

Mrs. Patti Watson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please don't try to deceive us

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. There is enough deception in the world already. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Patti Watson

Miss CAROLYN BECK

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. STOP THE LYING!!! KILLING ANIMALS FOR FUR IS DISGUSTING ENOUGH, BUT THEN YOU LIE ABOUT IT??? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss CAROLYN BECK

Dr. Melissa Li

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. NO FUR SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO BE IMPORTED FROM CHINA PLEASE!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Regardless, of whether raccoon or not, dog or not, no fur should be allowed. China has a long history of lying to consumers, we should not allow them to try to fool us in this manner. We should have compassion for all animals.

Sincerely,
Dr. Melissa Li

Mr. John Segal

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you so very much for your help in bringing attention to an unbelievably cruel act.

Sincerely,
Mr. John Segal

Mrs. Britt Marie Carlsson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Britt Marie Carlsson

Sincerely,
Mrs. Britt Marie Carlsson

Mrs. Angela Oueslati

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is time to evolve and respect the life of other creatures.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Angela Oueslati

Mr. Bruno F. Cilione

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. *****I've seen film of live skinning of raccoon dogs & it is absolutely MONSTROUS to do that to any LIVING creature!!! By properly identifying the fur as "raccoon dog", the abuse could possibly end, both for the dogs & any other creature. Listen to your own heart, for God's sake.*****

Sincerely,
Mr. Bruno F. Cilione

Dr. Christian Zimmermann

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. We need to be the voice for those who do not have one. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. Christian Zimmermann

Miss Debbie Balasko

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Debbie Balasko

Sincerely,
Miss Debbie Balasko

Mrs. Susan Moran

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let's call it what it is!! Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Susan Moran

Ms. Layne Dalgetty-Rouse

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. But seriously...should it really matter. A cruel and inhumane death for either (any) species is JUST PLAIN WRONG!

Sincerely,
Ms. Layne Dalgetty-Rouse

Mrs. Ruth Carroll

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that I have a hard time understanding how anyone can harm or mistreat "any animal!!"

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ruth Carroll

Mr. Bill Miller

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Bill Miller

Mrs. Rebecca Lipka

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Imagine someone skinning your dog alive to make a fur coat - it's SICKENING and wrong on every level.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Rebecca Lipka

Mrs. Pamela Rucker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop the fur industry from selling "Dog Fur". Make them call it by the correct name!! HELP raccoon dogs!! And all mistreated animals. Thank you for your kindness.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Pamela Rucker

Miss tonya halacheff

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. No animal should be skinned alive for FUR! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss tonya halacheff

Mrs. Jillian Harmon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please help this cruel act stop. It truly brings me to tears.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jillian Harmon

Miss Tia Harestad

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Tia Harestad

Sincerely,
Miss Tia Harestad

Ms. Sarah Lilley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: REQUIRE raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a lengthy history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sarah Lilley

Ms. M. Ruth Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Number: This action alert is for U.S. residents only. International advocates, please visit Humane Society International for ways you can take action for animals.
alert_tinyphoneicon.gif

Sincerely,
Ms. M. Ruth Smith

Ms. Joanne Gibbons

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. PLEASE HELP TO STOP THE CRUELTY...THEY ARE DOGS! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joanne Gibbons

Ms. Linda Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I unwittingly bought a jacket with such trim. Don't let other consumers be fooled. We deserve truth in labeling.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Jones

Dr. barbara simpson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Why continue to misrepresent by calling it Asiatic raccoon" in order to sell !!! you dont want consumers make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal has gone through " Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Shame on you!!!!

Sincerely,
Dr. barbara simpson

Ms. Anita Buffer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Mahatma Gandhi once said, "you can tell how a country is progressing by how it treats it's animals." American who care DON'T want America to FAIL. We want HONESTY. The FUR INDUSTRY has a ...LONG...history of "MISREPRESENTATION" in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING & OTHER ABUSES of this animal that have been ...WELL DOCUMENTED. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. ALL REPUTABLE GOVERNMENTAL & SCIENTIFIC SOURCES, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, CALL RACCOON DOGS ...JUST THAT.

Sincerely,
Ms. Anita Buffer

Mrs. Laura Atchison

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. It is important for consumers to know what they are buying. It is misleading to label fur trim 'raccoon fur' and it should be illegal. Dog fur is dog fur, and if the label stated 'raccoon dog' then it would be factual and most people DO NOT want dog fur on their clothing! The fur producing countries, (like China) use cruel and inhumane treatment of the dogs to get their fur. I request that you please require labeling to be accurate in order that the dogs may be spared the torture and also consumers can avoid supporting this cruel exploitation of 'Man's best friend.'

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Laura Atchison

Ms. Mary Becker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There are so many excellent products to make our coats look pretty, let's not needlessly kill to adorn our clothing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Becker

Mrs. Emerald Mulcahey-Roberson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is truly an atrocity !!!!

Sincerely,

Mrs. Emerald Mulcahey-Roberson

Ms. Carrie Mass

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Do the right thing. Be honest.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carrie Mass

Mrs. Lynne Davis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I don't understand why anyone would want real raccoon fur either.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lynne Davis

Mr. Allen Bechky

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. It's bad enough that we slaughter so many wild animals for furs. But we should never let trade names disguise the species that is being sold. Let consumers decide if they want to buy or not. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Allen Bechky

Ms. Jeanine Greene

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I am appalled at the fur trade and the US Federal Trade Commission condoning this trade with countries such as China who have no regard for animals which are just a commodity for cash. We have a right to know what is on the product and the correct name of the items in or on the product. Simply changing the name to appease a country who skins these dogs alive for purely monetary purposes is abhorrent. I am a consumer who wants the correct name on products not some made up name to appease an appalling trade from China.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jeanine Greene

Ms. Marguerite Juliusson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I think that the public needs to know that the fur is from dogs and then they can make the choice if they wish to purchase or not. I don't believe that you should help market such a unsavory item. Sincerely, Marguerite Juliusson

Sincerely,
Ms. Marguerite Juliusson

Mrs. Kris Johnston

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And if people want fur - it doesn't matter what you call it, they will buy it so stop treating them like babies and tell them the truth.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kris Johnston

Mrs. Susan Torrey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon dog MUST be required to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Live skinning. Can you really support that?!? Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Susan Torrey

Mrs. Rita Porzel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Skinned alive. ! I don't care what kind of animal it is, that should NEVER be allowed to happen. Not one more time. Do not deceive anyone; face the facts and take humane action.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Rita Porzel

Mrs. Angie Free

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. What would really be nice would be to outlaw the killing of any animals in the name of fashion.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Angie Free

Ms. Marcy Williams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is just so cruel

Sincerely,
Ms. Marcy Williams

Mrs. Meaghen Damato

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please show that you care.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Meaghen Damato

Mrs. Donna Lee

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. PLEASE TAKE ACTION.....The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Donna Lee

Ms. Ann Sievert

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please read or watch the videos which describe how this animal's fur is harvested, and do not allow the fur industry to fool customers. The clothing should have labels showing what this poor creature goes through.

Sincerely,
Ms. Ann Sievert

Ms. Kathleen Lewis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I wish this horrific process could be stopped - it is inhumane, cruel, barbaric and disgusting. People don't need to wear someone else's skin - this is not the stone age!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathleen Lewis

Ms. AnnaSue Marczynski

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. A lie doesn't fix the wrong!!

Sincerely,
Ms. AnnaSue Marczynski

Miss Glenda Butler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please please take action The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Glenda Butler

Mrs. Coleen Hanshaw

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. What, and who do we think we are that these and any other animal on our planet are here for humans to abuse and misuse as they please. Abuse is abuse, it needs to stop and one way is to not allow furs trades along with other products into this country that are inhumanly treated and processed.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Coleen Hanshaw

Ms. Carm Derrico

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I Never Buy Fur!

Sincerely,
Ms. Carm Derrico

Mrs. Elz Rittmeyer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Fur is neanderthal and inhumane, both for the animals and the people who have jobs in that devastatingly cruel and sickening trade. This world should no longer "need" fur as an industry. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the Live Skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. They are dogs. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. With sincerest wishes, Elizabeth Rittmeyer

Sincerely,
Mrs. Elz Rittmeyer

Dr. Christina Danilov

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It's totally uncivilized how China is treating animal in general, But this case is atrocious! Something has to be done! Not just showing extremely small cages where bears and other animals are kept, or the insane taste for exotic animals that might be even endangered species. But, unfortunately, mighty China is in charge and does not care a bit!

Sincerely,
Dr. Christina Danilov

Mr. Terry Cosban

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Why are they trying to mislead the consumer... come on you know why.....;{... They are dogs and people are skinning them...only trying to be called something different to trick people....My lab looked like a little brown bear when she was a pup...but she was a dog.... We referenced her as a cub...but she developed into an obvious dog..... .... do not let people be misled... ....if they want to wear a dog skin...well that is their choice.( although a disgusting one)..but make sure they know what they are wearing...Our country is very careful about making sure the public is not misled in areas of food products and medicine...why should this be different...make them be truthful and let the consumer make an educated choice.... thank you for your consideration Terry

Sincerely,
Mr. Terry Cosban

Mr. Aaron Morell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation, now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please, represent the better side of nature, the compassionate side, and make sure this horrific practice is not misrepresented.

Sincerely,
Mr. Aaron Morell

Mrs. ESTHER ALVARADO

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop the importation of these goods!

Sincerely,

Mrs. ESTHER ALVARADO

Ms. Kathy Meissen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. It's bad enough that wild animals are killed for their fur to make fashion statements. This is totally inhumane what is happening to an animal that is not even been called by its correct name.

Please please get this right. No one in their right mind would buy an article of clothing made with "dog" fur if they knew it was truly "dog" fur. Get this corrected and make China do what is humanly responsible. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathy Meissen

Ms. Jenefer Lass

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jenefer Lass

Ms. Natalie Laneve

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I'm going to boycott this country and stop working because I am not okay with my tax dollars going towards your paycheck when you're allowing these things to go on. You are sick and twisted for being okay with this. Remember, Karma will come back to get you. If you're going to allow these horrific practices to go on then you will probably end up one of these dogs in your next life, skinned alive. Sleep well tonight.

Sincerely,
Ms. Natalie Laneve

Ms. Linda Joo

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I have not nor will I ever buy any product from any asian country until they stop brutalizing animals.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Joo

Ms. D Brenton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry is heartless, evil and corrupt-- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" to deceive consumers! They are unlikely to make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, classify raccoon dogs as being members of the canidae (dog) family. Do the right thing and do not allow these animal abusers one extra inch of rope to hang their evil deeds upon.

Sincerely,
Ms. D Brenton

Mrs. Cindy Essendrup

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. PLEASE help so that these innocent animals are not slaughtered!! Thank you.

Sincerely, Cindy Essendrup

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cindy Essendrup

Ms. mary pratt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Look at the sweet face!

Sincerely,
Ms. mary pratt

Mrs. Vickie Ehst

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please take a moment to think about how these animals needlessly suffer; take a moment to truly think about it, and how you'd feel if a creature you loved suffered the same way, and do something. Sincerely, Vickie Ehst

Sincerely,
Mrs. Vickie Ehst

Mrs. Shanna Davis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Fur trade practices are hideous and should not be supported.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shanna Davis

Mrs. Heidi Palider

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Dog or raccoon, it's still cruel to be skinned alive.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Heidi Palider

Mrs. Kaethy Kennedy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please help to be more humane, it is all that defines us as humans....

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kaethy Kennedy

Ms. Leslie Hester

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The Federal Trade Commission should follow suit and require the fur industry to do the same.

Sincerely,
Ms. Leslie Hester

Ms. Suzanna Russo

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Killing any animal for its fur is cruel and unnecessary.

Sincerely,
Ms. Suzanna Russo

Mrs. Sally Holtz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I would also like to say that it's cruel beyond words to hear about skinning an animal alive. Don't do that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sally Holtz

Ms. Deborah Pellham

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And I might add that it should be illegal to obtain or sell or wear any fur!

Sincerely,
Ms. Deborah Pellham

Ms. Caren Stiver

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Caren Stiver

Sincerely,
Ms. Caren Stiver

Mrs. Shari Hamilton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under any name other than its real name so consumers won't have a clear understanding of what they are buying. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Proper labeling in all things please.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shari Hamilton

Ms. Debbie Ellis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. No animal should be used to make fur anything for humans, and skinning alive is a horrific practice practiced by only the basest of human beings.

Sincerely,
Ms. Debbie Ellis

Mrs. Yolanda Parraz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. How can a human being be so cruel. Do these people who hurt and kill these beautiful animals not have a soul? a heart? a brain? I have asked myself these questions so so so many times and the only plausible answer is no. And if you are not willing to stop this, then i would be correct to say that you also dont have a soul, brain, or heart.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Yolanda Parraz

Mr. Brett Schock

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur companies have a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the (raccoon) family. Reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Brett Schock

Mrs. Linda Bennett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Skinning ANY animals alive is horrific, immoral and should be outlawed! I am not advocating that we cease to use all animal products, but humanity and honesty in labeling HAS to be a priority here. What the fur industry is doing to these poor animals is akin to calling severe child abuse "a little discipline." Please at the very least require them to come clean about what this fur really is and how they are getting it. My mother always told me if you're not doing anything you consider wrong you should be proud to tell people what you are doing. What does the industry's hiding the true nature of this fur tell you? Even they know it's wrong.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Bennett

Ms. frances schuster

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Skinned Alive??!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. frances schuster

Mrs. DD Kroesch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This whole process needs to be stopped! No animal should be subject to this in any way.

Sincerely,
Mrs. DD Kroesch

Mrs. Linda Moran

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I think that people who remove fur from racoon's or dogs and in this case racoon dogs (Asiatic Racoons) and wear it are some of the most ignorant or morally corrupt people I can imagine. To do that to a racoon is shameful. Often they are skinned alive as they are half bludgeoned.. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please America, get your act together and stop being such terrible animal rights abusers by clamping down on this inhuman practice and educating your citizens.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Moran

Mrs. colette woolley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Skinning them alive???...How bad do you want fur???...At the expense of hurting or killing animals???...For shame...shame-shame...I'morry for you...You need help...God help you even though you don't deserve it.

Sincerely,
Mrs. colette woolley

Dr. Brenna Galdenzi

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Don't allow people to be misled to satisfy the cruel fur industry! People deserve to know the truth. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. Brenna Galdenzi

Mrs. Kathy White

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Skinning animals alive for fur is one of the great horrors in the world. Please do not assist China in its effort to mask the fact that they are torturing dogs and selling their fur to Americans. The Raccoon dog is a true dog, not a raccoon. Eliminating the word "dog" from the fur label is misleading and immoral.
Sincerely, Kathy White

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kathy White

Mrs. Carol Boyd

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. PLEASE SEE THAT THIS INHUMANE AND CRUEL HABIT OF SKINNING THESE POOR CREATURES ALIVE, IS STOPPED. IT IS A HORRID FORM OF TORTURE TO INNOCENT, DEFENSELESS ANIMALS

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carol Boyd

Ms. Sharon McBride

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. As a voter I urge you to require honest labeling on all fur products.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sharon McBride

Ms. Kathleen Go

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please see that the devious intent to conceal the true origin of the fur, from raccoon dogs, is not allowed. This is a transparent, disgraceful attempt to mislead consumers. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathleen Go

Mrs. Maria Lott

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Hello, This information is VERY disturbing. Although I don't agree with wearing fur, people have the right to wear fur if they choose. However, please do not misrepresent Raccoon Dogs. Don't we kill enough animals for their fur? Why add to it these poor dogs? Thanks Maria Lott

Sincerely,
Mrs. Maria Lott

Miss Denise Sandulescu

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. YOU ARE TERRIBLE, TERRIBLE PEOPLE!!!!

Sincerely,
Miss Denise Sandulescu

Ms. Sandy El Hage

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers will not make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The unfair labeling of raccoon dog as "Asiatic raccoon" is highly misleading, and above all misinformed. It is unfortunate that our government will stand to allow sectors for profit to exploit our ignorance. Thus, this debacle is concerned on the grounds for animal welfare, and most overtly for transparency. In the United States of America, our society values transparency as an integral virtue of democracy. Without the structure of transparency, we cannot make sound, informed decisions for ourselves and the wellbeing of our families. Please consider the ethic behind revealing information of the fur trade to our citizenry. The fur-trade is no secret, and a great many coalitions work to expel its unethical treatment of our animal friends. But as our governmental body, it is the responsibility upon you to practice good governance and stand as an example for corporate America to transparent of its practices. I was given a coat as a gift for the winter season by my parents. Along the rim of the coat hood was a lining of "Asiatic raccoon fur". This lining of animal fur ultimately served no distinct purpose. In discovering the true contents of the fur's origin, I became appalled over the skinning and murder of an innocent animal for the sole purpose of using the "raccoon" for a decorative purpose. Please, do not allow the tradition of deceit to continue for the purpose of pure profit. Thank you for taking the time to address our desire for real transparency. Sincerely, Sandy El Hage

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandy El Hage

Mrs. carol siek

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Lets call a spade a spade, or a dog a dog. Fake fur is the only way to go!

Sincerely,
Mrs. carol siek

Mrs. Salina Clyde

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Furthermore, no creature (dog or racoon) should ever be subject to 'live skinnings'. Any person capable of such atrocities needs help and legal recourse.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Salina Clyde

Mrs. Michelle Jung

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Furthermore, why are these animals being skinned alive? Isn't it unnecessary enough that we are using other animals skin to dress ourselves without making it happen in such a cruel way? All reputable governmental and scientific s, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Michelle Jung

Mrs. Dona LaSchiava

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. STOP THE LIES - STOP ANIMAL TORTURE! For Christ's Sake - GET EVOLVED!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dona LaSchiava

Ms. Margaret Kelty

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. As a consumer, I believe I have a right to know what I'm purchasing so that I can avoid supporting practices that I find morally objectionable. Margaret Kelty

Sincerely,
Ms. Margaret Kelty

Mrs. KAREN GUILLORY

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. PLEASE CALL THIS POOR ANIMAL BY IT'S NAME..EVEN BETTER PLEASE STOP SLAUGHTERING THEM.

Sincerely,
Mrs. KAREN GUILLORY

Miss Andrea Martinez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Skinning live animals is horrifying! It is not ok to put an animal through that kind of brutal torture. You shouldn't be skinning a dog or a raccoon! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Andrea Martinez

Miss Deanna Viletto

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. This is a disgusting practice, and all that are part of it should be penalized. It should not matter whether the animal is a dog, raccoon, or pig. No cruelty should be done to these innocent babies. Fix this problem. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Deanna Viletto

Mrs. Bevin Barrett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This sounds like such a cruel practice of skinning an animal alive. Please do what you can to help prevent this.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Bevin Barrett

Ms. Vanessa Palafox

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Let us NOT lower the standard of decency for the sake of personal gain! Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon..."

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let us NOT lower the standard of decency for the sake of personal gain!

Sincerely,
Ms. Vanessa Palafox

Ms. Jessica Nelson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. It is inconceivable that acts like this go on in the world and that organizations such as yours are considering further endorsement of this behavior. I'm sure you have your own reasons for considering this renaming, but please do the right thing ethically and humanely speaking - these animals do not have a voice of their own despite having a God-given right to live on this planet. Protect them as only man can.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jessica Nelson

Ms. BARBARA RODRIGUEZ

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Barbara Rodriguez

Sincerely,

Ms. BARBARA RODRIGUEZ

Mrs. Cynthia Sandberg

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Accurate fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like “Asiatic raccoon” and “Finn raccoon” are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. While I wouldn't want to purchase a product with racoon or racoon dog fur, people should know. Nothing should be masked. Thanks for your attention to this.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cynthia Sandberg

Mr. Roger Bruneau

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There's no need to use real animal fur for anything any more.

Sincerely,
Mr. Roger Bruneau

Mr. James Brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, James Brown

Sincerely,
Mr. James Brown

Mrs. Roni OConnell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I'm counting on you to protect these dogs. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Roni OConnell

Ms. Laura Warne

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Or better yet, enforce a more humane fur industry for all animals unfortunate enough to be falling victim to it.

Sincerely,
Ms. Laura Warne

Ms. Laurie Paquin-Leet

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And personally, I consider it heinous that we allow any fur-bearing animal to be skinned alive and incomprehensible that humans adorn themselves w/ real fur when faux fur can be equally warm and acceptable for fashion. Further, consumers should be told the truth as to exactly what animal was used to process the product they are purchasing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Laurie Paquin-Leet

Ms. Syndi Chesser

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. *** And beyond that, regardless of the animal species and how it is identified, the cruelty of the fur trade is well-documented. I will go to my grave, in fact, still seeing in my mind the horrific images of animals "routinely" being skinned alive in China -- videos I viewed years ago and which haunt me to this day. How can any of us turn our backs on such unbridled cruelty? *** Will you please do a bit to help ease the suffering of so many of our furry friends? Thank you!

Sincerely,
Ms. Syndi Chesser

Mr. Ray Balconis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I can't believe anyone is even considering this in these modern times. This is a barbaric idea, we are not in the 18th century anymore, it is 2012 for Christ's sake. Compounded by the fact that live skinning is often employed, any American should be ashamed to even consider such a measure. Sincerely, Ray Balconis

Sincerely,
Mr. Ray Balconis

Mr. Stephen brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Steve Brown

Sincerely,
Mr. Stephen brown

Dr. Beverly Fykes

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. If people in the USA knew that raccoon dogs were being skinned alive so that they could have a fur trim on their clothing, how many would want the practice to continue? Please do not allow the fur industry to hide the cruel and senseless treatment of raccoon dogs under the guise of them being "asiatic raccoons." Raccoon dog fur should be called raccoon dog fur. Anything else is false and misleading advertising. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Dr. Beverly Fykes

Ms. Shirley Cooper

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. PLEASE CALL A SPECIES BY IT'S "CORRECT" NAME SO CONSUMERS WILL KNOW IT IS IN FACT "FUR" AND ALSO THAT THE CHINESE BARBARICALLY PREFER TO SKIN IT "ALIVE"!!!! IN FACT, INSTEAD OF NAMING THE SPECIES - JUST PUT "BARBARICALLY SKINNED ALIVE" ON THE BLOODY LABEL!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Shirley Cooper

Mrs. Toni Fitzgerald

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Toni Fitzgerald

Sincerely,
Mrs. Toni Fitzgerald

Ms. Donna Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. JUST DO WHAT IS RIGHT!

Sincerely,
Ms. Donna Smith

Ms. Linda Braydon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Linda Braydon

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Braydon

Mrs. Laura Guarnieri

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. If every consumer of fur jackets, vests and fur collars knew about the cruelty, they would steer clear of these fur products and tell others to do the same. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Consumers are probably unaware of the cruelty in China, where these dogs are prized for their fur coats only and the pain inflicted on these innocent animals is hardly given a thought. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Heaven help these suffering animals and all who endeavor to help them.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Laura Guarnieri

Miss Nahdxyeli Valdez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. For life's sake! They are dogs! If people insist on buying fur, at least be professional enough to give them an accurate description of what they are buying: dog fur.

Sincerely,
Miss Nahdxyeli Valdez

Mrs. Shannon Luman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shannon Luman

Mrs. Earlene McGuire

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you for taking the time to read this and taking the time to consider letting these animals live and not be harmed so people can wear unnecessary fur.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Earlene McGuire

Ms. Janet Martin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon dogs are dogs and should be identified accordingly to protect consumers and the dogs

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Consumers should not be duped into purchasing items that they would not otherwise purchase but for the misrepresentation in labeling. Americans have a long history of respect, admiration, and love for members of the dog family. It isn't fair to mislead them into purchasing items they believe to be unrelated to canidae (dogs).

Sincerely,
Ms. Janet Martin

Mrs. Dianne Williams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Animal abuse like this should not be tolerated - and certainly not 'approved' by successful marketing lies. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dianne Williams

Mr. Mike Potter

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Some more factual information follows below, but let me clearly express my personal opinion when it comes to fur and those who wear it. Wearing fur coats and/or other clothing accessories that utilize fur is flat out WRONG, especially when you consider the inhuman and profit-driven manner in which fur-producing animals are treated. If it was up to me, fur would be OUTLAWED since synthetic materials can now be produced and utilized. At the very least, animals whose fur is utilized should be treated in the MOST humane and ethical manner possible. I VOTE ON THESE ISSUES. PLEASE KEEP THAT IN MIND AS YOU DECIDE TO VOTE ON THIS ISSUE. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mike Potter

Ms. Joyce Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please do all you can to help us consumers when we try to buy within specific guidelines, some things I don't want in my house let alone on my skin. Accurate labeling would be helpful and what we have the right to expect. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joyce Jones

Mrs. Shawna Noble

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please help these cute little animals be there voice.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shawna Noble

Ms. Pamela Beaupre

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels! They are in the Canine family, not the Raccoon ...

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. The fact that the Fur Trade is still allowed at all is amazing; let's not add additional lies and misrepresentations to their list of cruelty. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Pamela Beaupre

Ms. P PERRON

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I have written the Chinese Consulate to tell them that they should forbid the ancient and totally incorrect practice that skinning an animal alive results in improved skins. It is an ignorant and inexplicitly cruel practice, and the millions of animals so skinned should receive their sincerest apology, even if only as offering to the present and future animals. Better yet: no more fur trade.

Sincerely,
Ms. P PERRON

Ms. Mary Elek

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. It's cheating when you try to hide what you are doing by calling it a different name. Cheating your customers, and cheating the animals. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Elek

Ms. Cathy Tucci

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cathy Tucci

Mrs. Cheri Riggs

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is an abominable act, not just for the raccoon dog but for any creature skinned alive for their fur. Any person or group caught doing this should be prosecuted (or themselves persecuted) to the fullest extent possible.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cheri Riggs

Mrs. Peggy Theriault

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do your part to stop this horror. Thank you. Peggy Theriault

Sincerely,
Mrs. Peggy Theriault

Ms. Meredith Page

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There cannot be anything more cruel than what is happening to these dogs. Please help stop this terrible crime. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Meredith Page

Mrs. TRACY LEWIS

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There is enough killing for skins or for "medicinal purposes". in other words, for no credible reason, other than greed. Do NOT allow these animals to be skinned under false pretenses. Just let them live in peace.

Sincerely,
Mrs. TRACY LEWIS

Ms. Cretia Prout

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And, the live skinning and other abuses of these dogs should not be condoned nor allowed. Means should be taken to dissuade companies from buying and using this fur and consumers from buying products made from it. Sincerely, Cretia Prout

Sincerely,
Ms. Cretia Prout

Ms. Carolyn Taylor

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". They want to make sure that consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. We need truth in labeling for the fur industry. Require them to be honest -- it's DOG FUR and the label needs to say that. This deceptive labeling practice must be prohibited.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carolyn Taylor

Mr. Daniel Helsel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Americans have a right to know the facts. Let the consumers decide based on the truth.. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mr. Daniel Helsel

Mrs. Harriet Klein

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. This is a misrepresentation to deliberately deceive consumers. While our culture finds cruelty to dogs abhorrent, under the name "Asiatic raccoon", it is hopeful that consumers won't find the killing and abuse of this animal so horrific. This is an exercise in the machinations and marketing strategy of a very, very cruel industry. That is the only purpose of changing labeling. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Harriet Klein

Ms. Haleene Williams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry wants to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. People have the right to know the truth. Please stop the consumer ignorance of slaughtered animals, and tell them what they are wearing this season.

Sincerely,
Ms. Haleene Williams

Ms. Carrie Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I can't imagine anyone conciously buying dog fur. Please don't allow them to misrepresent what they're doing and manipulate people. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carrie Smith

Ms. Kitty Lien

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Kitty Lien

Sincerely,
Ms. Kitty Lien

Ms. Annie McMahan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. For SHAME for SHAME, for bloody SHAME

Sincerely,
Ms. Annie McMahan

Mr. JESS FRIEDMAN

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely JESS FRIEDMAN

Sincerely,
Mr. JESS FRIEDMAN

Mrs. Sue Hargis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. No matter what they are called, this inhumane treatment of any animal is abhorant and should be stopped! All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sue Hargis

Mrs. Susan Murphy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And while we're at it, lets ban skinning dogs alive. Sincerely, Susan Murphy

Sincerely,
Mrs. Susan Murphy

Ms. Elayne Shelton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Dear Madame / Sir: Please please listen to many reputable governmental and scientific resources, and require the fur industry to correctly label the racoon dogs as members of the dog family (which they are!) and not deceptively as asiatic raccoons. This is horrible misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product and prevent consumers from knowing that dogs are being skinned alive and abused. Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels. People should know that they are sporting fur at the terrible expense of man's best friend. Sincerely, Elayne Shelton

Sincerely,
Ms. Elayne Shelton

Ms. Michele Mattingly

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Force Apparel Manufacturers to Tell the Truth

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like “Asiatic raccoon” and “Finn raccoon” are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Apparel manufacturers shouldn't be allowed to deceive consumers. Products made with dogs' fur should be clearly identified as such.

Sincerely,
Ms. Michele Mattingly

Ms. robin hernandez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. All fur should be left on the animals not on people. Live skinning is a totally disgusting act of cruelty.

Sincerely,
Ms. robin hernandez

Ms. Emily Gambir

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I urge you to please take a stand against this totally unnecessary cruelty servicing only vanity and superficial wants.

Sincerely,
Ms. Emily Gambir

Ms. Chris Kidd

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The Federal Trade Commission must stop proposing that raccoon dog fur be called the misleading and inaccurate "Asiatic raccoon" -- making it hard for consumers and retailers to know that this is the same animal whose mistreatment is so well documented. Please act humanely on behalf of animals who have no voice.

Sincerely,
Ms. Chris Kidd

Mrs. Amy Gyllborg

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Better yet, why don't we ban the fur industry all together? Will all of the modern technologies and new materials we have available nowadays, there is no longer any reason for a human to skin an animal to keep warm. No excuses.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Amy Gyllborg

Ms. Jennifer Campbell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is disgusting & if they want to label it fake fur then use man-made fur NOT dead animals! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Campbell

Ms. Carol Tomlinson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Each person has the right to know exactly the content of a material in their fashion. We deserve to know if we are wearing dog on their collars, in their boots, or any where in their fashion. The practice of skinning dogs alive is more cruel than words can describe. The United States citizens deserve the truth. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Tomlinson

Mrs. Kathleen Bolles

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels - And don't buy fur...PERIOD.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. First - Don't promote the fur trade - aka animal abuse. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Regardless of the name - the animals are skinned alive and should be protected from this horrible crime. Please do not promote fur sales - by not buying fur in the first place. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kathleen Bolles

Dr. S. Cassell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you for your attention in this important matter! Regards, Sabine Cassell

Sincerely,
Dr. S. Cassell

Mrs. Betty Buck

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please, please, please let people know what the truth is. All of us deserve and should have the right to know exactly what we may be supporting by purchasing a product made from the fur of this animal. This is an extremely cruel trade and the least that the Federal Trade Commission could do is to ensure that the true origin of the fur be published! All animals deserve humane treatment, but quite often many people have no idea what happens to animals in factories through out the world. What a cruel, cruel world we live in. I, with all my heart, hope that we can change someday in the future. Please support the truth, please do the job right, that is your job.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Betty Buck

Mr. Casey Terminello

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. SKINNED ALIVE????????? YOU MUST STOP THIS!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mr. Casey Terminello

Ms. Judy Teich

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please take this issue seriously. Judy Teich

Sincerely,
Ms. Judy Teich

Ms. camille abbe

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. NOT THAT ANY ANIMAL SHOULD BE LIVE SKINNED!!! All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. camille abbe

Mrs. Carolyn Town

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And I am horrified by the thought of any animal being skinned alive so that someone can wear their fur. I'm ashamed of my fellow man for such cruelty no matter if it's a raccoon or a dog.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carolyn Town

Ms. Tammy Fenske

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its disgusting & cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tammy Fenske

Ms. Sally Vaughn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. With all the nice fake fur these days, Why O' Why are they killing beautiful animals??? Some people are really SICK!!! Yours sincerely, Sally Vaughn

Sincerely,
Ms. Sally Vaughn

Ms. Kittie Hanson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Surely such a barbaric practice cannot continue. At least make them call it what it is.
Sincerely Kittie Hanson

Sincerely,
Ms. Kittie Hanson

Mrs. Nilkanthi Nicholas

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do not pass this order - I cannot believe that an educated government and country will allow such a dastardly acts to be committed. It is so sad that man can commit such atrocious acts of inhumanity on defenseless animals such as these who cannot speak for themselves. AND FOR WHAT!!!! Please use the power you have for the good of all creatures but do not watch and pass legislation and stop this inane slaughter Thank you Sirs/Madams for your kindness. Yours sincerely, Nilkanthi Nicholas

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nilkanthi Nicholas

Mr. Dennis Lyday

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Purveyors of animal skins in any form clearly have little conscience regarding the live creatures they slaughter for the most trivial decorative purposes. At the same time, they clearly realize that American consumers have a significant level of emotional attachment for dogs, which we see as loving companion animals. Therefore, they hope to sidestep this inconvenient emotionality by lying about the source of this particular pelt. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Dennis Lyday

Dr. Genevieve Cerf

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I am becoming increasingly disgusted with the abominable animal cruelty perpetrated by the Chinese... Elephant slaughter for ivory trinkets, shark slaughter for shark fin soup, manta ray slaughter, rhino slaughter, and now skinning dogs alive... I am really going to make an extra effort NOT to buy anything Chinese ever again.

Sincerely,
Dr. Genevieve Cerf

Miss Colleen O'Callahan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. On top of this - STOP SKINNING ANIMALS FOR YOUR FASHION. It doesn't matter if it's a raccoon, a dog, a llama or a snake. THEY NEED THEIR COATS MUCH MORE THAN ANYONE ELSE.

Sincerely,
Miss Colleen O'Callahan

Ms. Judy Gorham

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. You should call an animal by its rightful name, however, to me the issue here is the fact that these animals are being skinned alive! No animal should be subjected to this horrific cruelty!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Judy Gorham

Mrs. DEBRA LINARI

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. NO ANIMAL should be killed for their fur and NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE SKINNED ALIVE! What year are we in?? Of course let the consumer be aware of the true name of the dead animal they are buying. Lets STOP buying any product made from animal fur!

Sincerely,
Mrs. DEBRA LINARI

Ms. Sari Remer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. The Chinese are the worst abusers skinning dogs and cats alive for their fur and this must be stopped. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sari Remer

Mrs. Virginia Roberts

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Siberian raccoon dogs are becoming as rare as Siberian tigers; is the FTC so out of touch that they'll start allowing tigers to be turned into garment trim? It is time for the FTC to take a stand for the humane treatment of animals, and tell the truth! It is absolutely wrong to torture animals and to support these cruel practices by using inaccurate trade names. I am absolutely disgusted with the FTC and will demand that our government make them accountable and demand that they tell the truth.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Virginia Roberts

Ms. Jamie Trinkkeller

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Use wool for Christ sakes there is no need to harm an animal or use it's fur or meat. You can become a Veegan which will make you healthier and lose weight. Wear wool it is the animals coat but it has to be sheared anyway for the animals comfort. It is time to move out of the dark ages where they went hunting for the families dinner. That is not necessary today there are so many alternatives. It is time to stop all of this and ladies if you did not buy fur the animals would live in peace. As I always say supply and demand. If you think furs make you admired because you are rich and famous. I think you are a poor excuse for a human being, and may be ignorant to how that fur coat was made or maybe you just don't care. I think anyone buying furs are just as guilty as the ones selling them. Much like the dog fights would there be a match if the seats were empty. AGAIN SUPPLY & DEMAND !!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jamie Trinkkeller

Ms. Karen Schechner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. If you don't want to imagine a dog being skinned alive and that it may be your fault, please call a dog a dog.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Schechner

Ms. Judith Butts

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Judy Butts

Sincerely,
Ms. Judith Butts

Ms. Maya Campbell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do whatever it takes to stop this horrible practice. I can't believe that anyone is still willing to buy and wear fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Maya Campbell

Ms. Genius Anonymous

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry is evil. Evil persons. Will. Go down!

Sincerely,
Ms. Genius Anonymous

Ms. Karen Hill

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. You certainly wouldn't want your family dog whether it is a cute small Jack Russell Terrier or a bigger Samoyd or even German Shepherd to be skinned 'alive so some stranger could wear that skin as a coat, would you? These Raccoon Dogs feel things just like any other living animal. We have laws requiring at least a painless as possible death even in slaughter houses that prepare the meat we eat. Why would we support any less humane treatment for some people to wear dog fur? All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Hill

Ms. Susan Mathews

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. This is a new low, why would this be allowed !

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Mathews

Mrs. cynthia arnott

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. They are dogs, just like Fido and Spot, not asiatic raccoons, Call it what it is!

Sincerely,
Mrs. cynthia arnott

Ms. Amy E Towner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Respectfully, Amy E Towner

Sincerely,
Ms. Amy E Towner

Ms. Christina Howell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. You KNOW this is wrong and deceptive, so don't allow it.

Sincerely,
Ms. Christina Howell

Ms. Kimberly Reeves

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Seeking to adopt an inaccurate names suggests there is concern in the industry that calling the animals by their proper name would negatively influence sales. Consumers have a right to know what it is they are purchasing. Industries should not be permitted to dupe their customers. In order for the free market to function properly, consumers should be able to "vote with their dollar." The idea of consumer choice that underpins our free market economy is undermined when consumers are misled as to the practices they are supporting. Sincerely yours, Kimberly B. Reeves

Sincerely,
Ms. Kimberly Reeves

Ms. Karen Fieg

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I just saw a PBS film last night about Siberian Tigers being poached in China. It is horrendous! But they also showed the raccoon dog - please please do not allow the name to be changed so more of these helpless dogs will be slaughtered alive. Karen Fieg

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Fieg

Mrs. sandra watts

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. If you allow this horrible name to stand you are as guilty of animal abuse as michael vick, shame on you. Stop this inhumane import of these poor animals from china. If you don't you need to look in the mirror and at you children and grandchildren and ask forgiveness for mistreating an animal like to chinese do.

Sincerely,
Mrs. sandra watts

Mr. Matteo Simon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Matteo Simon

Sincerely,
Mr. Matteo Simon

Mrs. Virginia Caine

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I would hate to have purchased something like this to find out later I had been lied to. Please change the name so consumers can know what they are putting their money into.

Sincerely, Virginia Caine

Sincerely,
Mrs. Virginia Caine

Ms. Paula Wallace

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It doesn't matter what animal it is - dog or cat or whatever. China also steals people's pets to harvest their fur. They skin them alive and it is horrendous. I cannot begin to imagine and don't want to begin to imagine. All fur should be banned. It only looks good on the animal born with it. On a human it looks stupid and makes me think that person must be a psychopath. Google Raccoon Dog and look at the heartbreaking picture of the pile of dogs skinned alive and the latest lying on top looking at the camera. They don't die right away. Just horrific and should be illegal.

Sincerely,
Ms. Paula Wallace

Mrs. Kathryn Mary Stahl

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I am against killing healthy animals for their fur for decoration on our clothing. I am against promoting the use of fur or animal hide in clothing, handbags, etc. I am totally against misnaming the source animal when fur or hide is used in clothing or in any product. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kathryn Mary Stahl

Mr. JAMES BRODERICK

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I personally will not buy anything that is made from the fur of ANY animal. JAMES H. BRODERICK

Sincerely,
Mr. JAMES BRODERICK

Ms. Lydia Sheridan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please continue to use the term 'raccoon dog' to accurately represent the type of fur being used, whether it be advertisements or on clothing labels.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lydia Sheridan

Ms. colleen smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I STAND BY EVERY WORD IN THIS LETTER 100%, PLUS!!!!!!!!!!!!. VERY SINCERELY, COLLEEN SMITH

Sincerely,
Ms. colleen smith

Mrs. Caroline Loder

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. No animals should have to endure the awful suffering that the raccoon dog has to endure...this whole thing is despicably and it doesn't matter what the name of the animal is, it shouldn't matter....killing ANY animal for fur is unnecessary. We don't live in the stone age...there are alternatives to killing animals for fur! All people that wear fur, make money off of the fur industry, kill the poor animals are filthy human beings not even worthy of the reference to them as being humans.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Caroline Loder

Mrs. Kerry Lovell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. How difficult is it to do the RIGHT thing?? Why are you out to create another "illegall type" trade?? Why torture more animals?? Are you animal haters?? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kerry Lovell

Mr. Richard Neubert

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. THIS SHOULD BE ONE OF THE EASIEST DECISIONS THE FTC HAS EVER MADE! YOU WOULD THINK: WHO THE HECK WOULD BE CRAZY ENOUGH TO VOTE TO ALLOWING THE FUR INDUSTRY TO DIGUISING NAMES TO "ASIATIC RACCOON or FINN RACCOON" JUST SO THEY CAN PRODUCE MORE DIRTY PROFITS. Please lets show our kids we care.

Sincerely,
Mr. Richard Neubert

Ms. SUSAN KOSMOSKI

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. CONSUMERS HAVE THE RIGHT TO KNOW!

Sincerely,
Ms. SUSAN KOSMOSKI

Mr. Bill Lea

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. PLEASE, let's not make it any easier to be cruel to these dogs than the fur industry already is. Most of us have owned a dog from one time or another. Can you imagine your dog being killed or even worse, skinned alive for its fur? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Bill Lea

Mrs. Patricia Lerch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is my personal belief that trapping any animal for its fur should not be allowed. It causes SO much suffering...and the poor raccoon dog is among them.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Patricia Lerch

Dr. Aileen O'Donoghue

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. In the United States we have been fairly successful at eliminating the cruel and exploitive fur industry. However, the fur industry is not giving up and is seeking to sell the fur of a canine, a dog as "Asiatic raccoon" so as to fool people who would never consider wearing dog fur into buying this fur. It is appallingly misleading. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. Aileen O'Donoghue

Ms. Robin Lindsey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This in no way implies that it is acceptable to use any animal, even a true raccoon, to supply fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Robin Lindsey

Ms. ann kreagwr

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called &quot;raccoon dog&quot; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like “Asiatic raccoon” and “Finn raccoon” are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This should be a simple matter. Please provide correct information so people can make an informed decision.

Sincerely,
Ms. ann kreagwr

Ms. d m martin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Thank you so very much! :-) The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. d m martin

Mrs. angelika curtis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. i dont believe in wearing real animal fur at all...and the people that skin an animal alive should be shot .

Sincerely,
Mrs. angelika curtis

Dr. Scott James

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I've seen videos of these animals being skinned alive in markets in China -- I, for one, would want to know what I was buying.

Sincerely,
Dr. Scott James

Mrs. Linda Francisco

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is barbaric treatment of any animal.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Francisco

Ms. Roxanne Bruno

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please do the right thing and label clothing properly. The consumer market will then determine whether there is any further need for racoon DOG fur in human clothing. Thank you for your time and attention to this crucial issue.

Sincerely,
Ms. Roxanne Bruno

Ms. Marsha McLaughlin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. What a horrific way to provide fur for garments. Stop this horrible abuse of raccoon dogs! Sincerely, Marsha McLaughlin

Sincerely,
Ms. Marsha McLaughlin

Mr. Stephan Kopacz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The very fact that they are pursuing this is telling in and of itself. Consumers must make their choices based on the truth.

Sincerely,
Mr. Stephan Kopacz

Dr. Pauline Fani

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. As a physician and most importantly a human being, I believe it is horrific enough that the fur industry exists and continues cruel torture of animals for their fur. Furthermore, the fur industry has a long history of misclassification and miser representation of animals particularly the raccoon dog In order to sell its cruel product. The worst part is that this industry now wishes to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. It is a fact that Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is a crime to misrepresent and can result in lawful action. Please do not allow this illegal misrepresentation of the raccoon dog and facilitation of further animal cruelty.

Sincerely,
Dr. Pauline Fani

Mr. Martin Obin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" or even 'faux fur' so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Martin Obin

Ms. Beth Leeming

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please don't allow this misrepresentation to continue. Thank you for your time regarding this important matter.

Sincerely,
Ms. Beth Leeming

Mrs. Hayley Cochran

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. It is so sad and disgusting that this is going on anywhere in the world. Nothing should ever have to go through pain like that. It sickens me to think that a poor animal has to be tortured for someone to make a buck. This should be illegal!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Hayley Cochran

Ms. Robin Sparks

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I am begging anyone who reads this and can do something to please, please stop making it easy for the fur industry to use fur from dogs or any other animal. We don't need to use animals' fur for fashion. It belongs to the animal not us! Why do humans constantly want to destroy and tear down what nature creates? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Robin Sparks

Dr. bruce fowler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Sincerely,
Dr. bruce fowler

Mrs. Anne Sherogan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The Chinese don't seem to have an scruples regarding animal welfare. Skinning a creature while it is alive is horrendous. I hope that people will be aware of the fact that this creature is in fact a dog, and will not purchase any garments with the other names. They skin cats also, and do indeed eat dogs! Awful.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Anne Sherogan

Mrs. Rebecca Katz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. PLEASE REQUIRE A RACCOON DOG TO BE CALLED RACCOON DOG ON FUR LABELS. PLEASE DO NOT ADD TO THE ILL TREATMENT AND MISREPRESENTATION OF THESE CANINES.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Rebecca Katz

Mr. Brad Archer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the raccoon family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Brad Archer

Ms. Krysta Tulenko

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. With the world being more educated than ever before, there should be no reason what so ever for ANY of our products to be mislabeled. This is a sign of extreme disrespect against the consumers. If any business what so ever feels the need to mislabel or misrepresent their products, then they should be investigated and fined to the fullest extent of the law.

Sincerely,
Ms. Krysta Tulenko

Mr. Stephen stone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. WHATS THE MATTER WITH YOU PEOPLE,, THE CORRUPTION GOTTON DEEP INTO YOUR POCKETES I C....

Sincerely,
Mr. Stephen stone

Mr. Jeff Frantz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. We are all subject to God and his creatures include all living things on Earth. Please show them respect in his name. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mr. Jeff Frantz

Mrs. Mandy Kalin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. THIS IS AWFUL! MOST PEOPLE WOULD NOT KNOWINGLY BUY DOG FUR (HAIR). IT IS EXCEEDINGLY DECEPTIVE CALLING A DOG A RACCOON. MOST PEOPLE DON'T EVEN WANT ANY REAL FUR.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mandy Kalin

Mr. Michael Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: You MUST require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Do your job, don't let the fur industry use a fake name for Raccoon Dog.

Sincerely,
Mr. Michael Smith

Mrs. Diane Recardo

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please stop slaughtering beautiful innocent animals for their fur. They are killed in the most barbaric way. They deserve to live just like we do. We have synthetic fabrics and materials that are just as good to keep us warm and make us look fashionable. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Diane Recardo

Ms. Judith Daigle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. No animal should be skinned alive regardless of whether or not you support the use of fur. Please stop this cruelty. Thank you. Sincerely, Judith Daigle

Sincerely,
Ms. Judith Daigle

Ms. Erin Broderick

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please be HONEST in your labeling. Sincerely, Erin Broderick

Sincerely,
Ms. Erin Broderick

Ms. greta stifel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I AM SICK AND TIRED OF THE FASHION INDUSTRY DOING THIS TO INNOCENT ANIMALS! STOP IT...AND MAKE THESE COMPANIES THAT INHUMANELY TORTURE THESE INNOCENT VICTIMS THAT ARE PREY FOR THE FASION INDUSTRY. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. STOP THIS TORTURE AND KILLING NOW!!

Sincerely,
Ms. greta stifel

Ms. Felicia Dale

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Further more, though I eat meat, I will not buy new fur of any kind regardless of the species. If any cruelty is involved I am firmly against it for any reason. It's simply not necessary to be cruel! I am not against using every part of a meat animal- that only makes sense- but to kill an animal ONLY for its coat is no longer good animal husbandry. It's no longer a matter of survival, either. If I need something to keep me warm I'm happy with wool or synthetics. If I am not sure what species a bit of fur on a garment is I WILL NOT BUY IT, PERIOD, new or used.

Sincerely,
Ms. Felicia Dale

Mrs. Kay Duren

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. How awful that any animal would be skinned to support human vanity. Please do all you can to put an end to such cruelty. Thank you for all you do. Kay Duren

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kay Duren

Ms. Joyce Carlisle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And SHAME on anyone who wears ANY KIND of animal fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joyce Carlisle

Ms. Hannah Hurvitz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Hannah Hurvitz

Sincerely,
Ms. Hannah Hurvitz

Miss Eliza Hegwood

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. *****This is ridiculous!!!! LIVE SKINNING---ARE YOU SERIOUS? The animal cruelty has got to stop! Come on! I am so sick and tired of all the crap!!*****

Sincerely,
Miss Eliza Hegwood

Mrs. Jane Heltebrake

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. NO Animal should be skinned alived!!!! Period!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jane Heltebrake

Ms. dee dorazio

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Dee Dorazio

Sincerely,
Ms. dee dorazio

Ms. Cleone Stewart

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There are alternatives - we really do not need to take an animal's life to decorate our clothing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cleone Stewart

Ms. Sandi Hendrikse

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. No animal should be skinned alive for any reason, that is just unbelievably cruel and cannot be allowed. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandi Hendrikse

Ms. Diana Monnich

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. By the way - we need to stop this senseless killing anyway!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Diana Monnich

Mrs. Marsha Fisher

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. They should also be required to note on the label that the animal was killed using inhumane means. I am sure, however, that we would never reach that level of ethics. At the very minimum, the correct name for the source of the fur should be on the label.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marsha Fisher

Mr. Herbert Neu

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. These dogs are almost always skinned alive. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Herbert Neu

Mrs. Debra Morgan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Any fur obtained through such cruel practices should be outlawed at the United States border.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Debra Morgan

Dr. Tina Hess

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let's STOP THE CHINESE ABUSE AND TORTURE OF ANIMALS (DOGS) TO BE SOLD IN THE USA. It's past time we STOPPED this and hold ourselves and China accountable. It is BARBARIC.

Sincerely,
Dr. Tina Hess

Ms. alice booker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Why cant these things be done humanely i realized people have to make a living but to cause such pain to end a life is so cruel. One day karma is gonna rise up and bite these people in the butt and it will be hairless.....

Sincerely,
Ms. alice booker

Ms. Jole Rodriguez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Allow consumers to refuse the purchase of this bloody item.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jole Rodriguez

Mrs. Nola Hager

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Nola Hager

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nola Hager

Ms. Janet Reynolds

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Regardless of what the animal is called, skinning ANYTHING alive for the fur is inhumane and absolutely unforgiveable. But pretending that a creature is something it isn't in order to somehow justify a cruel and entirely unnecessary process is a corruption of the ideals that the FTC should be representing. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely Janet Reynolds

Sincerely,
Ms. Janet Reynolds

Ms. Carol Bartold

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Carol Bartold

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Bartold

Ms. JEAN OCONNELL

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The horrors of the fur industry have long upset me and I have chosen not to purchase any fur products for many years. Now this heartless industry, with its long history of misrepresentation, wants to be allowed to sell raccoon dog fur under the name "Asiatic raccoon" - no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Of course, I would prefer that NO animal is ever killed just so that its fur can be worn by a selfish human; it would appear, however, that we are still far away from that very humane and worthy goal. In the meantime, please do not make it possible for consumers to be misled by a huge labeling loophole that amounts to blatant dishonesty. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. JEAN OCONNELL

Mrs. Helene Settle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please take action to make clear on garment labels that the fur and/or fur trim is named as "Raccoon Dog Fur". Stop this cruelty. And urge people not to order shipments of garments from China made from/trimmed with dog fur of any kind. Helene Settle

Sincerely,
Mrs. Helene Settle

Ms. pamela masse

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Your Act Of Deceiving is all in the name of Greed and is truly sickening! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. pamela masse

Ms. Katherine Wheeler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Katherine Wheeler

Ms. Frederica Tretola

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Live skinning is an abomination. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. They are DOGS -- please stop with the 'creative descriptions'!!!! All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Frederica Tretola

Sincerely,
Ms. Frederica Tretola

Mrs. Paula Bomba

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. No animal should be skinned alive for any purpose, regardless of their name. Identify them as dogs, and their fur will no longer be attractive to people who would not buy dog fur.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Paula Bomba

Miss holly braddy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Just label it.. DOG FUR.. thats what it is.. !

Sincerely,
Miss holly braddy

Miss dEBBIE Holland

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Seriously, anyone that tolerates this must be insane!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Miss dEBBIE Holland

Mr. Shain McVay

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. PLEASE, Help Them!

Sincerely,
Mr. Shain McVay

Ms. Barbara Shivers

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The way these dogs are treated is absolutely evil.

Sincerely,
Ms. Barbara Shivers

Ms. Rory Onorato

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Your ideas to disrespect nature and living things is preposterous.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rory Onorato

Ms. mary saint-Marie

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I would like to add to this message that I do not believe that killing animals is part of humanity's destination. Please take a moment and go within and ask deeply to know the truth of this thing called 'animal killing.' Please allow these animals to also live their lives. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. mary saint-Marie

Ms. ANIMALAURA KEY

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. I've seen these dogs -SKINNED ALIVE... eyes blinking, screaming pain.... HOW CAN YOU IGNORE THIS?? Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. ANIMALAURA KEY

Mr. Rodney Parsons

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I believe that the racoons would like to see the people in the fur industry skinned alive. And I agree 100%. If the industry was killing dogs for their fur, I would rather see the people in that industry tortured for a few years and then skinned alive... And would love to be there to laugh out loud at them.

Sincerely,
Mr. Rodney Parsons

Mrs. Renee Eiband

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of Killing dogs, a misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Renee Eiband

Ms. Ellen Retcho

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Personally, I would rather you NOT kill these animals for their fur. I oppose the killing of animals for their fur, so that men and women can wear dead animals on their bodies. This makes me sick to my stomach that you and the fur industry could allow this to continue. There are other ways to get the real fur look without killing innocent animals for your enjoyment. How can all of you sleep at night knowing what you are doing. Think about this, how would you feel if someone took your dog, cat, and decided to kill them for their fur. For which they are your pet/family member, how would you feel. The horror of this is that you are allowing the fur industry to kill these animals while they are alive, HOW BARBARIC is this. Yes, I do know that we are talking about wild animals but even still those that can not talk and plead their case are being wiped out and our planet is being destroyed by the likes of you and the fur industry. So, now I am asking NO I AM PLEADING WITH YOU to stop all of this and find an alternative to killing live animals. As for the rest of this body of a message, I will live the rest the way it is. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. With the concluding of this message, I would personally like to say that I WILL NEVER WEAR ANYTHING THAT IS MADE OF REAL ANIMAL FUR. They are living, breathing beings and should be treated as such. These Raccoon Dogs ARE NOT RACCOONS and labeling them under different names is also sick in my book. This would come under FALSE ADVERTISING. So, your telling me that not only are you allowing the killing of these animals but your also LYING to the public. What kind of people are you any way. Thank you for taking the time to read this, which I do hope you read.

Sincerely,
Ms. Ellen Retcho

Mr. Lois Jimenez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I don't believe any society of human beings should be allowed to skin ANY living creature alive! Why should this practice exist at all?

Sincerely,
Mr. Lois Jimenez

Ms. Lisa Foss

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop these barbaric practices.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Foss

Mrs. Vivian Abbott

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is HORRIBLE!!!! I cannot believe you would even consider misleading the public in this way. Please label correctly so consumers will know that they are wearing mans best friend on their backs!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Vivian Abbott

Ms. Stella Nisenbaum

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Additionally, no animal, regardless of species, should be skinned alive. This is as much a case of animal cruelty as anything else.

Sincerely,
Ms. Stella Nisenbaum

Ms. Mary Perez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Mary Margaret Perez

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Perez

Ms. nancy heyser

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Skin them alive??? No matter if it's a raccoon or a dog; positively inhumane and wildly unnecessary given the industry's ability to make fake fur. Where is our humanity????

Sincerely,
Ms. nancy heyser

Ms. robin stapel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is misleading and should not be allowed to happen. Cruelty in any form for any reason is so wrong.

Sincerely,
Ms. robin stapel

Mrs. Melissa Olson Crabtree

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon DOG under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this DOG that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (DOG) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The Humane Society of the United States supports the labeling of fur CORRECTLY - and as a concerned American citizen, so do I. Please take the proper action and label this fur properly so Americans know the truth. Has China not perpetrated enough problems with the trade they have conducted with the US already? Do not allow China to lie and sell this to unsuspecting Americans.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Melissa Olson Crabtree

Mrs. Angeleen Slowinski

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. With so many synthetic fur on the market today using any fur is unconsionable, using dog fur is despicable.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Angeleen Slowinski

Ms. robyn McAfee

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Are you freakin kiddin me? Stop this!

Sincerely,
Ms. robyn McAfee

Mrs. Roxanne Stack

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that Sincerly, Roxanne Stack

Sincerely,
Mrs. Roxanne Stack

Mrs. Sherry Frye

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I don't believe in wearing fur of any kind but I feel this is mis-leading advertising on top of a terrible practice of fur trade. The fact that any animal is skinned alive for fur should be banned but to make people think that one animal is another so that more will sell is unbelievable. If the fact that people think it is dog and wouldn't buy that should tell you that something is wrong in buying because it is named something else. Please stop this practice and support Fur Rules Review, Matter No P074201. For more information: The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sherry Frye

Ms. Frances Flynn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please do the right thing here in relation to the naming of the Asiatic Raccoon. Please ensure that the correct name is often applied to this animal, which is a CANINE: a dog. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Frances Flynn

Ms. Susan Britt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. As if the fur trade isn't barbaric enough, must we dupe consumers who want to make humane purchases? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Britt

Miss Mary Anderson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel products. The industry wants to call this product Asiatic raccoon to hide the fact that these animals are part of the dog family, cousins to our family pets, not wild like raccoons. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, use the term raccoon dog. These poor animals have it hard enough. Mislabeling their fur would just increase the sales of the products and thus the number killed for their fur. There is suffering enough in the fur industry.

Sincerely,
Miss Mary Anderson

Mrs. Cindi Keane

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Even if they were, raccoons are animals with emotional characteristics-including feeling pain. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. In addition, raccoons, just like foxes, minks, seals, etc. all have feelings. How can one with a conscience skin anything alive? Are we till barbarians? I would not buy ANYTHING made with any type of animal fur. It's not necessary with the new materials we have today. Shame on the fur industry!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cindi Keane

Ms. Debra Clinton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon DOGS should be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. ANY KIND OF FUR IS CRUEL!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Debra Clinton

Mrs. Lynn Hale

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. PO74201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please see to these important issues and end the mistreatment of racoon dogs and the use of their fur. Lynn Hale

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lynn Hale

Ms. Bernice Mellen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And they should not be killed, tortured, etc. for making clothing or anything for that matter! Leave the poor animals alone, they were not created to be mistreated, tortured, killed, etc. for man's vain use!

Sincerely,
Ms. Bernice Mellen

Mrs. Lauren Davis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. FIRST OF ALL: No one needs to wear real fur of any kind. NO ONE. Whats wrong with fake fur?? Thee fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do everything possible to stop the horrors of the fur trade.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lauren Davis

Mrs. KARIN WINSTON ST

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It only makes sense and it is really not that much to ask. The only reason you wouldn't do it is???????

Sincerely,
Mrs. KARIN WINSTON

Mrs. Sheri Randall

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. PLEASE HELP AND PEOPLE SHOULD NOT BY FUR AT ALL

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sheri Randall

Ms. BJ Ettle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Do the right thing!

Sincerely, Ms.
BJ Ettle

Ms. Denise Scholz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Even if it were a part of the raccoon family, shame on you. We've learned, we've developed synthetics, there is no need to kill an animal for its fur. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Denise Scholz

Ms. Sheryl Wood

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please act to stop the live skinning of helpless animals!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sheryl Wood

Ms. Lezlie Laviola

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please! Don't let the fur industry be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". When a person considers buys this dog's fur, they should at least know exactly what it is and how the dog was treated. By calling it "Asiatic raccoon" it's likely consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lezlie Laviola

Ms. charisse glenn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Charisse Glenn

Sincerely,
Ms. charisse glenn

Mrs. Elizabeth Dabczynski

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is awful, and needs to be named what it truly is. I'm disgusted that inaccurate trade names have even been allowed up to this point. Gross gross gross! Please help to stop it.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Elizabeth Dabczynski

Ms. Erika Moran

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: URGENT: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Respectfully, Erika Moran

Sincerely,
Ms. Erika Moran

Miss Annalise Giberson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please support this opportunity for the public to be provided the accurate representation of raccoon dog treatment by requiring transparency with advertising and product labeling requirements.

Sincerely,
Miss Annalise Giberson

Ms. maggie lant

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. WE ARE THEIR VOICE.

Sincerely,
Ms. maggie lant

Mrs. Alanda Hurley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. A dog is a dog. I think consumers have the right to know a canine was skinned to make the garment, or accessories they may purchase.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Alanda Hurley

Mrs. Elizabeth Ward

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please stop hurting Raccoon Dogs for their fur, they are dogs!!!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Elizabeth Ward

Mrs. Yvonne Williams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. It is sad that we have to continuously petition the fur industry to do the right thing. Raccoon dog is dog - period. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Enough smoke and mirrors already. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Yvonne Williams

Mrs. Kat Turro

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. How about humans stop wearing fur altogether? There are plenty of synthetic fabrics that exist in this day and age, there is no need to continue mutilating and inflicting pain on animals for any reason. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kat Turro

Ms. Carlene Petty

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Raccoon dogs have been migrating across Asia and into Europe because of loss of habitat to human development in Asia. Even so, they are still DOGS, not raccoons. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Personally, I refuse to buy ANY product that is fur because hides of animals, any animals, are no longer necessary for clothing. Other people do not feel that way, but at least they should know which fur they are wearing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carlene Petty

Mr. James Jerschefske

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Call the animal by its correct name so we can stop the inhumane treatment of this animal! All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. James Jerschefske

Ms. Jennifer Malik

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Malik

Mrs. A. Schaer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. No matter what these are called, the treatment of these animals is so cruel that everyone should boycott buying these furs or trimmings.

Sincerely,
Mrs. A. Schaer

Mrs. Elinor Carlson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Personally I believe raccoon fur - ANY FUR is wrong. This just compounds the issue by LYING about it.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Elinor Carlson

Ms. Roberta Bates

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It's bad enough that animals like raccoons, beaver etc.. are killed for their fur, please stop China from killing a member of the dog family and misleading people into buying it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Roberta Bates

Mrs. Raven Goff

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Anything less is absurd and continues the cruelty to and of animals in the most heinous way. What is it in these people that find such gratification in being cruel, mean, and torturous to animals? This practice must be stopped as soon as possible.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Raven Goff

Ms. K Shackleton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. THEY ARE DOGS. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is DOG FUR.

Sincerely,
Ms. K Shackleton

Ms. CHERYL COPELAND

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is time for the to STAND UP FOR THE citizen CONSUMER. The legitimization of DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES by my government MUST STOP.

Sincerely,

Ms. CHERYL COPELAND

Mrs. Carri Pohl

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. As a dog owner, I am disgusted by skinning any animals alive. And any name switching to disguise dog fur is continuing to place public mistrust with all products made in China. The new catch phrase among dog owners is "as long as its not made in China."

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carri Pohl

Ms. jane smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do not allow this misrepresentation to be in effect. I am forwarding this message to my federal representatives as well .

Sincerely,
Ms. jane smith

Mr. Brion Allen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are dogs, plain and simple. They are members of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It's bad enough that the Chinese government allows these dogs to be skinned alive for their fur. Don't let them lie about what the fur actually is; it is dog fur. People should know that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Brion Allen

Ms. Elaine Hasbrook

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elaine Hasbrook

Mrs. Debi Burch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Nothing Deserves to be skinned alive!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Debi Burch

Ms. Jullie Jensen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Jullie Jensen

Sincerely,
Ms. Jullie Jensen

Mrs. Keirstie Carducci

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Not to mention, NOTHING on the face of this blessed earth should be skinned ALIVE for their fur!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Keirstie Carducci

Miss Shannon Higginbotham

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. STOP SELLING FUR!! Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Shannon Higginbotham

Mrs. PEGGY WHITE

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Raccoon dogs (nor any animal) deserves to be cruelly skinned alive and made into clothing for someone to wear!! Call them what they are-raccoon dogs, please.

Sincerely,
Mrs. PEGGY WHITE

Ms. Lucille Coz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lucille Coz

Miss Jennifer Spohn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product. Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. I am sickened that a name would be intentionally misused to hide such atrocities. It doesn't matter to me whether the animal is a dog or a raccoon when it comes to skinning a creature alive or mistreating them...both animals suffer the same horror, fear, and pain. It does matter to me, however, that there is an attempted cover-up. Sadly, it SHOULD NOT matter to the public what an animal is called...only a cruel and callous man would let the name of an animal determine whether an act is truly cruel. Yes, wild animals are treated differently than domesticated animals. That is nature and it's practical. But, when did skinning something alive become BETTER if it's done to a raccoon instead of a raccoon dog? That is a lie, and all that is being done is labeling an animal differently so the lie becomes easier to swallow...it becomes easier for some to turn a blind eye. The fur industry is capitalizing on this tremendously. Torture is abhorrent. Those that directly partake in it or widen its spread will one day be repaid, but that that is not soon enough to stop what the fur industry is doing right now. It's not soon enough to stop animals from being skinned alive. I can imagine no more painful death, and for what crime? Because God created them with pretty fur? Celebrate beauty...do not torture it, skin it, and destroy it. And, do not enable those that do to do so more easily.

Sincerely,
Miss Jennifer Spohn

Mr. Michael Liounis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. How about you stop skinning animals altogether, you sick fucks.

Sincerely,
Mr. Michael Liounis

Mrs. Pamela Garlisch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. We've been misled enough! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product - now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Pamela Garlisch

Ms. Susan Sandrock

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I think it's time to stop this terrible practice. I believe that every living breathing creature should have a chance to live. I don't believe in the practice of wearing dead animal fur to show how well off you are. Please make a start by protecting these beautiful animals. Thank You in advance, Susan L. Sandrock

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Sandrock

Ms. Kimberly Jannarone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry should be honest about the product it's selling.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kimberly Jannarone

Mrs. SHARON KOESTER

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon DOG" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon DOG under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Irregardless, Live Skinning should be Banned and against the law.

Sincerely,
Mrs. SHARON KOESTER

Mrs. Renee Skrypnyk

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Renee Skrypnyk

Mrs. Jennifer Sanchez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please call this animal by it's true name, and what it really is.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jennifer Sanchez

Mrs. Susan Mohr

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I just saw a racoon dog in the wild on a PBS documentary about Siberian tigers. The thought of it's fur being passed off as "raccoon" is distressing! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Susan Mohr

Ms. Cindy Keresztes

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!!!!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Cindy Keresztes

Sincerely,
Ms. Cindy Keresztes

Ms. Denise Gustafson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I really would like to see any fur products coming from China banned in the United States. It is a very cruel and inhumane way in which they kill these animals.

Sincerely,
Ms. Denise Gustafson

Mrs. Cathryn Moore

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. AMERICANS DO NOT WANT TO WEAR DOG FUR; AND CERTAINLY NOT WHEN THE DOGS HAVE BEEN SKINNED ALIVE!!! PLEASE MAKE THE FUR INDUSTRY DISCLOSE THE TRUTH ABOUT THIS CRUEL PRODUCT. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Cathryn Moore

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cathryn Moore

Mrs. marsha holmquist

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING and OTHER ABUSES of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. IT DOESN'T MATTER WHICH FAMILY IT BELONGS TO. I FEEL YOU SHOULD ONLY USE FAKE FUR! IMAGINE THE CRUELTY YOU ARE ALLOWING!! THINK OF IT AS YOUR OWN SKIN! LIVE SKINNING AS WELL!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. marsha holmquist

Mrs. Kelly Koch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop this abuse now!!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kelly Koch

Mrs. Patricia Hollister

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. This is a BARBARIC practice, no matter what the animal might be. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Even if they were raccoons, no animal should be skinned alive for its fur. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Patricia Hollister

Ms. Penny Palmer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel, cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning (imagine the horror!) and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Penny Palmer

Ms. Liz Willem

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. They are a member of the dog family and should be treated with respect. Please don't let this continue, you have the power to do the right thing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Liz Willem

Mrs. Winona Bixby

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Stop bowing to any industry or country ~ do not bend to political or monetary pressure ~ tell the story like it is ~ these animals are not raccoons. They are members of the dog family. Instead of even allowing their products to be "named", you should be telling China (not pressuring - but "telling" China) that such products will not be sold in this country due to the cruelties of the industry. Don't even allow the "market" to continue in the US. Animal cruelty needs to be stamped out ~ it has to begin somewhere ~ why not with your rulings? As you know people who are cruel to animals have the propensity for cruelty to people. Any decent person would not purchase these products (dog or raccoon) if they were aware of the cruelty that created it..... The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Winona Bixby

Mr. Darrell Dale

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Hopefully you will take this opportunity to influence humane treatment for Raccoon dogs. How people (such as the Chinese) can do this to innocent animals is beyond comprehension....possibly you can help make a difference.

Sincerely,
Mr. Darrell Dale

Mr. Hugo Diaz-Etchevehere

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. The Federal Trade Commission should not allow this to happen! Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please ensure the public is not misled by the fur industry.

Sincerely,

Mr. Hugo Diaz-Etchevehere

Ms. Patsy Ross

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Better still - ban fur! Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patsy Ross

Dr. Robert Serben

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please - let's do the right thing for these animals. It's an opportunity to show how humans can be humane.

Sincerely,
Dr. Robert Serben

Ms. Susan Gingras

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. A dog is a dog, a raccoon is a raccoon. Just because they have the look and feel of a raccoon does not make them one. Stop cheating the consumer. I feel any form of coats and other items made by skinning any species of animal is cruel and inhuman. We have so many sources to manufacture coats and other items to feel and look like the real thing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Gingras

Ms. Jeannette Sosa

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Consumers want and deserve truth in labelling. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jeannette Sosa

Mr. Cristian Contreras

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is beyond outrageous, please act now

Sincerely,
Mr. Cristian Contreras

Ms. Rachel Oliver

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please do not give consumers another excuse for purchasing Chinese-made products subject to inferior production standards, not to mention inhumane practices. We do not need any laws revised to protect the fur industry. That this would even be considered is a insult to both innocent animals and naive consumers. People who purchase these products should be aware that they are purchasing dog fur and that the same animal who may be waiting to greet them when they get home could have been skinned alive to make their fur-lined coat. Please do not allow this rule to be modified!

Sincerely,
Ms. Rachel Oliver

Ms. Patricia Horne

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Americans expect honesty from our government -- not that we always get it. In this case there is no excuse for misleading consumers. It is the job of the Federal Trade Commission to police the labeling of products. A dog is a dog is a dog. There are enough items out there with Fidos relatives masquerading as something other than what they are. The least you can do is make sure the manufacturers label items properly!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Horne

Mr. Russ Rainforth

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Please - we are not a third-world country. I would live to see the US take the lead and BAN fur sales outright. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Russ Rainforth

Ms. Dorothy Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please stop the skinning alive of all animals, in this case the racoon dog. If an organization is bound to get the fur the process must be done without hurting the animal. One can do this by having the animal temporarily put to sleep as Veteranarians do when operating on them. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Dorothy Smith

Mrs. Linda Gould

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Just do it. We all need to be aware of what we are purchasing and if it is continually misrepresented, then the furriers will continue to pass it off incorrectly causing thousands of these beautiful dogs to be slaughtered for their fur. Linda M. Gould

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Gould

Ms. Carol Willette

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The FTC should not tolerate such deception.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Willette

Ms. Andrea Soliz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please act now! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Andrea Soliz

Ms. Stacey Redfern

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Make raccoon dogs be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Raccoon Dogs are exactly that ... Raccoon Dogs. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Fur is fur and we know where it comes from. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Regardless of these animals being dogs or raccoons or whatever they are labelled, it is still an innocent animal and does not deserve to be killed for its fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Stacey Redfern

Mrs. Julia Gilligan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Consumers do not like to be lied to and we count on you to help prevent lies being allowed.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Julia Gilligan

Ms. Rebecca Bray

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE protect the dog by ensuring the proper labeling is applied. American's do not want to be duped into wearing a beloved pet. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rebecca Bray

Ms. Merideth Genin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal, that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I have a small collection of vintage fur. I know that the "Hudson seal" coat I own is muskrat. I can identify every species I own. Stop the deception!

Sincerely,
Ms. Merideth Genin

Mrs. JUDITH TALBOT

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. IT IS TIME TO STOP THE MISREPRESENTATION OF THE "RACCOON DOG". THIS ANIMAL IS A DOG NOT A MINK, LEOPARD, BEAR OR OTHER ANIMAL THAT IS MERCILESSLY KILLED FOR THEIR FUR. THOSE THAT PURCHASE FUR PRODUCTS SHOULD BE MADE AWARE THAT THEY ARE BUYING ITEMS MADE FROM A DOGS HIDE! THIS IS A DISGUSTING, INHUMANE AND CRUEL BUSINESS THAT CERTAINLY SHOULD NOT START SUPPLYING DOG FUR FOR IT'S CUSTOMERS, CALL IT WHAT IT IS.

Sincerely,
Mrs. JUDITH TALBOT

Ms. Janis King

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. "WE CAN JUDGE THE HEART OF A MAN BY HIS TREATMENT OF ANIMALS"

Sincerely,
Ms. Janis King

Mrs. Vicky Haynes

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell fur -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". While I am not opposed to the selling of fur, fur that is taken while an animal is STILL ALIVE is CRUELTY and in the U.S. (I assume) would be punishable by law. Consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented if they see the term Asiatic Raccoon . Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. I would be equally opposed to ANY animal that was skinned alive. Even the Chinese people are starting to object to these practices. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Vicky Haynes

Mrs. Mavis Eggiman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. These people should be so ashamed. Fur coats of any kind should be outlawed. They are just not necessary except for people to show their wealth.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mavis Eggiman

Mr. Frank B. McCormick

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Sincerely,

Mr. Frank B. McCormick

Mrs. Geraldine Hart

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE SKINNED FOR ITS FUR, THE CRUELTY IS HORRIBLE, I REALLY HOPE PEOPLE STOP SELLING, AND PEOPLE STOP WANTING TO BUY THE FUR OF TORTURED ANIMALS

Sincerely,
Mrs. Geraldine Hart

Ms. Deb Boyer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please read this entire email. This is a dog not a raccoon. This is horrible.

Sincerely,
Ms. Deb Boyer

Dr. mary macvicar

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. With regard to P074201 - what kind of corrupt bureaucrat thought up this nonsense. If you have no problems with the torture (skinning alive) of the animals, at least be honest and make them label the skins as dog. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. We wait to see what position you will take, but there will be consequences.

Sincerely,
Dr. mary macvicar

Mr. Paul Rivadue

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Dogs get barbecued in China. Do you want to tout that vicious 'treat', too? Set an example to be humane.

Sincerely,
Mr. Paul Rivadue

Ms. Debra Nunley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. The treatment of these animals, who feel pain just as we do, is deplorable. YOU have an opportunity to be a small part of at least informing the public of this misinformation. It amazes me that humans will wear a dead animal, instead of the many acceptable alternatives we are provided. Being a part of this deception just to make money is SHAMEFUL, and U.S. agencies should never condone it. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Debra Nunley

Sincerely,
Ms. Debra Nunley

Mr. Richard Palmer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is shameful for our species being, (man's best friend) when the man is the dog's worst enemy.

Eduardo Lamazon

Sincerely,
Mr. Richard Palmer

Mr. Richard Dabney

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Better yet, send a stronger message by prohibiting the import of these products, and bring animal cruelty charges against those who do.

Sincerely,
Mr. Richard Dabney

Mr. Levi Sanders

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There is no rational for what is going on. It is imperative that you not change the name. People need to be educated about what is going on.

Sincerely,
Mr. Levi Sanders

Mrs. Janet Gustafson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Why is it our Government and all its agencies take no responsibility for the protection of ALL. Animal and Human. The TV is daily reporting the most horrid of cruelty to horses/cats/dogs etc. I know, you will probably say.. 'for God Sake.. it is just an animal" It is inhumanity and humans are the cruelest of all of God's Creatures.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Janet Gustafson

Dr. Francesco Bombelli

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I would even write on labels that these animals are skinned alive...now close your eyes and imagine to be skinned alive...

Sincerely,
Dr. Francesco Bombelli

Ms. Odette Wilkens

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is simple, just call the animal by its correct name "raccoon dog." Why is there even a question? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Odette Wilkens

Mrs. sherrin fraiman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. WANT TO SEE WHAT RACCOON DOGS REALLY ARE?

<http://vimeo.com/10152570> Be warned...this video is graphic...sadly, it's the real thing.

Sincerely,
Mrs. sherrin fraiman

Mr. Ryan Moore

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. In today's world of fast-travelling information, there's no point in attempting to deceive the people on issues such as this one. It is wrong; the invention of a term simply to mask the origin of the product is preposterous, even childish; like a young boy attempting to fool his parents. Please, do what we both know is right.

Sincerely,
Mr. Ryan Moore

Ms. Jennifer LaRossa

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I don't understand why people buy things made out of ANY kind of fur, but this is going TOO far. We can't allow the Chinese to dupe Americans into buying things made out of dogs. We can't allow them to rename this species of dog just so they can find a market for something created out of their unspeakable cruelty and barbarism. WE need to lead the way. Makers of pet food that killed our own pets and of baby formula that has killed their own babies should NOT be calling the shots here. Our country is far from perfect, but I believe that Americans will not want a product made from tortured dogs.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer LaRossa

Mr. Beau Hargrove

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please stop changing the name of and ACTUAL CANINE SPECIES JUST SO U CAN BRUTALLY SKIN IT ALIVE! HOW YOU EVEN SLEEP AT NIGHT IS BEYOND ME. THESE ANIMALS HAVE RIGHTS AN FEELINGS AS WELL! PLEASE RECOGNIZE WHAT U ARE DOIN BY ALLOWING THIS....

Sincerely,
Mr. Beau Hargrove

Ms. Carol Wilson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Or DO NOT use any type of fur!!! We have the ability to create faux fur to look and feel like the "live animal" so we DO NOT need real fur...leave it on the animal who NEEDS it!!!!!! PLEASE!!!!!! THANK YOU!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Wilson

Ms. Vicki Cannon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Women do not want dead dogs hanging around their necks!!!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Dogs are family pets and not meant to adorn the human body!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt to deceive otherwise animal-friendly consumers to buy products that include live skinning and other abuses of this dog. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Do right because it is right!!! Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Vicki Cannon

Ms. Melanie Thomas

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. So why would we allow any industry to use anything other than the correct name? Why would any industry want to unless they had less than respectable reason to do so? This seems like such a little request and should be something you whole-heartedly support; not something I should have to email you about!

Sincerely,
Ms. Melanie Thomas

Mrs. Jeanne Startzman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The Federal Trade Commission has a responsibility to ensure products are represented accurately. And not with misleading labels only to promote sales. How would you feel if your dog was skinned?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jeanne Startzman

Mrs. Mary Baine

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product; now, they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" (no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other well-documented abuses of this animal). Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Consumers have a right to know what they are buying and what sort of behavior they are supporting; suppliers have the responsibility to provide information that is true and complete.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Baine

Mrs. Helen Richards

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please pay heed to the following info. If action isn't taken to correct this misrepresentation of the fur industry, we the people, will just continue to think that no one in the FTC has compassion. Sincerely, Helen Richards

Sincerely,
Mrs. Helen Richards

Ms. Katherine Fulkerson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Better yet, abolish the fur trade.

Sincerely,
Ms. Katherine Fulkerson

Ms. Lynn Erice

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Lynn Erice

Sincerely,
Ms. Lynn Erice

Mrs. Paula Johnson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I don't know why we have to have fur on our clothing. If so the fake fur is just as nice anymore.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Paula Johnson

Ms. Diane Whalen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Please realize that these are dogs. Even so, racoons nor dogs or any animal should be skinned alive. As humans, we each have a responsibility to treat all animals with decency and respect. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Diane Whalen

Miss Jean Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Consumers have a right to know what they are buying. Why the secrecy? Regardless of whether the fur comes from a member of the dog family or raccoon family, using fur from an animal, especially one killed in such a cruel manner, should be brought to light.

Sincerely,
Miss Jean Jones

Ms. Chris O'Connell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Commerce and greed are not acceptable reasons to mislabel a fur that is procured with the intent to misrepresent its origin - this is not a fair trade practice and it should be terminated immediately. A RACCOON DOG IS NOT A RACCOON. Stop allowing manufacturers and vendors to mislabel and misrepresent this fur!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Chris O'Connell

Sincerely,
Ms. Chris O'Connell

Mrs. Kathleen Lloyd

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon"; no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kathleen Lloyd

Ms. Stephani Martin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Fur itself is detestable, but at the very least we should be told the truth so that consumers who do choose to purchase are better informed.

Sincerely,
Ms. Stephani Martin

Ms. LYNNE DE MARIA

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.....HOW DOES A HUMAN BEING SKIN ANY ANIMAL ALIVE?!?!?!?!?

Sincerely,
Ms. LYNNE DE MARIA

Ms. Mary Puckett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I cannot believe that our government would be murdering dogs ALIVE, or mistreating any animal. Remember, I really believe WE REAP what WE SOW....

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Puckett

Dr. Cristanna cook

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Do not allow these evil influences from China to misrepresent what is a dog. Cristanna Cook

Sincerely,
Dr. Cristanna cook

Ms. Jamie Chu

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Would you let someone skin your dog for his/her fur?

Sincerely,
Ms. Jamie Chu

Mr. D. Tisdale

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. IN NO WAY SHAPE or FORM is there an excuse to allow animals to be skinned alive...it is barbaric and vicious...these poor animals undergo the worse treatment and are thrown on top of a pile bleeding, suffering in pain and dying. We should not stand for this or allow it!!! These racoon dogs should be protected and their furs not sold at all!!!! Please STOP THIS mislabeling and STOP this practice from occurring. If we can send a man to the moon, we CAN STOP this!!!! PLEASE!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. D. Tisdale

Mrs. Tamara Woolum

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Fight against any "live skinning". What is wrong with peoples' minds that they can do this horrible thing!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tamara Woolum

Mrs. Cynthia Tonseth

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I resent this deceptive labeling that you are considering allowing. In this day of truth in labeling on our food, that should hold true for other things we buy. How are consumers to trust when they are lied to ?? You can try to sweep this under the rug as a minor fabrication of the truth but it is still a lie.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cynthia Tonseth

Mr. PATRICK CUCCARO

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Call it what it is. Please. So called "raccoon dogs" are animals that deserve to be treated humanely. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Mr. PATRICK CUCCARO

Mr. Simon Atkinson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please do,not disguise raccoon dog fur

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please give consumers the opportunity to make an informed and humane purchase. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Simon Atkinson

Ms. Traci Brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Do not enable cruelty - ban it... because it is the right thing to do.

Sincerely,
Ms. Traci Brown

Mrs. Deanna Mohorich

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please don't trick people by changing their name!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Deanna Mohorich

Ms. Janice Spencer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I am HORRIFIED that any sentient being, much less a DOG would be tortured to death like this. Please take action NOW!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Janice Spencer

Miss Kristin Butts

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. To call society civilized is an overstatement. A civilized society acts on the behalf of the world, not themselves. Are we that careless & elementary to think that everything put on this earth is for human disposal? Are we that ignorant to think that just because a species can't communicate the way we do or can't destroy the world (like humans are doing) that they shouldn't be valued? The pain & suffering these animals endure is no different than what a human would feel. Just because they don't have the ability to argue & pull out a knife & stab you back, doesn't mean we should take them for granted. Humans were given the gift of intelligence. Use that intelligence to make the world a better place. We have a responsibility to protect & defend those that are inferior, not destroy them. I ask you to ask yourself if you would allow the abuse a mentally challenged human. They often times can't communicate or defend themselves the way a mentally healthy human can. But if you're argument is that humans are superior, no, not all are...but they are our responsibility. Look to the future. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Kristin Butts

Mrs. Cindy Robillard

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. We do not need any animal fur on our clothes. They belong on the animals.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cindy Robillard

Ms. carole miller

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop this ill-advised change. People, stores and manufacturers deserve to know what they are really dealing with.

Sincerely,
Ms. carole miller

Ms. Nancy Graham

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is sick to use a false name and kill a member of the canine family for the fur trade. Greed pure and simple.

Sincerely,
Ms. Nancy Graham

Dr. Susannah Martin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I sincerely appreciate your support. Best, Susannah Martin

Sincerely,
Dr. Susannah Martin

Ms. Eleanor Wynn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I don't approve of any inhumane treatment of animals whether dog or raccoon.

Sincerely,
Ms. Eleanor Wynn

Ms. Patricia Caray

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresenting the source of its products -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog fur under the name "Asiatic raccoon", no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are members of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please carefully consider this matter, and make it illegal for Raccoon Dogs to be treated in this fashion. Thank you, Patricia A. Caray

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Caray

Ms. Helga Fisch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please do not allow consumers to be misled. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Helga Fisch

Sincerely,
Ms. Helga Fisch

Ms. Marilyn Gill

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Don't help animal abusers hide their crimes with a name change!

Sincerely,
Ms. Marilyn Gill

Ms. Barbara Brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. If the correct label is not used it will be hard for consumers and retailers to know that this is the same animal whose mistreatment is so well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do not allow the misleading and inaccurate term "Asiatic Raccoon" to be used on any fur labels.

Sincerely,
Ms. Barbara Brown

Ms. Linda Dol

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. In this day and age, there is no NEED to wear fur, much less kill dogs in the process.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Dol

Ms. T Stewart

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you, T. Stewart

Sincerely,
Ms. T Stewart

Mrs. gloria d

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Stop being cruel to animals. They are man's greatest friend and gift.

Sincerely,
Mrs. gloria d

Mr. Michael Seaman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Our country is already up to its ears in poorly-made products from China and other goods produced by exploitation of Chinese workers and/or via outsourcing of American jobs to China. Beyond that, what's the value to our country of products made from "Raccoon Dog" fur, particularly when consumers are misled by an inaccurate trade name? As a matter of trade policy, we should be looking to bring jobs back home instead of helping China coax more money out of American consumers.

Sincerely,
Mr. Michael Seaman

Ms. Sundance Lev

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Consumers have the right to know!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. I want to know! Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sundance Lev

Ms. Jessica Cook

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please advertise and sell these products honestly and don't treat the customers into buying these cruel furs by making them think its raccoon fur and not DOG fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jessica Cook

Mr. Robin M Ballinger

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry wants to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Robin M Ballinger

Ms. cynthia king

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. AND THIS IS WHAT AMERICA REPRESENTS???? A TRADE COMMISSION THAT ALLOWS CLOTHING TO BE SOLD IN OUR COUNTRY MADE FROM CANINE DOG FUR FROM DOGS THAT HAVE BEEN SKINNED ALIVE? UNFATHOMABLE, UNEXEPTABLE CHOICE OF THE TRADE COMMISSION. STOP THE ABUSE OF ANIMALS, OR YOUR COMMISSION IS INHUMANE. WOULD SOMEONE IN THEIR (THE TRADE COMMISSION) FAMILY AGREE TO SKINNING THEIR PET ALIVE FOR TRADE PURPOSES/MONEY?

Sincerely,
Ms. cynthia king

Ms. Sarah Levine

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I believe consumers should know what they are buying and make their decisions based on accurate labels.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sarah Levine

Ms. Judi Waller

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. This is a disgusting way to disguise a product for the sole purpose of profit and deception of American's who would never buy a jacket knowing it was made from canine fur. Not labeling it what it really is, only to deceive consumers. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Judi Waller

Mrs. Tracey Mallow

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. In an addition to I would like to know as a consumer what I am exactly buying from a foreign country.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tracey Mallow

Dr. mary jane mcmaster

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Please support the proper labeling so people know innocent dogs are being slaughtered. Better yet, block all imports with racoon dog fur or racoon fur. sincerely M.J.McMaster

Sincerely,
Dr. mary jane mcmaster

Ms. matisse bradford

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Even if they were I think this is awful to do to any living creature.

Sincerely,
Ms. matisse bradford

Mrs. T Rogerson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. If it walks like a duck, quacks like a duck and looks like a duck it's a DUCK. So let's not mix words.....a dog is a dog is a dog. Merely, putting raccoon before the dog name doesn't make it not a dog, please let's get the label correct. It's a dog! Renaming the label "Asiatic raccoon" doesn't change the species of the fur. I don't wear fur and I wouldn't want to wear the beloved dog fur if I were a fur wearing person. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Mrs. T. Rogerson

Sincerely,
Mrs. T Rogerson

Ms. marina sagardua

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. A good start toward a less violent society would be a ban on raccoon dog fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. marina sagardua

Mrs. M. Susan Knightes

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. How absolutely heartlessly disgusting. Why would anyone knowing wear fur from a dog? Oh, wait, I get it. You don't call it dog fur and people believe you. Stupid. Stop.

Sincerely,
Mrs. M. Susan Knightes

Ms. Jane Shiraki

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry flourishes on torture and suffering of God's creatures...conscious, aware living beings with families. They do not follow the golden rule of doing unto others as you would have them do unto you. I urge you not to tolerate such suffering as this is wrong. Stand next to the living animals and see and hear their suffering before you allow such cruelty. Advertising cannot cover up the suffering we all know took place. People are much smarter than to buy fur any kind of fur anymore.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jane Shiraki

Mrs. Barbara Young

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. How can you let this cruel abuse happen, people are being misled and if one would not like this fur on my clothes. These Raccoon dogs are cruelly skinned alive by the likes of these disgusting Chinese people, who kill any animal, they mistreat anything that walks or flies, they have no respect for any of them. STOP THIS ABUSE NOW Mrs B Young

Sincerely,
Mrs. Barbara Young

Ms. Peggy Zhang

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop killing animals for fur or food, we human will have enough food & clothing even if we just eat vegetables and wear clothing made from cotton or synthetic materials. Please help save the animals and save our world. Peggy Zhang

Sincerely,
Ms. Peggy Zhang

Mrs. Misha Defonseca

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. OR BETTER DON'T KILL ANIMALS AT ALL, ITS A LOT OF FAKE FUR WHO ARE REALLY BEAUTIFUL WHAT PEOPLE DO TO ANIMALS,THEY DO LATER TO THEIRS FELLOW MAN, THE NAZI TAKE THE SKIN OF JEWS TO MAKE LAMP SHADE !!!!! SO. DON'T BE RIDICULOUS AND STOP KILLING ..WHO CARE WHAT NAME IS, HONEST PEOPLE SIMPLY DON'T KILL.,AND IF YOU DARE TO SAYS THAT YOU KILL NUISIBLE ANIMALS NO MUCH PEOPLE MUST BE ON EARTH BECAUSE OF MY POINT OF VIEUWS MANS ARE THE MOST DANGEROUS PREDATEURS AND THE MORE VICIOUS AT ALL, AND THE MOST DESTRUCTIF SO.....Misha Defonseca.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Misha Defonseca

Mr. Andrew Forsythe

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please require that the truth be told and the facts be accurate in this important matter! Thank you. Andrew Forsythe

Sincerely,
Mr. Andrew Forsythe

Dr. Rahul Bharadwaj

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. It is at the utmost level of cruelty with which fur is procured from this poor creature. I urge you to step back a moment and reflect on what would be going through this poor creature's mind as this ghastly act of skinning it alive is performed. Then, please reconsider this request of mine and evaluate it against the fur industry's proposition. The choice is yours to make. Medicinal value, I can try to understand, food, I can still see some value but skinning an animal live for luxurious fur, how can this be justifiable? Please heed this request of mine on behalf of the humane society for animals: Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. Rahul Bharadwaj

Mr. Tim Kelly

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Do you approve of skinning a dog alive ?

<http://www.ecouterre.com/raccoon-dogs-flayed-alive-to-make-knockoff-ugg-boots-graphic-video/> The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Tim Kelly

Ms. Shireen Farrahi

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please ensure the fur industry follows through with these accurate labeling practices.

Sincerely,
Ms. Shireen Farrahi

Mrs. Julie Conrad

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. REGARDLESS OF WHAT THE ANIMAL IS CALLED, IT IS NOT OKAY TO ABUSE AN ANIMAL BY SKINNING IT ALIVE!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Julie Conrad

Miss Janine Hansen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please take appropriate action to stop the practice of skinning animals alive!

Sincerely,
Miss Janine Hansen

Dr. William Medici

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you in advance for your professional courtesy and cooperation.

Sincerely,
Dr. William Medici

Ms. MaryKay Pennington

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Raccoons or dogs...NEITHER DESERVE TO BE SKINNED ALIVE!!The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. MaryKay Pennington

Mrs. Terry Medlock

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please name it legally as a racoon dog so people will know exactly what they may be buying in to. On a side not - cruelty to animals is cruelty - no matter the name.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Terry Medlock

Miss Briar Cammock

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. I am not condoning the trade of any fur but I do believe if it is sold it should be labelled correctly so people are aware of exactly what they are buying! All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Briar Cammock

Ms. Kate Westcott

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Skinned alive ?!! What the hell? How can anyone support this type of animal torture, and for what...fur coats for "fashionable" people?(May THEY be skinned alive!)This practice is despicable and should be outlawed immediately! And....The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kate Westcott

Mrs. Lisa Kuhfeldt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please make the public aware of this atrocity. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lisa Kuhfeldt

Ms. Mary Lou Conca

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. People can really be disgusting!

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Lou Conca

Ms. Alice Collins Osgood

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be CALLED "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under A MISLEADING NAME: "Asiatic raccoon", no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. PLEASE REQUIRE THEM TO LABEL IT HONESTLY...i.e. Raccoon DOG !

Sincerely,
Ms. Alice Collins Osgood

Ms. Nina Allen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Of course you want to call them "raccoons" no one would buy a DOG fur coat. And STOP skinning ANYTHING before it is dead.

Sincerely,
Ms. Nina Allen

Ms. Mollie Cook

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "DOG FUR" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. This whole trade is disgusting. I'm so sick and tired of humans doing what they want with animals in the United States and worldwide, and especially the inhumane treatment of animals to get what they want from them for what--money? There is no excuse for this type of trade or treatment of animals. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mollie Cook

Mrs. Wendy Cory

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. No animal should be skinned alive. Animals experience pain and fear and they cry just like humans.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Wendy Cory

Ms. Moira Fay

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. NO animal should be skinned alive!!! There are so many alternatives to fur that there is NO need to subject animals to this horrendously painful practice. PLEASE DO NOT ALLOW ANY INDUSTRY THAT INSISTS ON DOING SO TO GET AWAY WITH HIDING IT.

Preferably, ban it entirely but if you feel it must be permitted, the label should be TRUE - raccoon dogs are dogs - so all it should say is "dog fur." The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Moira Fay

Mrs. Linda Kennedy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Mrs. Linda Kennedy

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Kennedy

Mrs. Susan Khaury

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. THE CRUELTY SUFFERED BY THIS ANIMAL IS UNSPEAKABLE. SKINNED ALIVE!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Susan Khaury

Mr. Vincent Sassone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I have been to China on business and am aware of this horrible practice of skinning live dogs. Please do not do anything to support this practice or the trade in dog fur. These dogs are beautiful creatures and deserve much better treatment. We need to send a message to the Chinese and the world that this practice is not ok. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thanks for listening and helping. Best Regards, Vincent P. Sassone Jr.

Sincerely,
Mr. Vincent Sassone

Miss vickie bass

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Lets get this poor animals name right . and quit killing these beautiful animals for there fur. they have the right to live free like there on earth for and not be harmed. people need to stop the cruelty. of the wild life on our planet. its time to put a stop to all of this NOW

Sincerely,
Miss vickie bass

Mrs. Wilma Fowler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. What happened to "Truth in Labeling"? All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Wilma Fowler

Mr. john wolf

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Stop calling these beings "Asiatic raccoons" (or anything else) and call them and label their "products" as "raccoon dog [Canidae (canine/dog) family]"; people have a right to know how these beings are treated and to be informed about whether to buy such products or not.

Sincerely,
Mr. john wolf

Ms. Mary Sobol

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Fake fur has become so real-like there simply is no justification for manufacturers to supply real fur. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Sobol

Mr. Jon Abbey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Mr. Jon Abbey

Ms. sally kneen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. THESE DOGS ARE SKINNED ALIVE IN CHINA!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. sally kneen

Ms. Elizabeth Mendoza

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Do not kill these animals for FUR!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elizabeth Mendoza

Mrs. Sherry Shadday

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. This practice (of skinning any animal while alive) should not be allowed anywhere in the world. To assist in decreasing this practice, PLEASE do not let anyone sell this product under the name of "Asiatic raccoon." The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sherry Shadday

Ms. Cynthia Hammack

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. We as consumers must rely on our government when it sets the labeling requirements on consumer goods. If it does not ensure accurate labels, by naming exactly the source of materials used, then the FTC is nothing more than a marketing organization acting on behalf of a few vendors, and against those it is designed to serve. Please ensure that raccoon dog fur is properly recognized by its real name.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia Hammack

Ms. Nina Bodway

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Really? Skinning an animal alive? Surely, we should do everything in our power to educate consumers and encourage them to avoid anything so inexcusably brutal. Truth in advertising is the very least we can do.

Sincerely,
Ms. Nina Bodway

Mr. Tray Armbrust

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. A rose by any other name may still be a rose, but that doesn't mean you should call it a pansy.

Sincerely,
Mr. Tray Armbrust

Mrs. ISABELLE SHAVER

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Isabelle Shaver

Sincerely,
Mrs. ISABELLE SHAVER

Ms. julianna lavin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. THIS IS A CRUEL AND HEARTLESS DECEPTION, AND IT MUST STOP NOW!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. julianna lavin

Ms. Jennifer Weddle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please support the proper naming of this fur product. The idea of skinning animals for fashion is already appalling. If consumers are forced to be honest about what they are buying it can help them make more informed and humane decisions. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Weddle

Mrs. Larissa Campos

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. HAVE A HEART!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Larissa Campos

Mrs. Mary Hampshire

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The label must be changed. But the worst part, why the heck does any animal have to be skinned alive. What is the point of that. The hide can't be that much better. Why can't they just kill the animal first? It seems it would be better for all involved. The animal feels no pain and the work can be done faster. It's the method I am against. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Hampshire

Mrs. Helen Howell-Job

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. the fact we stil in the age of not HAVING to use real fur..yet we do..at least it should be properly marked. We all need to just stop using animals for such things..all of them..there are so many other choices..animals are abused enough..for "us"

Sincerely,
Mrs. Helen Howell-Job

Ms. jillian benson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Do not continue to allow the inhumane and senseless killing of these animals continue! Ask yourself will God let you into heaven if you continue on this path of deception.

Sincerely,
Ms. jillian benson

Mr. jon Blake

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

THE fur Industry want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" t so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. jon Blake

Miss Diana Saric

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There are plenty of other raw materials to make clothing with and to keep us warm. Enough with the twisting of words to create loopholes...no life is worth a trim on any garment. That is just ridiculous!

Sincerely,
Miss Diana Saric

Mrs. Martha McConnell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you for your time and consideration on this issue.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Martha McConnell

Mr. Mark Heisler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Also they know that if they have to label it as dog that most people in the U.S. will not buy it on principle. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mark Heisler

Mrs. Shannon Espich

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. From what I understand, the fur industry has a history of misrepresentation in order to sell its product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The fact that they have to lie in order to sell their products in and of it self, says that we as consumers, DO NOT desire to take part in such cruelty.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shannon Espich

Mrs. Peggy Beal

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please require that the name used be "raccoon dog" on all fur labels, so people will know they are buying dog fur and not raccoon fur. Sincerely, Peggy Beal

Sincerely,
Mrs. Peggy Beal

Mr. John Hill

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let's have fun caring for the animals!

Sincerely,
Mr. John Hill

Ms. Shelly Gregg

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that sincerely, Shelly Gregg .

Sincerely,
Ms. Shelly Gregg

Ms. Patricia Mace

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell a product - acquired by unacceptable cruel methods of slaughter. Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. All fur bearing animals should be referred to by their correct name and not killed for their fur. Stop using animal fur for garments and other items.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Mace

Mrs. Christine McCarty

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. AND...NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE SKINNED ALIVE!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christine McCarty

Mrs. Marsha Russell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I'm against using "natural fur" as a trade item. Please work to ban all animal products not used for food. Thank you!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marsha Russell

Ms. Tami Calliope

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" - no doubt so that consumers won't make the connection to the well-documented live skinning and other abuses of this animal - which, being a DOG, Americans would never buy. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let me make one thing clear: I abhor the use (i.e. trapping, murder, flaying) of true Raccoons fully as much as I detest the same cruelty turned toward Raccoon Dogs. Perhaps this is because I raised a true Raccoon along with my true Dogs, and found them equally intelligent, sentient, aware, and frightened of pain. But if you're going to keep murdering animals in the name of fashion, at least call them what they are. Those who buy fur should know exactly whom they have caused to suffer, and why they should be ashamed.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tami Calliope

Ms. Elaine Knapp

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Skinning an animal alive is beyond disgusting! It turned my stomach just even thinking about it. Greedy, ignorant people do HORRIBLE things to defenseless creatures. DO NOT LET THIS HAPPEN.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elaine Knapp

Ms. Vicki Casarett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do not allow the fur industry to dupe consumers for the sake of profit.

Sincerely,
Ms. Vicki Casarett

Ms. Edna Karinski

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. The correct label will correct this misconception. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Edna Karinski

Ms. Juliette Pahl

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Dogs have been nurturing, loving companions of mankind for thousands of years, and while Asians may disregard these wonderful animals as no more than "product," the American culture most assuredly does not. Dogs are our friends and companions, our rescuers, our guides. They are sentient and loving family members and field and farm working hands. They are NOT obscene clothing trim. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Juliette Pahl

Mrs. Edith Heller

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Truth in advertising is always the best way.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Edith Heller

Ms. Kathy A. sochor

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Why must everything be so horrifying in this world? Just do the right thing. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathy A. sochor

Ms. Annalisa Webb-Gordon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. It is despicable and sickening how these animals are treated, trafficked and killed to begin with and to deceive those selling and buying products made with their fur, is absolutely wrong. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Ms. Annalisa Webb-Gordon

Ms. Elizabeth Gabor

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon dog fur should be labelled honestly

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elizabeth Gabor

Ms. jill werber

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Really, Asiatic Raccoon? Gimme a break. A rose is a rose is a rose, and a dog is a dog is a dog is NOT a raccoon!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Stop this cruel nonsense!

Sincerely,
Ms. jill werber

Mr. Mark Hintze

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. No animal should ever be skinned alive no matter if it is used for food or fur and no government should ever support such a practice.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mark Hintze

Dr. John Blakslee

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please join them in getting the animal's name right! Sincerely, Rev. John Blakslee

Sincerely,
Dr. John Blakslee

Mrs. Barbara Foster

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Even racoons should not be used as fur to decorate clothing. No animal should, especially not dogs !

Sincerely,
Mrs. Barbara Foster

Ms. Kimberly Gervais

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: *Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Please consider at least allowing for the correct wording to be put on such items that include use of this animal, who are from the same family as dogs, foxes, and coyotes. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kimberly Gervais

Ms. Jane Malloy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do not allow this ignorance to continue! These are disgusting practices and really, lies to the public?

Sincerely,
Ms. Jane Malloy

Mrs. Brigitte Tyree

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Brigitte Tyree

Sincerely,
Mrs. Brigitte Tyree

Mrs. Amy Lacombe

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And don't skin them alive, China!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Amy Lacombe

Mrs. Anne Henry

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. As a civilized society I can not believe we have allowed this to go on. All creatures should be protected but perhaps this cause will be the step in the right direction for all unprotected, neglected and abused animals. Please, please take this request seriously and act now.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Anne Henry

Mrs. Beth Birnbaum

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: A dog is a dog

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. I am appalled at this blatant attempt to fool the American people, and to what is being done to dogs. This is absolutely not what our nation should stand for, and we should not give money to China for these cruel practices. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Beth Birnbaum

Ms. Amelia Schenone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. DOES IT REALLY MATTER IF IT'S A DOG OR A RACCOON? KILLING ANIMALS FOR THEIR FUR IS WRONG!

Sincerely,
Ms. Amelia Schenone

Ms. Kristen Cameron

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Real choice means real information. For too long the fur industry has a long history of misrepresented its products in order to sell its cruelty -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristen Cameron

Ms. Pola Chapelle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. With all the beautiful synthetics we have, we surely don't need to be upholding the killing of more animals. But if you must, and only God or Goddess knows why, then call it what it is - a raccoon dog. thanks, Pola Chapelle

Sincerely,
Ms. Pola Chapelle

Ms. Jeanette Dison

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Please do NOT allow this! Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jeanette Dison

Mr. Les Sluggett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Sincerely, Les Sluggett

Sincerely,
Mr. Les Sluggett

Dr. C N

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. By the way, if you have never seen the films, you should spend some time watching a creature being skinned alive, the still-living body thrown on the ground to slowly die. It just might make you think a little more deeply about your place in this world.

Sincerely,
Dr. C N

Mrs. Marie Gilman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. ALL FUR THAT IS (UNFORTUNATELY AND SADLY) LEGALLY ALLOWED MUST NEVERTHELESS BE LABELLED AS SUCH - THAT IS: "REAL FUR" - IRRESPECTIVE OF THE ANIMAL FROM WHICH IT IS STOLEN. HOWEVER, HAVING SAID THAT, "REAL FUR" SHOULD BE BANNED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD SO THAT THE CORRECT NAMING OF A SPECIES WILL THEN NO LONGER BE AN ISSUE FOR DEBATE.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marie Gilman

Miss sharylla jackson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is like all of the people only give a crap about making money!!! Before long all of the creatures are going to be extinct all because greedy piece of shit humans killed them for what?? FUR?? give me a F---- break!!! Stop this murderous crap fake fur is just as good!! & China can go to hell for all i care!!!

Sincerely,
Miss sharylla jackson

Ms. Sandra Foster

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of intentional misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Regardless, no animal should be killed for its fur. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Foster

Ms. Sandra Blackwood

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog"; on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I am against ALL fur products, but at least call it by its correct name so people will know which animal had to die for their fashion.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Blackwood

Ms. Valerie Gooding

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission

600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It is just another loop hole for the traders to exploit. Do the right thing and call it what it really is.

Sincerely,
Ms. Valerie Gooding}