

Non-Disclosure of Treated Materials: Exhibits

Attached are photos that represent multiple examples from just one company who sell clearly treated “rubies” without treatment disclosure of any kind. Moreover, the marketing information included on the same page mentions nothing but rare and genuine ruby, leading a consumer to believe that they are buying the best ruby has to offer.

While the sale price for these “rubies” is reasonable for moderate to heavily treated corundum, there is no mention anywhere on this website regarding treatments. In fact, the ‘education’ page found on this website leads one to believe that the “ruby” listed for sale is as rare and valuable as that worn by royalty. The name of this company has been redacted, as it is not one company that we wish to target, but an example of grievous marketing strategies that must not be allowed to continue. Omission of treatment information is no less injurious to a consumer than a bold denial of that treatment.

Gemstone Special Care and Treatment Sheet

Topaz Jewelry

Topaz: shades from sunset to sky

The name topaz is believed to come from the Sanskrit word "tapas" meaning fire, and the Greek word "topazion", an old name for an island in the Red Sea.

Topaz comes in a variety of colors including white, yellow, orange, blue, brown and pink. In nature, topaz is widely found in golden tones that can range from amber to peach. Because many natural topaz gemstones have this golden glow, in ancient times, topaz was often thought to have a special connection to the sun. The ancient Egyptians believed topaz given its radiance protected the wearer and that the stone was invulnerable to harm. The Romans associated the topaz with the sun, Jupiter.

Blue and pink topaz gemstones are especially rare in nature. When natural pink topaz was first discovered in 18th century Russia, it was reserved for the Czar and his family alone.

According to tradition, the topaz has the power to sharpen intelligence, calm the temper, aid in sleep, dispel bad omens and lengthen one's life.

Our jewelry team admires the soft shimmer of blue topaz and uses the gemstone to add an ethereal touch to rings, necklaces, bracelets and topaz earrings. Sometimes our designers choose white topaz for its clear, fiery beauty, much like that of a diamond, but at a more affordable price. Topaz gemstones work beautifully in multi-gemstone settings and can be set with sterling silver or gold.

Today, it is common for clear topaz gemstones to be heat treated to create the popular blue and pink shades. Topaz stones can also be given a special surface treatment to create an iridescent shimmer, sometimes referred to as mystic topaz. Topaz gemstones are often presented in oval, cushion and emerald cuts.

Topaz is mined in Brazil, Sri Lanka, Nigeria and China.

Our topaz rings, bracelets, topaz necklaces and earrings range in style from classic to modern-chic, with a design perfect for every taste and every budget.

TOPAZ: Available in a stunning selection of shades, the topaz's sky blue hue is one of the most popular colors for jewelry designs. Once thought to offer protection, today topaz is favored for its durability and affordability. Yellow topaz is the birthstone for November while blue topaz is for December.

Topaz Jewelry Care & Handling

Topaz is a very hard gemstone (8 on the Mohs scale), but should be protected from hard blows. Sudden temperature changes should also be avoided, as well as prolonged exposure to bright light. Clean your topaz jewelry with warm, soapy water and store your topaz rings, bracelets, necklaces and topaz earrings in your [\[redacted\]](#) presentation box.

With its deep, rich red color, the ruby seems to bring feelings of romance, love and passion to life. Throughout history, the ruby has been one of the most prized gemstones, even preferred over diamonds. The ruby is mentioned in the bible several times, and in ancient Sanskrit writings, it is praised as the "king of precious gemstones." The glowing red stone has also been the gem of choice for royalty throughout the ages, receiving a place of honor in royal crowns, insignias and jewels.

The ruby's shades range from a pinkish red to orangey red to purplish red, with red always being the dominant color. The ruby is believed to open one's heart as well as heal emotional and spiritual wounds. Today, rubies are used to create distinctive jewelry including ruby rings, necklaces, bracelets and ruby earrings.

Ruby Collection

There is no mistaking the vibrant red glow of a ruby. Visit the Ruby Collection web site to see the gemstone's fiery display in rings, necklaces, ruby bracelets and earrings. Our ruby jewelry selection changes often, including one-of-a-kind Estate treasures, so check back often.

RUBY: A bold fiery stone, the ruby is a symbol of wealth, vitality and love. When cut and polished, the ruby's high luster is as dazzling as a diamond's. Ruby jewelry makes the perfect gift for loved ones and is the birthstone for July.

More about colored gemstones.

Ruby Jewelry

Once believed to be fueled by an internal fire, the ruby glows with beauty for all to see. Our jewelry buyers search for rubies with stunning vibrancy, in all shades of red. Rubies add a passionate punch to our bracelets, ruby necklaces, rings and earrings.

Ruby deposits are located in Burma (now known as Myanmar), Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam, Kenya, Afghanistan, Madagascar, Pakistan, Sri Lanka and Tanzania.

Ruby Jewelry Care & Handling

The ruby, like its sister stone sapphire, is part of the corundum family and is one of the hardest gemstones (9 on the Mohs scale), second only to a diamond. Rubies are formed by intense heat and pressure within clay-rich limestone and their color is due to the presence of chromium. Almost all rubies today undergo a heat treatment to bring out their rich color and radiance, and this process does not harm the stone's value or durability. Protect your ruby necklaces, bracelets, ruby rings and earrings in your presentation box when not in use. Clean ruby jewelry with soapy water and a soft, dry cloth when needed.

Gold & Silver Ruby Jewelry

Passion, romance, power, devotion...and elegance! The versatile, dramatic ruby deserves its reputation as the "king of gems." Its rarity in nature can make a ruby more valuable than the most flawless diamond. Its vibrant red colors catch the eye and the breath in ruby jewelry. And you've come to the perfect place to see it happen: the Ruby Jewelry Collection.

Once believed to have the power to heal physical, emotional and spiritual wounds, rubies were worn into ancient battles for courage. Today, the world's royalty still give rubies a place of honor in crowns and gifts of ruby jewelry.

A genuine ruby also means romance, of course! When Britain's Prince Andrew proposed to Sarah Ferguson, he gave her a ruby and diamond engagement ring featuring a Burmese ruby-most desired of all for its glowing color, a deep red with just enough purplish blue influence.

You'll find every shade and style of ruby jewelry in the collection. Our jewelers present hundreds of necklaces, ruby earrings, and ruby rings using gems from the world's famous ruby deposits in Southeast Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

Ruby jewelry makes a perfect gift. It's red for Valentine's Day. It's the July birthstone! And it's the traditional gemstone for a couple's 15th or 40th wedding anniversary. Select a ruby ring, a ruby bracelet, a ruby necklace, a ruby pendant or ruby earrings today. Enjoy how collection makes it affordable and fun to wear rubies!
