the formation of any new contracts.³

Accordingly, pursuant to the terms announced during the Court's telephone conference, which are incorporated herein, Plaintiff's TRO Motion (Doc. 109) is therefore GRANTED, and Defendants are ENJOINED from taking any further steps to consolidate Palmyra and Phoebe Putney. The instant Order shall remain in effect until the Court rules on Plaintiff's PI Motion (Doc. 110), the hearing for which will be held on June 14, 2013.

It is further ORDERED that Defendants shall file their brief in response to Plaintiff's PI Motion (Doc. 110) by Friday, May 31, 2013, and that Plaintiff shall file its brief in reply by Friday, June 7, 2013.

SO ORDERED, this 15th day of May, 2013.

THE HONORABLE W. LOUIS SANDS,
UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

³ The Court notes that the record reflects that counsel for Defendants stated that they could not "consent" to such an agreement. Said objection has no legal effect on the Court's ruling.
