

Mrs. Carolyn Ellzey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I am using a standard message to send you my request to prevent this misleading information.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carolyn Ellzey

Ms. Sue Biederman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Do not accept this name change/label. Do not import fur that is obtained inhumanely as to live skinning. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sue Biederman

Ms. Donna Florio

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please work to stop this barbaric practice.

Sincerely,
Ms. Donna Florio

Ms. Elizabeth Buchanan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is an easy and important step you can take to make sure that we have as much transparency as possible for consumers in the U.S.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elizabeth Buchanan

Ms. Raydell Barr

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please treat all animals humanely and DO NOT mislead by calling it what it is not. Even a raccoon doesn't deserve being skinned alive!

Sincerely,
Ms. Raydell Barr

Dr. Barbara Darling-Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It is dishonest not to let consumers know how the fur is produced--that is, by skinning dogs.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. Barbara Darling-Smith

Mrs. Veronika Dorr

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Veronika Dorr

Ms. Steffanie Adams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is ABHORRENT to me that the Federal Government could allow such inaccurate, misleading and downright false descriptions to be used!

Sincerely,
Ms. Steffanie Adams

Ms. Nana Porter

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I am just so totally disgusted by everything that goes in the fur, dairy and meat trade. Shame on everyone!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Nana Porter

Ms. Heather Ras

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

this is disgusting, and the killing should be banned outright.

Sincerely,
Ms. Heather Ras

Ms. Lisa Wagener

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is deplorable! Stop deceiving the public!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Wagener

Mrs. Renne Whitmore

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. All animals should not be tortured for their fur! Stop this barbaric practice.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Renne Whitmore

Dr. Carol Greitner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Torturing and killing any animals for fashion is brutal and uncivilized and no human being should be involved in this business.

Sincerely,
Dr. Carol Greitner

Mrs. Nancy Fahey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The thought of the cruel and inhumane treatment of these animals, all in the name of fashion, makes me cringe with repulsion. Please make it manitory that the clothing labels represent the source of the fur accurately.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nancy Fahey

Ms. rosemary marano

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I beg you to please stop this barbaric practice...please stop the torture of these poor animals...

Bless you for your help.

Sincerely,
Ms. rosemary marano

Mrs. Teresa Goodman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The US government does not allow false advertising, yet the fur industry has for many years been allowed to misrepresent their products in order to make them more "palatable" to the consumer. As you may know, the industry now wants to be permitted to use the label "Asiatic raccoon" on products that actually contain fur from dogs. They have been known in the past as "raccoon dogs," but now the industry wants to rename the animal to make their barbaric practices toward them less apparent to the consumer.

Of course, it is inhumane to raise animals in barbaric conditions and to then skin them alive, as the industry does. Their inhumane practices toward an animal they called a "raccoon dog" in the past and now want to rename an "Asiatic raccoon" have been well documented and well publicized. The industry thinking is that the consumer may remember the well-publicized industry practices toward "raccoon dogs" and won't be as bothered by the inhumane treatment of the animals if they are "raccoons" rather than companion animals like dogs.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Teresa Goodman

Ms. sharon divitt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This practice is ghoulish and not in any way necessary.

It must be stopped. At once.

Thank you,
Sharon Divitt

Sincerely,
Ms. sharon divitt

Mr. Uriah Hodgson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I'm adding a small note, if you feel this is okay then please allow someone to next either skin your prize puppy or your cat. By the way make sure they do it while the animal is alive - because that is how they do it for these lovable animals...

Oh yes and try to look your children or grand-children in the eye and tell them it's okay to kill just so you can enjoy a new jacket. I'm sure they'll understand.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Uriah Hodgson

Mrs. Renee Cassidy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I don't care what this animal is called, it is time for China to stop it's barbaric treatment of animals. Regardless of the species, no animal deserves to be skinned alive, or the host of other mistreatments I am constantly signing petitions to stop.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Renee Cassidy

Mr. Christopher Ebey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. We must always remember that we are the stewards of this planet and all its inhabitants.

Sincerely,
Mr. Christopher Ebey

Mr. Phil Selway

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please don't let the fur trade get away with this. This change will get out and consumers will be very insensed with the government insensitivity towards this issue.

Sincerely,
Mr. Phil Selway

Mr. Robert Mills

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, INCLUDING the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The FTC is there to ensure accuracy in labeling; and to not do so is to not do your job what the Agency is supposed to do.

Sincerely,
Mr. Robert Mills

Mrs. Denise Hodgson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Denise Hodgson

Sincerely,
Mrs. Denise Hodgson

Mrs. Laura Davidov

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon", no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Why anyone would buy fur is beyond me, given the cruelty free alternatives, but my guess is that very few people would want to buy dog fur. People have the right to make an informed decision, and they should at least know that they are buying a skinned dog, not a skinned raccoon.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that, and the FTC should do the same.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Laura Davidov

Ms. Sherry Kraft

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

The appalling cruelty of the fur industry should not be condoned toward ANY species, but the truth that Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (DOG) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family should at the very least be revealed to the public.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sherry Kraft

Dr. John Moore

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I AM SO FED UP WITH THE GROTESQUE AND APPALLING TREATMENT OF ANIMALS
AND WHEN MY ELECTED OFFICIAL DOES NOTHING TO STOP IT THEN THAT PERSON
NOT SOMEONE I CAN TOLERATE REPRESENTING ME IN OFFICE.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. John Moore

Ms. Marie Coleman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Marie Coleman

Ms. Lauren Monsen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please insist on correct labelling so that horrific abuses can be prevented and potential consumers won't be misled.

Many thanks, in advance, for taking action on this important issue.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lauren Monsen

Ms. joyce conklin-vankirk

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. joyce conklin-vankirk

Mr. Christopher Rubino

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Ultimately it doesn't matter what a species is or is called, what matters is the abuse and suffering they endure to satisfy and "industry" based on the unnecessary and callous disregard for the pain and suffering of the innocent. No living creature should suffer for the vanity of the selfish.

Sincerely,
Mr. Christopher Rubino

Ms. Corinna Novak

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

With the high quality of fake fur, there is really no need to have real anymore, but more important than that, we don;t need to add another animal to the list of fur coat contributors.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Corinna Novak

Ms. Lynn Gregory

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please ensure that consumers know they could be wearing DOG fur. Not that I like the idea of raccoons being skinned, but to skin dogs alive is sickening.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lynn Gregory

Ms. Phyllis Britton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

People that purchase fur coats and fur products want labeling clear - no one wants to wear a dog's skin (not sure why they want to wear a raccoon skin either). But they need to know what they're buying.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Phyllis Britton

Dr. Thomas Callahan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I ask that you do not fall for this disgusting scam.

Sincerely,
Dr. Thomas Callahan

Ms. Susan Wright

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I don't agree with any animal being killed just for its fur or coat. There are too many alternatives and synthetic products that are just as good. Just because you want the prestige of owning a real fur coat doesn't make it okay. And the suffering the animals go through is intolerable. That is not why those creatures were put on this earth. Any one who purchases a real fur coat should be on the other side of the cruelty. Then lets see how they feel.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Wright

Ms. J Hawks

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

On a personal note, I am so ashamed of my government and my country at this point (late in my life!) due to the continual deceit of corporations and my "government representatives" who continue to ignore the voices and WILL of the people in this country who have campaigned, written letters, made phone calls, ad naseum to express our opposition to the fur trade across the board! What is wrong with all of you anymore?!

Sincerely,
Ms. J Hawks

Ms. Diane Townsley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

*I'd like add that I oppose using animal fur in all forms, there is no longer a need for it, it's cruel, and I would like to see it banned altogether. *****

Sincerely,
Ms. Diane Townsley

Ms. Elizabeth Wagner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

We no longer need fur with all the technology we have. In addition, there is good old-fashioned down. Please see to it that raccoon dog fur is called exactly that on all labels. Thank you.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elizabeth Wagner

Mrs. marybeth novak

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Call a dog a dog!!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please!

Names are important. Raccoon dogs are not raccoons. They are DOGS!

Labeling for food is important. Labeling for fur is also important and should be accurate. People should know if they are wearing DOG fur. The attempt to deceive consumers by labeling Raccoon Dog fur as Asiatic Raccoon is deceitful and wrong!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call Raccoon Dogs just that.

Please do not support deceitful labeling. It's wrong!

Sincerely,
Mrs. marybeth novak

Mrs. Anita Perry

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Anita Perry

Ms. Karen McCorkle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is something that disturbs me deeply. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, should call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen McCorkle

Dr. Tansy Clay

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Why we're selling fur at all is a mystery to me, but this labeling is misleading and inaccurate. Please require accurate labeling!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. Tansy Clay

Dr. edmund cary

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called raccoon DOG on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. raccoon "dogs".

Sincerely,
Dr. edmund cary

Ms. Peggy Malnati

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog fur to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product, and now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" -- no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Peggy Malnati

Mr. Jerry Carroll

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mr. Jerry Carroll

Ms. Carolyn Paquette

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: SKINNED ALIVE! Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

SKINNED ALIVE!!! IT SHOULDN'T BE ALLOWED TO BE IMPORTED AT ALL!

Sincerely,
Ms. Carolyn Paquette

Mrs. Karol Larke

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Karol Larke

Mr. JORGE FIGUEROA

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

WHAT DO WE GAIN WITH THIS TOTAL WAR AGAINST-NATURE?

INSTEAD OF HAVING GOOD REASONS TO SAVE IT FROM DESTRUCTION--SO MANY DEVISE NEW TORTURE AND KILLING WAYS EVERY DAY---WE NEED TO STOP THIS TODAY.!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mr. JORGE FIGUEROA

Mrs. Barbara Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I'm not sure how anyone can enjoy wearing something that was made with the misery of other beings racoon or dog or rabbit or reptile. But call it what it is. DOG FUR.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Barbara Jones

Mrs. Robyn Ward

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Robyn Ward

Ms. Elizabeth Foreman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is a problem that needs to be remedied. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elizabeth Foreman

Ms. Marcia Peters

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I would take this form letter a step further and say that fur from any kind of canine should be labelled dog fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marcia Peters

Mrs. Erica Gallagher

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

No animal should be skinned alive be it a dog or raccoon. However, marketing the fur in such a deceptive manner to a culture of people that hold regard their dogs as family memebers is sickening.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Erica Gallagher

Ms. Sandra Hamill

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Own the Cruelty - Call them as they are - Raccoon Dogs

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If they want to commit the cruelty, make them own it, make them call them "raccoon" dogs as they are. If they can't own the cruelty, then they should stop the cruelty. Sleazy companies should not get away with sleazy practices.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Hamill

Ms. Karen Barth

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This horrible practice in China of their trade in 'fur' is only being compounded by falsely letting people think it is not from dogs.

Items should be required to be labeled "raccoon dogs".
Although I think the use of any fur and the killing of any animal for its fur or hide or other parts is atrocious, this matter might make other consumers who do buy fur to think about it if they know it is from a dog.

Maybe some day the world will be more compassionate and stop the use of animal parts.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Barth

Ms. B.A. Stanton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please set a standard that the fur trade must adhere to. Please do not allow the fur industry to misrepresent the animal from which fur comes. It is beyond horrific what is done to these animals and people should be able to accurately identify what fur they choose to buy or not to buy, if any at all. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. B.A. Stanton

Mrs. Theresa Misacavage

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Why are we importing dog fur?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Theresa Misacavage

Ms. Rebecca Lavash

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not allow consumers to be tricked by false names. If you believe this fur should be sold, require that the sellers be honest about what they are selling.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rebecca Lavash

Ms. Debra Beyer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It's appalling that anyone is still killing animals for their fur---period. Let alone using more exotic, yet erroneous names to sell their product.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Debra Beyer

Ms. Ranay Peck, M.S.Ed., M.S.P.S.

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

As an animal lover and wild life rehabilitator, our family was very disturbed that raccoon dogs are skinned alive for their fur. We are planning on going to our local papers unless this practice is discontinued

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Ranay Peck, M.S.Ed., M.S.P.S.

Mrs. Linda Kurth

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

They shouldn't be skinned alive!!!! PERIOD!!! Whether they are dogs or racoons.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Kurth

Mrs. Beverly Moody

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please make sure fur labels say, "raccoon dog"

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Fur coats are bad enough, but dog fur is beyond conceivable. I'm sure people would reconsider their purchase if they knew they would be wearing racoon dog fur. Please make sure folks have the chance to understand which kind of animal was skinned alive for their wearing pleasure.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Beverly Moody

Ms. Joyce Layton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

People need to see labeling that tells the truth ! Please make sure that they do. Skinning dogs for their fur for commercial purposes is atrocious and inhumane. Deceiving the public into thinking it is raccoon fur is despicable. We shouldn't even allow that kind of merchandise to be sold in our country because of the inhumane way the animals are treated.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joyce Layton

Ms. Tara Schuley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We have enslaved the rest of the animal creation, and have treated our distant cousins in fur and feathers so badly that beyond doubt, if they were able to formulate a religion, they would depict the Devil in human form. ~William Ralph Inge, Outspoken Essays, 1922

Sincerely,
Ms. Tara Schuley

Ms. Azie Amini

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: List and Ban raccoon dog for FUR...

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Pls put an end to killing, skinning and torturing animals so some idiot would wear something furry. This is cruel, barbaric and should have stopped a long time ago....

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Azie Amini

Ms. Monica Tiller

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Make no mistake. This animal is a DOG. A companion animal. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Monica Tiller

Mrs. Linda Cohen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels and Do not permit the skinning alive of any animal

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. It is inhumane to do this to any living creature!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Live skinning should be illegal when it comes to any living creature!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Cohen

Dr. Darlene Moak

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I wish that no one wore fur. Fur production is always accompanied by unspeakable cruelty. But at least people should know exactly what they are wearing - not raccoon - a species of DOG.

Sincerely,
Dr. Darlene Moak

Ms. Yvonne Gaide

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE MAKE IT STOP!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Yvonne Gaide

Ms. Naomi Simmons

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Killing any being needlessly is just sick behavior. Humanity has become pathetic....

Sincerely,
Ms. Naomi Simmons

Ms. thao do

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is disgusting and inhumane. Please do not mislead the consumer, I'm sure most people would be shocked to learn they are wearing dog's fur.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. thao do

Ms. Melinda Grant

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require a "raccoon dog" label!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Wasn't the FTC established in the first place to promote honesty?
Raccoon dogs are DOGS, not raccoons! Please be honest and require the fur industry to be honest! This industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Please be honest! And require honest labeling! Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Melinda Grant

Mrs. Jennifer Prather

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you in advance for allowing me to easily make compassionate shopping choices.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jennifer Prather

Ms. Pamela Barnett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do something immediately to stop the skinning of living animals in China and other countries.. I can't think of a crueller way to kill an animal.. Inhumane!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Pamela Barnett

Ms. Julie Johnson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Consumers need to be educated and realize that ALL fur comes from a formerly living animal that was killed specifically for their SKIN to which their fur is attached.

Sincerely,
Ms. Julie Johnson

Ms. Andriette Redmann

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "Raccoon Dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Selling Dog Fur: The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (Dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (Raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Andriette Redmann

Ms. Joanna Burgess

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Skinning animals alive. What more can be said? THis: The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joanna Burgess

Mr. Scott Teel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If the fur industry is afraid of honesty, then that simply proves they know they're doing something terrible that people won't approve of. Otherwise, why wouldn't they label things correctly? There is no other reason. It's very simple.

Sincerely,
Mr. Scott Teel

Ms. Laura Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

STOP ALLOWING FUR OF ANY KIND!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Laura Smith

Ms. nancy egger

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please stop the harming of these animals. They do not deserve this. Lets skin you alive and see how it feels to you. And to label it falsely is wrong. People need to know what they are really going to buy. I would never buy any real fur clothing. This is all wrong.

Sincerely,
Ms. nancy egger

Ms. Maria Sawka

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And no matter what the animals name is, nothing should be skinned alive! That is barbaric and sick.

Sincerely,
Ms. Maria Sawka

Ms. christine Schaffer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Wearing any fur is amoral. Lying about the kind of animal you've skinned is gratuitous. Just tell the truth. Racoons or dogs... neither should be skinned and worn by some stupid excuse for a human.

Sincerely,
Ms. christine Schaffer

Ms. Faith Reynolds

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

Please do not allow the fur industry to tag garments as "Asiatic Raccoon fur". Please require the fur industry to truthfully disclose "Raccoon Dog fur" on their labels.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Faith Reynolds

Ms. Laura Soltis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Fur in general should be outlawed, but at the very least, people should know what they are actually getting.

Sincerely,
Ms. Laura Soltis

Mrs. Dona Price

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that and please see to it this horrid misrepresentation does not go on.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dona Price

Mrs. Judith Maron-Friend

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

SKINNING "" ANY "" ANIMAL ALIVE OR DEAD
FOR IT'S FUR IS SIMPLY APPALLING AND UNCONSCIONABLE!!! WE MUST STOP
THIS INHUMANE TREATMENT OF ALL OUR ANIMAL FRIENDS!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Judith Maron-Friend

Mrs. Mary Martin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I recently saw a program on PBS that showed some raccoon dogs in Siberia, and the cruelty involved in the use of their fur is heinous. China has no respect what so ever for the lives of animals, including the Siberian Tiger, using their parts for ridiculous uses. Maybe we can not stop China, but we can control how we do things. Please we already help China to the extreme, so don't let their black market and mislabeling be allowed in this country.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Martin

Miss alexandria montgomery

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is so outrageous and despicable.

I am appalled to learn about this blatant deception that has been going on for the greed of the fur industry.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss alexandria montgomery

Mr. David Aduddell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please nip this mis-representation in the bud at your earliest opportunity. Thanks in advance for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
Mr. David Aduddell

Miss jennifer lea dulin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss jennifer lea dulin

Mr. Gerald Katen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Could you imagine the pain of being skinned alive? How much pain are you in when you get a paper cut!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Gerald Katen

Mr. Andrew Liles

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And, if you have ever seen how these fur traders and trappers operate, you will no doubt agree that their methods are the most barbaric and inhumane act imaginable - no contest. To think we as humans can consciously rain down pain and terror on another living being like this is simply unbelievable. Please help these defenseless creatures any way you can. No extra dollar and no extra vote is worth this.

Thank you!

Sincerely,
Mr. Andrew Liles

Miss Rene Andino

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: STOP SUGAR COATING THE WORLD FOR YOUR PROFIT

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Lets be frank, tons of unnecessary animals deaths are made every day for the sake of us being able to wear fur even in climates where its absolutely unnecessary and just a fashion statement. I'm not asking you to change to the world just call it as it is and stop misleading people to think there wearing something there not. Also so we can be real and face what were dong if you can't call by its real name because people will be deterred maybe thats hint that your doing something wrong.

CALL IT WHAT IT CASUE THE REST OF US WILL CALL IT LIKE WE SEE IT. HOW WOULD YOU LIKE US TO CALL OUR VOTE FOR YOU THIS YEAR.

Sincerely,
Miss Rene Andino

Mrs. Marilyn Tracy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marilyn Tracy

Ms. Erica Thompson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Fur for fashion should be illegal anyway!

Sincerely,
Ms. Erica Thompson

Mr. Kevin Wessels

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I'm sure you've gotten thousands of these emails. Please allow me to add that the more I learn about the fur trade, the more disgusted I get. Please help us protect these dogs who are not able to protect themselves, as well as Americans from being fooled by this sleight of hand name change.

Sincerely,
Mr. Kevin Wessels

Ms. Libby Waite

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dogs under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The fur industry should be required to do so, as well.

Sincerely,
Ms. Libby Waite

Ms. Vicki Okerstrom

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If you can't ban the sale of racoon dog fur products in the U.S., please label it correctly to diminish demand for the product. We have no need for clothing made out of dogs in the U.S.

thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Vicki Okerstrom

Mr. terry amadon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

THIS IS HORRIFIC!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mr. terry amadon

Mr. Robert Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

HOW CAN ONE STAND BY AND LET A DOG BE SKINNED ALIVE AND THE RESULTING FUR BE MISREPRESENTED ON A LABEL OF A GARMENT SOLD HERE IN AMERICA????

Sincerely,
Mr. Robert Jones

Ms. Jeannie Lewis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: PLEASE require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If this were you, you would change the rule. This poor dog has no voice!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do the right thing and make sure it is crystal clear that a dog is being butchered for its fur so everyone can boycott it.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jeannie Lewis

Ms. Lori Paul, RVT

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

As a California licensed veterinary technician, biologist and former zoo keeper at the Los Angeles Zoo, I can attest to the fact that Raccoon Dogs are, in fact, dogs and should NOT be misleadingly referred to as Asiatic raccoons for the convenience of the Chinese fur trade. I have seen the horrific, undercover videos, absolutely unforgettable and disturbing, of raccoon dogs being skinned literally alive. The realization that one flayed body is alive, conscious and weakly raising its head to look around without its skin on a pile of other flayed bodies is enough to make one physically ill. I have seen many cruel acts in my life, some quite shocking, but that tragic image remains seared in my memory.

I urge you to review that documentation of cruelty in Chinese fur farms, where they stomp on live, struggling raccoons dogs, hang the helpless animals while conscious, and literally cut and strip their skins off while they struggle. This is done so there are no marks on the hide. You will experience nightmares watching those videos. I've had to kill numerous animals in my life and have always done so as quickly and as humanely as possible, but what goes on in the Chinese fur industry exceeds all bounds of human barbarity and disregard for suffering. These practices need to see the light of day and be stopped... now. Reclassifying the fur from raccoon dogs will not help stop the abuse, but will perpetuate it.

Marketing fur products under the name "Asiatic raccoon" will confuse customers who would never wish to wear canine (dog) fur and obscures the shocking reality of what is being done to the raccoon dogs raised in filthy, tiny cages where they are abused and, ultimately, killed in a prolonged and agonizing manner.

Please do NOT permit any reclassification of raccoon dog fur into something it is not, such as "Asiatic raccoon." Instead, I urge the Federal Trade Commission to investigate and ban all raccoon dog fur products from importation. Only by cutting off demand and a market for these products will the torture of captive raccoon dogs and other hapless creatures be stopped.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lori Paul, RVT

Mrs. Debbie Wicks

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I do not see the reason to kill animals for fashion - just stupid !!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Debbie Wicks

Mrs. Susan Sodaro-Carter

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Misrepresenting products is a disservice to everyone. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Susan Sodaro-Carter

Ms. EHREN CLOVIS

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry wants to be allowed to sell raccoon DOG fur under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the skinning of this DOG that is required to obtain the fur.

The use of any animal fur that causes the animal pain or death is disgusting. To further condone such actions by allowing false and misleading labeling goes beyond heinous.

Raccoon DOGS are indeed DOGS, as cited by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution. Do your job and require accurate, true labeling of these fur products.

Sincerely,
Ms. EHREN CLOVIS

Mr. Brad Beals

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please take a minute and review some of the gut wrenching stories on the internet of the inhumane treatment of these creatures. It'll haunt you for weeks. No one and no creature should be treated this way. Enabling the fur industry to mislead consumers as to the nature of these animals is guilt by complicity.

"Any society, any nation, is judged on the basis of how it treats its weakest members -- the last, the least, the littlest."
~Cardinal Roger Mahony, In a 1998 letter, Creating a Culture of Life

Thank you.

Brad S. Beals

Sincerely,
Mr. Brad Beals

Ms. Madelyn Thomas

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Live skinning? They ought to be shot. (People that do it, that is)

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Madelyn Thomas

Miss Meghan Oliver

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: "Raccoon" dog fur: please require correct labeling

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are not, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Meghan Oliver

Ms. Caitlin O'Donnell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Asiatic Raccoon is RIDICULOUS. CALL it what it is - a dog!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

First of all, you should actually outlaw ALL fur trade, because it is barbaric, disgusting, and cruel. However, more pressing, you should REQUIRE the RACCOON DOG to be called a dog, because it is. It is not a rodent or raccoon.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Caitlin O'Donnell

Ms. Letitia Herman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

China is not a country that we want to follow or allow any of their practices.

Sincerely,
Ms. Letitia Herman

Mrs. Kim Strauss

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We are in the 21st century now. There is a space station orbiting the planet. If we have the technology to put that together, I think we can come up with an alternative to using fur for clothing.

Furthermore, if the wearing of fur is a continued status symbol, then that is reflective of us being a most selfish, cruel and even barbaric people. A severe indictment of our perceived humanity, if you ask me.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kim Strauss

Mrs. Kristine Cullen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Better yet, don't allow the use of fur for garments.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kristine Cullen

Ms. Angela Paschall

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be labeled as such. Dogs are NOT raccoons!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Consumers have a right to know if a garment contains dog fur!

Sincerely,
Ms. Angela Paschall

Ms. Margaret Adams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

As you may know, the fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product. Now, they hope to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so consumers will not make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal - disgusting and disgraceful abuses that have been well documented!

Please realize: Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs by their proper name. I trust that from now on you will too!

Thank you..

Sincerely,
Ms. Margaret Adams

Ms. Teresa Zipf

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Unbelievable! No words...

Sincerely,
Ms. Teresa Zipf

Ms. Marla Poor

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: PLEASE require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please consider this issue very carefully. I know you think this is a form letter, which it sorta is but please stand up for animals. Please. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marla Poor

Miss Julie Janes

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: It's NOT a raccoon, it's a dog: call it what it is, FUR.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Call it what it is. Be Honest to the public! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Julie Janes

Ms. Diana Urban

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I have seen the horrific undercover videos of these dogs skinned alive their eyes silently pleading for someone to help. It is imperative that we call them by their proper name and that there can be no doubt that their fur is the fur of a dog

Personally any use of fur is repugnant to me but the deliberate obfuscation of the fur industry brings this to another level

Sincerely,
Ms. Diana Urban

Ms. beverly swift pony

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

One again I am stunned at the vicious cruelty that humans are responsible for....SHAME on us....when will this stop?
The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. beverly swift pony

Mrs. Sharon Van Hecke

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The skinning of dogs alive - or any animal for that matter is a shameful and inhumane practice. Please stop allowing companies to hide behind obscure labels which keep consumers in the dark on what they are purchasing.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sharon Van Hecke

Mrs. Shirley Gentzyel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that The bottom line is DON'T USE FUR AT ALL, LEAVE THE FUR ON THE ANIMALS WHERE GOD MEANT IT TO BE!!!! We have so many man made material that look like fur just tell those mindless people its real!!!.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shirley Gentzyel

Mrs. Kathy Baliker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

QThe fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kathy Baliker

Mrs. Joyce Vanbeers

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joyce Vanbeers

Ms. Silvia de Cardenas

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Whether dog, raccoon or some other animal, all fur/pelts should be labeled exactly for what they are.

Sincerely,
Ms. Silvia de Cardenas

Ms. Susan Endries

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

When will people stop buying wild animal fur? For me, its not that the raccoon dog is of the dog family but that is pointless, cruelly killing a creature to DECORATE a piece of clothing. Come on!

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Endries

Ms. Vanessa Granville

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

While I don't condone buying or selling any real fur products, I feel especially compelled to do whatever I can to prevent the fur industry, who has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell this cruel product that now they want to be allowed to sell under the name "Asiatic raccoon," from doing so. This renaming move is undoubtedly being made so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of the raccoon dog that have been well documented. Please don't allow this to happen!

Sincerely,
Ms. Vanessa Granville

Ms. Karen Ladino

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please stop lying to the consumers and have at least respect for animals that are use to satisfy whims superficial!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Ladino

Dr. Thomas Culliney

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The fact that you are even considering this rule change, which will perpetuate needless cruelty, is an affront to all dog-lovers and others who believe in the humane treatment of animals.

Please reconsider the merits of, and need for, this change in regulations.

Sincerely,
Dr. Thomas Culliney

Ms. Lou Hart

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called DOG on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

These are DOGS.

And, even if they were "wild" animals, they should not be killed.

Haven't you had enough KILLING in this lifetime???

Sincerely,

Ms. Lou Hart

Mrs. Christina Olivera

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thanks God Bless you

Cristina Olivera Chavez

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christina Olivera

Ms. Susan Weiner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help correct this unacceptable situation. We are caretakers not exploiters of the animal kingdom.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Weiner

Ms. Sally McGraw

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Do the right thing!

Sincerely,
Ms. Sally McGraw

Ms. Carol Menchu

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

No animal deserves to be skinned alive so some idiot can have a "fur" something.

No animal deserves to be killed any more than we do--and humans are the cruelest of all.

So don't be cruel--be cool, protect ALL furry, scaled, feathered animals.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Menchu

Mrs. Dana Kaiser

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Truth in labeling in fur - Raccoon dogs are dogs not raccoons.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the well documented LIVE SKINNING AND OTHER HORRIBLE ABUSES of this animal.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family. They are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If people want to buy raccoon dog fur on a product, they can do so, but they should be informed on the label exactly what the product is. Truth in labeling is what is necessary.

Speak the truth and shame the devil!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dana Kaiser

Ms. Lois Cheesman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

I'm not a big fan of allowing the use of any fur, but at least let consumers know they are buying DOG fur. A dog by any other name is still a dog.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lois Cheesman

Ms. Kay Fullmer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The idea that any animal is abused for its fur is repellent. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please, humanity before profit!

Sincerely,
Ms. Kay Fullmer

Ms. Lita Spratt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Any resistance to insisting the fur industry correctly label the racoon dog as "Asiatic racoon" makes the FTC complicit in contributing to the torture of these lovely creatures that are members of the dog family. Additionally, consumers have the right to know exactly what they are buying.

Do the right thing and insist the fur industry label fur correctly.

Thank you,

Sincerely,
Ms. Lita Spratt

Mr. NORMAN ANSTEY

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

IN FACT, WHY NOT EARN THE TITLE "HUMAN" AND BAN THE FUR TRADE
ALTOGETHER. YOU WOULD BE BANNING CRUELTY AND SUFFERING AS A MEANS OF LIVLIHOOD

Sincerely,
Mr. NORMAN ANSTEY

Ms. BJ MARRA

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I don't want to sound like some radical animal rights person or rant on and on about the cruelty of animals subjected to the fur trade. YOU KNOW ALL THAT - you know everything there is to know.

Therefore I'd like to ask you to PLEASE listen to your heart and your conscious and help change things for the better. I used to wear fur; it's pretty and warm; a fashion statement & a status symbol. To be honest I felt pretty hot when I walked in the room with my beautiful coat - the envy of others. But there was always this uncomfortable feeling I got from doing this. And you know it didn't take reading books on the fur trade or watching horrific videos of the slaughter of beautiful creatures; all it took really was listening to my heart and allowing my conscious to guide me.

And then one day I made the decision that my happiness and enjoyment and time on this Earth would not be at the expense of our companion creatures or the insane cruelty they are subjected to.

Please, as a society we need to make these changes. NOW. If we don't wake up and realize all life is sacred and has it's place in the circle of life we are dooming ourselves to a very bleak and dark future.

I would plead with you to just stop this practice in its entirety but this letter is specific to labeling and so all I can ask you is to give consumers the truth about the products they purchase.

Thank you

Sincerely,
Ms. BJ MARRA

Mr. kevin williamson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you!

Sincerely,
Mr. kevin williamson

Ms. Cynthia Price

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

American consumers would and should be disgusted to know they are wearing dog fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia Price

Ms. Erin Jordahl

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that

Please do not allow the fur industry to misrepresent the source of this fur by calling it "Asiatic raccoon" or any other misleading name.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Erin Jordahl

Mr. Thomas White

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I believe the fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product and now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Thomas White

Ms. Sandy McLelland-Hennessey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is an important Truth in Labeling issue.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandy McLelland-Hennessey

Ms. Denise Napoleone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Whoever choose's to wear fur should see how the animals (regardless of species) are "farmed", the overcrowded, filth ridden cages, CONSTANT inbreeding & ultimately the slaughter of skinning alive & the heart wrenching scene as the poor animal screams as death is NOT immediate!! They would see piles of animals, shaking from shock, tears flowing. It is pure HORROR!!! From start to finish product, ANYONE who participates in the process-IS SOULESS!! WE MUST END THIS BARBARIC BUSINESS!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Denise Napoleone

Mrs. DORINA CRUZ

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

You should watch a dog being skinned alive in China before making your decision.

Sincerely,
Mrs. DORINA CRUZ

Mr. colin ferguson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

In America, we love our dogs almost as much as our children!

How will it look on the nightly news when it comes out that you approved this change?

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. colin ferguson

Ms. Maureen Williams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Why any of the human species would skin any live animal is beyond comprehension, no excuses.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your kind consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Maureen Williams

Ms. Margaret Gonzalez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I am simply disgusted about this practice. I am proud to be an American but very tired of our willingness to allow ignorance and cruelty to be tolerated. Please require the correct labelling of this product.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. This is true. These names aren't synonyms.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Margaret Gonzalez

Ms. Helen Moose

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Better yet, let's not allow this product which comes from the abuse and suffering of this animal in our country at all. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Helen Moose

Mrs. Joan Curtiss

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

By ensuring that raccoon dogs are labelled as such will help ensure that consumers are aware of what they are purchasing. Please do not allow the misrepresentation of this animal.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joan Curtiss

Mrs. jill sullivan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please, it is a dog!

Sincerely,
Mrs. jill sullivan

Ms. Madelaine Burgess

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please don't let the fur industry mislead consumers.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Madelaine Burgess

Ms. Patricia Fitzgerald

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Disgusting!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Fitzgerald

Ms. Mara Dillinger

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" DOG on fur labels!!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mara Dillinger

Mr. Eric Johnson,RN,RRT

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Eric Johnson,RN,RRT

Ms. Susan Garry

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Garry

Mr. Patrick Newcomb

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It's time for you to earn the money the taxpayers pay you and represent them appropriately. Do your jobs, make these countries call the animal what it is, a "raccoon dog".

Sincerely,
Mr. Patrick Newcomb

Mrs. Sharon Clevesy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It's bad enough that this practice is even legal, but the industry should at least be required to be honest about what they are selling.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sharon Clevesy

Mrs. Jackie Newcomb

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It's time for you to earn the money the taxpayers pay you and represent them appropriately. Do your jobs, make these countries call the animal what it is, a "raccoon dog".

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jackie Newcomb

Mrs. camilla losnegard

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I believe a consumer has the right to FULL DISCLOSURE and if they choose to buy it KNOWING what it is, then that's their right but it cannot be allowed to mis-represent what they are actually being sold.

Sincerely,
Mrs. camilla losnegard

Ms. joyce britt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

LIVE SKINNING OF ANY ANIMAL IS INHUMANE !

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. joyce britt

Mrs. Donna Nives

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

A dog is a dog is a dog. Please let that fact be apparent by labeling the product accurately as Dog Raccoon.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Donna Nives

Ms. Robyn Dutra

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Whether "dog" or "raccoon", let's end this barbaric practice - of not only mislabeling, but mistreating any and all animals for vanity. My fashion is fur-free for many ethical and moral reasons.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Robyn Dutra

Mr. BRYON HAMBACKER

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

On a personal note, I find it disgusting that the US allows any merchandise to be sold that is made from such an animal. This is a case of plainly misleading the public, who would no doubt run from such products if given accurate information by government agencies supposedly protecting its citizens.

This must be stopped!

Sincerely,
Mr. BRYON HAMBACKER

Ms. Susette Baker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If you were ever to survive watching the horrific act of skin being ripped from a live animal - I can promise you that you would do everything in your power to never let that happen again. It's an image you will never forget! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do not let the fur industry fool people into thinking that these animals do not matter when in fact they do!

Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. Fur off an animal is horrible!

Susette Baker

Sincerely,
Ms. Susette Baker

Mr. George Sarris

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

What a horrible fate for a dog, raccoon, or any creature. No animal should be skinned alive. I implore you to use your authority and require this creature be aptly labelled "raccoon dog" on fur labels, etc. The fact that I have to request such compassion is pitiful.

Sincerely,
Mr. George Sarris

Mrs. Pat jude

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is not fair to the dogs that are miss treated. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Pat jude

Ms. Michelle Wall

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Changing the name will not change the mistreatment of this animal, it will cause MORE racoon dogs to suffer. Call it what it is or even better label all fur products with the tab "inhumane". If it is just a word....whats the difference?

Sincerely,
Ms. Michelle Wall

Ms. Joan Rogers

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for standing up and showing you care.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joan Rogers

Mrs. Margie Manthey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The public has a right to know what they may be purchasing!

Thank you,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Margie Manthey

Mr. William Sheehan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

What possible justification can there be for a different result?

Sincerely,
Mr. William Sheehan

Mr. ROBERT GREEN

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I AM HORRIFIED!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. ROBERT GREEN

Mrs. Terrie Kennedy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I Can't believe anyone with a human brain would even want to don a piece of clothing made from torturing any kind of animal ESPESIALLY canine. So come on, call it like it is on these labels. I think any label on clothing that was gotten from torturing any animal should have to state that animals were tortured.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Terrie Kennedy

Mr. Ronald Mincin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mr. Ronald Mincin

Ms. Wendy Goetz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Proper labeling is a first step. See a video of these poor creatures being skinned alive and it is obvious that more drastic measures should be treat them more humanely.humanely.

Sincerely,
Ms. Wendy Goetz

Ms. Patricia Tavare

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Better yet, change over to faux fur and show you have respect for animals, caring people, and their feelings! I may cost you to change over, but in the long run you will save money on the front end and make even more money on the back end.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Tavare

Ms. Susan Rice

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is typical for individuals and groups to use misleading speech to try to cover over cruel or unethical practices. Consumers need to know how, where and what went into the products they buy.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Rice

Mrs. Christine Rickert

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christine Rickert

Mrs. GAIL NICHOLS

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This practice sickens and saddens me. The public at large deserve to know the truth. Obviously...there is a reason for the deceit. Trying to make their product 'acceptable' is unconscionable AND inhumane.

Sincerely,
Mrs. GAIL NICHOLS

Miss Karma Cornell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please member that we are humans, we are supposed to be the highest form of intelligent beings and it is our job to do the best we can for every being so how can his horrific practice still be happening! It is time to put a stop to this once and for all, we don't need fur, and there is no excuse for the cruel and appalling things that are happening in order to provide this barbaric thing. It needs to end, and people need to realize that if it would never be considered okay to be done to humans than there is no way it should ever be considered okay to be done to an animal, especially for such a superficial completely unnecessary service. It's time to stop this now and to tell future generations that it is not okay and should never be allowed to happen.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Karma Cornell

Ms. Sherry Plante

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sherry Plante

Miss Lindy Schatz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

They should also not allow skinning of these animals at all!!!

Sincerely,
Miss Lindy Schatz

Ms. Lisa Dooley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is my hope that one day NO animal is hunted or farmed for their fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Dooley

Dr. Stockton Garver

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Why just stop at a name change, wouldn't it be better to ban the import and sale of this fur and products made from it? Whether from a canid or any other species, the means by which the fur is obtained is beyond inhumane, it is disgustingly sadistic and produces a product that the world can well do without.

Sincerely,
Dr. Stockton Garver

Mr. Mike Lasater

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

There is no need for this! People who buy fur should be told EXACTLY what it is they are buying, then maybe they would not.
Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mr. Mike Lasater

Mrs. Jane Waterlow

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Let's at least call this poor animal by it's correct name!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jane Waterlow

Ms. sANDRA christman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I don't know how many of you have pet dogs, but those of you who do, know that your dog should not be skinned alive to make fur products. I have seen video of this and it is horrific. No animal should be skinned alive, and for this to happen to mans best friend is atrocious. I plead with you to help make it stop by making sure that we at least know what we are buying by following the reconciliations below.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. sANDRA christman

Ms. Elaine Lemos

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Don't use any fur but fake fur if you must!
We don't need to skin any animals in 2012. It is barbaric!

Sincerely,
Ms. Elaine Lemos

Ms. claire de Brunner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. claire de Brunner

Ms. Karen Mayer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And nevermind just changing the name - WHY THE HELL ARE WE ALLOWING ANIMALS OF ANY KIND TO BE SKINNED ALIVE FOR THEIR FUR???? ARE WE THAT BARBARIC AND INSENSITIVE TO ALLOW THIS JUST FOR GREED???????

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Mayer

Mr. Pierre Grzybowski

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: TEST -- DISREGARD

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

TEST - DISREGARD

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

TEST - DISREGARD

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

TEST - DISREGARD

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

TEST - DISREGARD

Sincerely,
Mr. Pierre Grzybowski

Mrs. Lenore Crauthamel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Consumers need to be aware that this is A DOG, not a raccoon. and knowing these animals are abused ,TORTURED while still alive the government needs to step in and NOT allow these pelts to be imported. such as when toy animals with REAL FUR from Dogs, and cats were banned! consumers need to be aware of these horrific practices. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lenore Crauthamel

Dr. Deborah Bregman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is deplorable that this would be accepted by this country in light of the inhumane manner in which these living creatures are treated. Manipulation of phrasing leads to misleading and basic "lying" to the public in order to "make a buck" at the cost of innocent lives. Please reconsider the Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201.

Sincerely,
Dr. Deborah Bregman

Ms. K. M. Brunner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I am appalled that any governmental body in the United States would allow this type of "misclassification" of dogs. If this is just a way for China and other such countries to skirt the US Federal Dog and Cat Fur Protection Act, which prohibits dog and cat fur trade in the U.S, then I am extremely disappointed in the Federal Trade Commission, for allowing the "misclassification" to happen in the first place!

Sincerely,
Ms. K. M. Brunner

Ms. Grace Smith

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do what you can to prevent, the raccoon dogs from being killed, by changing the name, so that people will have an informed choice, and this precious being won't be slaughtered in mass due to people's cruel obsession with unusual and rare species of precious life on the planet.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Grace Smith

Dr. Mary Jane Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon" dog on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Consumers have a right to know exactly what they are buying and judge for themselves whether or not they wish to spend their money on that item. Someone who wishes to avoid purchasing raccoon dog fur may be quite upset to find that they have done just that under the guise of buying raccoon fur, thereby supporting a trade that they oppose. It is important that merchandise sold in the U.S. be labeled truthfully, so I urge you to require that raccoon dog fur be labeled as "raccoon dog" and not by any other name. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Dr. Mary Jane Jones

Ms. Melanie Lovell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I don't think the public should be misinformed regarding the species of animal that is killed in order to make this product. The term "Asiatic raccoon" is misleading and infers that the product is made from a raccoon, not a dog. The methods used to extract the skin off the animal itself are barbaric and cruel.

They are dogs. They should be listed as dogs.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Melanie Lovell

Dr. Lous Heshusius

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. Lous Heshusius

Dr. M Raeder

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The practice of live skinning is abhorable. Consumers need to know that these animals suffer tremendously - for what? Vanity? Please require correct labeling.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Dr. M Raeder

Mrs. Crisinda Tackett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please consider making decisions based on integrity and honor. If this is wrong then make it right.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Crisinda Tackett

Mr. Matt Foster

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please consider the impact of what looks like an attempt at deceptive product labeling.

Sincerely,
Mr. Matt Foster

Ms. amy chagnon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

why should it matter?? It is disgusting whether dog or raccoon!!
It's embarrassing being a member of the human race :(

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. amy chagnon

Mrs. Marilee Chipoletti

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Skinning any animal alive is barbaric. No living creature should be subjected to such inhumane treatment and torture.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marilee Chipoletti

Mr. Mark Pilger

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please label Raccoon Dog fur appropriately!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mark Pilger

Ms. Mary Huddleston

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other cruel abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do not allow the fur industry to falsely label the furs from these creatures in order to whitewash their cruelty and sell more coats!

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Huddleston

Dr. John Vernier

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This animal is a DOG. Nothing less. It was put on this Earth to be a companion to man. It is NOT a garment.

If you are a real person reading this you should realize that action is needed, so act.

Sincerely,
Dr. John Vernier

Mrs. Ruth Pezzi

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please keep this name accurate on all labeling so that consumers know EXACTLY what their money is purchasing, and they can make the decision to purchase or NOT purchase knowing how the fur is obtained - in a most inhumane way! Abuse and evil of this type needs to cease.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ruth Pezzi

Ms. karen steele

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for helping God's gifts to us.

Sincerely,
Ms. karen steele

Ms. Paula Suhy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Paula Suhy

Miss Joann Bradley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Fur sellers should have the courage to sell their products honestly. Duping the public is unacceptable, as is petitioning the government to help in their deception.

Sincerely,
Miss Joann Bradley

Ms. Linda Rodis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE STOP THE MISLEADING LABELING. DOES IT REALLY MATTER WHAT SPECIES THE ANIMAL IS. CRUELTY IS CRUELTY AND NO ANIMAL DESERVES TO BE TORTURED.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Rodis

Ms. Karen Dwyer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is time to STOP ALL FUR INDUSTRIES, It is disgusting.
STOP IT!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Dwyer

Ms. Meggan Riley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

If you must murder an animal for its skin, please at least do so with compassion for its pain. Imagine the animal's terrified eyes while it is being killed and please remember that WHAT YOU GIVE IS WHAT YOU GET & AS YOU REAP SO SHALL YOU SOW. This is the truth.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Meggan Riley

Ms. zina thomas

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

ALL FUR TRADE SHOULD BE ILLEGAL....ANIMALS ARE NOT MEANT TO BE ABUSED FOR THE PLEASURE OF HUMANS!!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. zina thomas

Ms. Jen Ryen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Lets hope that eventually no matter what the name, people stop using fur and leave all these precious animals alone.
But until then, lets call them what they are!

Sincerely,
Ms. Jen Ryen

Ms. KINA COSPER

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

YOU MUST TELL THE TRUTH! IT SHOULD BE STOPPED COMPLETELY ANYWAY! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. KINA COSPER

Ms. louise middleton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Even better, don't allow these animals to be killed for their fur!
This is b.s. when we have so many synthetic fabrics that most people can't tell from the real thing. Why does anything have to lose it's life for some fool to feel better about themselves. Stupid, ignorant fur industry.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. louise middleton

Ms. Jo WITT

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The practice of skinning dogs or any other animal is a disgusting practice.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jo WITT

Ms. Clydia Davenpeort

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Remember: What we do to the planet and her creatures we eventually do to ourselves for we too are her creatures.

Sincerely,
Ms. Clydia Davenpeort

Miss melissa meyer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Don't let fur retailers lie.

Sincerely,
Miss melissa meyer

Ms. Sue Bedrick

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Skinning any animal alive is the most cruel, inhumane abomination. How can anyone with a conscience condone such a thing?

Sincerely,
Ms. Sue Bedrick

Ms. Barbara Divver

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Barbara Divver

Ms. Nanci Montgomery

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The heinous treatment of the Raccoon Dog, let alone any killing of animals for fur is cold-blooded and unconscionable. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product-- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Nanci Montgomery

Mr. Mike Wesley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

These animals and other "fur" animals are skinned alive. Please put an end to this, at least the import of this. This is something we would not put up with in this country. These are our values. To let this cruelty be sold here because we are not doing it is not who we are.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mike Wesley

Ms. Kimberley Thelen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Intentionally mislabeling items so that consumers cannot make educated decisions equals lying to them. I want to be able to make informed decisions on what I buy, and where it comes from. And our government should be protecting our rights to do so, not assisting in cruelty to animals and deceiving our people for the profit of another nations greed.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kimberley Thelen

Mrs. Luce Breaz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I am requesting the boycott of ALL FUR to be imported to the U.S., especially fur that animals have been subjected to torture. We need to take measure to end such inhumane acts and stand up for animals.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Luce Breaz

Dr. Carol Steinhart

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product. Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the dog family (Canidae) and NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the raccoon family (Procyonidae).

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Raccoon dogs.

Sincerely,
Dr. Carol Steinhart

Mrs. Rachel Griffiths

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.
Make China clean up there act! Label clearly what they are exporting to us.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Rachel Griffiths

Mr. Marco Gonzalez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

On a personal note, it makes me sick what is happening to these dogs and I pray for their poor souls.

Sincerely,
Mr. Marco Gonzalez

Miss Sarah Del Buon Tromboni

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

To Whom it May Concern,

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Sarah Del Buon Tromboni

Ms. ml ludington

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not encourage the fur industry'd has a long history of misrepresentation. Do not allow th industry to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" This request is no doubt because they do no want consumers make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for standing up for accuracy and truthfulness.

Sincerely,
Ms. ml ludington

Mr. Allan Gleason

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its abominably cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Allan Gleason

Ms. mary cummins

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The fur product labeling act of 1951 stated that the fur item must state which animal fur was used. Previous to 1951 they called skunk fur "American Sable" or "Alaskan Sable." After the truth in labeling act people did not want to buy skunk fur when they found out it was skunk fur. Please, call raccoon dog fur, raccoon dog. Calling it "Asiatic raccoon" or "Finn raccoon" is incredibly misleading. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. mary cummins

Ms. Jacqueline Madsen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The inhumane methods cited in the killing of these animals for their fur is unbelievable. Please stop this horrid abuse!

Sincerely,
Ms. Jacqueline Madsen

Ms. Kathleen Jackson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If you understand that the animals on this planet are sentient beings, you will not allow them to be so horribly abused.
Vote your conscience and vote so you can be proud to tell your children what you supported.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S.
Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathleen Jackson

Ms. Julie Adams

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Do not allow these corp giants to use a name change to continue to cruel and vicious practice of skinning animals alive.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Julie Adams

Mr. Brian Toney

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Can you believe this? Smoke and mirrors. Talk about misrepresentation. How did this happen? Many furs labeled as synthetic are really animal fur too. How did this happen on your watch? Let's meet to discuss your efforts here.

Any company that buys fur that is stripped from an animal alive has no need to sell in the US.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Brian Toney

Mr. Jim & Pat Isaacs

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Would you buy a coat made from "dog" fur if you knew?

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Jim & Pat Isaacs

Mrs. Deborah Hahn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

What is wrong with man made "fur"?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Deborah Hahn

Ms. Kathleen Spicer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It would be a travesty and an injustice to allow consumers to unwittingly purchase products of such cruel acts. A dog is a dog is a dog, and inhumane, heartless, SAVAGE acts such as this should not be unwittingly and unwillingly supported by consumers in this county.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathleen Spicer

Ms. Melanie Pearson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I can't imagine who would want to wear raccoon fur and certainly not dog fur.

Thank you

Sincerely,
Ms. Melanie Pearson

Ms. Emmelien Grahm

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

What is wrong with you people! Doesn't anyone of you own a dog??? Would you like your dog to be skinned alive? Let's keep buying and borrowing money from China :o(

Sincerely,
Ms. Emmelien Grahm

Dr. beverly riverwood

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And, who wants to wear the fur of an animal that is skinned alive - no matter what the name.

Dogs should not be made into clothes.

Sincerely,
Dr. beverly riverwood

Mrs. Celena Cook

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I don't believe that the skinning ALIVE of ANY animal should be tolerated!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Celena Cook

Ms. Lynne Gilliam

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family so we must not misrepresent their species.

I truly appreciate your time to review this proposal.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lynne Gilliam

Mrs. Sarah McCutchen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. It shouldn't matter any way what they are called or what species they are, these animals shouldn't be skinned alive! How can you people live with yourselves when you know this is happening and you do nothing to stop it? All of this neglect and abuse so these "fur companies" can make more money.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sarah McCutchen

Ms. Jennifer White

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regardless of which family the animal originates, fur is unquestionably the cruellest of the animal trades. I defy even the most ardent "fur-wearer" among the fashionable (or not so fashionable) set to see how fur is "processed", and go forward in blissful enjoyment wearing the garment.

The fact that this particular type of fur is obtained from a member of the dog family makes it that much more egregious, hence the mislabelling. Those who would choose to wear fur have a right--a responsibility--to know the origin of the pelt and make an educated decision.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer White

Ms. Denise McDowell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Raccoons shouldn't even be skinned, or any animal. But at least let people no that its Dog fur they are wearing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Denise McDowell

Ms. Carol Schusler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

These animals are not raccoons and should be labeled their full correct name.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Schusler

Ms. Gina Rush

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

When I first saw the images of these beautiful animals who are in fact dogs, in rows of filthy cages awaiting a horrible and painful death in China, they were indelibly imprinted on my mind and when I found that they could be mislabeled on garments as faux, I felt so sad and so angry and could not believe it. I would do anything to find a way to stop this horrendous inhuman practice PLEASE do not allow this to happen, this would promote more torture and further the horror of these poor dogs lives. We cannot allow our best friends to suffer in this manner please stop this from proceeding.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Gina Rush

Ms. Lori Haynes

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I am really tired of being "tricked" into thinking an item I am looking at is something it isn't. This is just such an instance, and people need to know just exactly what they are buying and how it got there. I do not buy anything with fur, even faux fur, because there is so much fraud and deception I can't trust anything to be what the label claims it is.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lori Haynes

Ms. Cynthia Bage

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. They are canines, not raccoons. Please do not allow deceptive labeling practices to prevail. If someone is going to wear animal fur, that person needs to know if it's dog fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia Bage

Mrs. Sara Ross

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

As far as I'm concerned, the "fur industry" should bloody well go out of business, as they use fur bearing animals in very barbaric ways. I would never buy anything of fur. As for Asia in general, they seem particularly pre-disposed to treat animals in the most vicious and cruel ways, (although unfortunately they are not alone in this psychopathic behavior).

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sara Ross

Ms. Pam Silva

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do the right thing for these innocent animals.
Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Pam Silva

Dr. Michael Prater

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I have personally seen the gruesome footage of these poor animals being skinned alive and have even contacted the Chinese embassy regarding their inhumane treatment. Mislabeling them "raccoon fur" only contributes to their ongoing SUFFERING!! You must not contribute to this ongoing, disgusting practice.

Sincerely,
Dr. Michael Prater

Miss Shannon Orr

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is truly ridiculous. Feeling the pressure from lobbyists, are we?

Sincerely,
Shannon Orr

Sincerely,
Miss Shannon Orr

Mr. Stephen Schlosser

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This whole subject is kind of gross. I was unaware of raccoon dogs and how they are treated in some areas. Please do the right thing.

Sincerely,
Mr. Stephen Schlosser

Mrs. ronda Locke

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I cannot even begin to discuss the concept of skinning live! ple

Sincerely,
Mrs. ronda Locke

Ms. Marianne Skoczek

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product. Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do not let the fur industry get away with this.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marianne Skoczek

Ms. Jean Mullen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please stop the fur industry from misrepresenting the fur of Raccoon Dogs!! The public has a right to know that these furs are coming from a member of the Canidae (dog) family. The public should also know about the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented..

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This cruelty to these and other innocent animals is appalling and must stop!

Sincerely,
Ms. Jean Mullen

Ms. Sheila House

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Sheila House

Mr. Gilles GRID

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

A Raccoon dogs is a dog NOT a "Asiatic raccoon" !

Sincerely,
Mr. Gilles GRID

Ms. Lisa Haney

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is disheartening to hear that some countries still have such a disregard for living animals. This must stop.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Haney

Ms. Kristina Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The way these animals are treated is exceptionally cruel and if consumers knew the market would shrink. There are many things on Gods earth more important than money. Moral human beings do not treat Gods creatures the way these animals get treated. I expect the FCC to uphold the mainstream values of American culture in its policies. Anyone in the US who treated an animal the way these canines get treated would be guilty of committing a federal anti-cruelty crime. Allowing mis-labeling that is specifically designed to obscure the true nature of the process is abetting the immoral act. I expect the FCC to insist on honesty in labeling.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristina Jones

Mr. kevin flynn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

At least have accuracy and honesty in your industry.

Sincerely,
Mr. kevin flynn

Ms. Christa Velbel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Dishonesty should not be employed to further any business interests, and the use of dog pelts in garments must not be condoned by an agency of the U.S. government.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Christa Velbel

Ms. ellen Hurley Clark

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please don't allow the killing of these dogs for the fur trade, it is simply not necessary.
Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. ellen Hurley Clark

Dr. Tamara Pizur

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Seriously, why do we even have to ask this of you?

Sincerely,
Dr. Tamara Pizur

Ms. Sarah Link

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

As a dog lover this repulsed me that the government would allow such misrepresentation to the public.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sarah Link

Ms. Margaraet Webber

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog fur to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in advertising its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I would expect our Federal Trade Commission to do the same.

Thank you for your attention to this important and humane subject.

Sincerely,
Ms. Margaraet Webber

Mr. Phillip J Crabill

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If you are going to allow senseless cruelty to these animals, at least be honest about it!!!

Sincerely,
Mr. Phillip J Crabill

Dr. William Millard

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It's obviously absurd for any customer to find the skinning of real raccoons acceptable while recoiling in horror from the skinning of dogs. Animal-fur coats, using any species, are an inhumane way for members of our own species to indulge in luxury. Perhaps if the fur industry is held accountable for dishonesty in this specific area, it will be one step toward a more general evolution beyond the primitive, obsolete practice of flaunting dead animal fur as a status symbol.

Sincerely,
Dr. William Millard

Mr. Franco Tapia

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

I am certain many customers would refrain from buying Raccoon Dog fur products if they actually knew what they were buying.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please be consistent in your naming regulations, and help save a dog's life!

Sincerely,
Mr. Franco Tapia

Mrs. Gloria Ann Callahan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. If you really want to be decent and compassionate human beings, you will work to eliminate the use of all fur. The horrors endured by animals who are killed in the fur trade are hard to hear about, but, I suggest if you are not familiar with what happens to them, to www.peta.org, and you will find out.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Gloria Ann Callahan

Mrs. Mary Trevor

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I can't even walk by fake Uggs without feeling ill.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Trevor

Ms. Nancy yOUNG

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I would suggest that you close your eyes and imagine the face of any animal that has just been skinned alive just so their fur is not damaged and become the embellishment on clothing. Hopefully, you will feel like I did the first time I saw it in practice. I will be forever haunted by the eyes - protruding on a naked face with the expression of such sadness you cannot believe. Do the right thing and ban this practice. We should not be called humans otherwise!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Nancy yOUNG

Mrs. Christina Garcia

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.
They ar mans' best friend!
All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let's give them the protection they deserve!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christina Garcia

Mrs. Cindy Meitzen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Do the right thing and require "raccoon dog" on fur labels!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cindy Meitzen

Mrs. Stephanie Jhones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I find it repulsive that skinning an animal alive is allowed. However, trying to cover the name up and dupe the public is as repulsive. Please do not allow this deception to take place. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Stephanie Jhones

Ms. Elizabeth geiger

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. all fur should be banned from entering the USA

Sincerely,
Ms. Elizabeth geiger

Ms. Susan Sundberg

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels, better yet ban their importation!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Even better ban the importation of all fur and animal products. They are just wiping out the natural resources of their countries to make a quick buck.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Sundberg

Mrs. Andrea Stuart

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

It is imperative that labels represent products accurately without giving preferential treatment to special interests and manufacturers. If a product cannot be sold while providing honest information, then the product is not what the public is seeking. Accurate labeling offers the public a choice while false labeling takes that right to purchase (or not) away from the consumer.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Andrea Stuart

Mr. Timothy Wright

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: raccoon dog MUST be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misleading and misrepresenting their sources and methods in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been so very well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that: DOGS.

Sincerely,
Mr. Timothy Wright

Ms. E Kanner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. E Kanner

Ms. Lisa Owens Viani

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

First of all, this horrid and unbelievably inhumane practice needs to be stopped. Secondly, the fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Owens Viani

Mrs. CHERIE MORTON

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

STOP THIS ATROCITY NOW!

Sincerely,
Mrs. CHERIE MORTON

Ms. Carol Zarrilli

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We must remember fur is ment for the backs of the animals born with it!
Not on the backs of us human animal.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Zarrilli

Ms. Rosanne Cutrone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

STOP KILLING OUR ANIMALS FOR YOUR FURS

Sincerely,
Ms. Rosanne Cutrone

Ms. Anne Austin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Hopefully this can be the start of eliminating the fur trade entirely.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Anne Austin

Ms. Jeannette Logan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is bad enough for people to wear racoon fur, but it is hideous to wear dog fur. Most people would definitely want to know that they are looking at a product made from dog fur so that they could simply make a better choice.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jeannette Logan

Ms. Tanya Cash

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

No animal deserves to be skinned alive, regardless of species, but until we can end that barbaric practice, the least we can do is provide accurate information to consumers.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tanya Cash

Ms. Karen McGee

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its products-- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Do the right thing and do not allow this. We must speak for animals as they cannot speak for themselves. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen McGee

Ms. Shel Demerle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

SO this is a standard message, and i think it covers it all pretty well. However Id like to add, personally, that no animal should be mistreated for its meat/fur/milk/ivory etc etc. There are ways to be more humane to animals. they feel. anyone who has had a pet really believes thier pet loves them when they are sitting there petting them and loving them! its just the right thing to do.

Sincerely,
Ms. Shel Demerle

Ms. Denise Berthiaume

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Denise Berthiaume

Ms. Angela Kendall

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

HOW APPALLING! I would be absolutely horrified to find out a raccoon fur coat was made from a domesticated animal. And I'm not a no-fur-crazy person. Stop this now!!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Angela Kendall

Dr. Janet Mindes, PhD

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Ultimately, whatever any fur-bearing animal is named, they are all subjected to horrific abuses and immorally cruel deaths. Proper labeling and accountability it is hoped will gradually move us toward a world without fur.

Sincerely,
Dr. Janet Mindes, PhD

Ms. Lisa Ulibarri

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

No animal should be skinned alive, so please do the humane thing and help stop this.

May God bless you and all you love.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Ulibarri

Ms. GWENN MULLINS

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I FEEL THAT THIS IS INHUMANE IN ALL WAYS TO THE ANIMALS!
The misrepresentation is just a ploy to make money and avoid the true purpose to save and protect all animals!

Sincerely,
Ms. GWENN MULLINS

Ms. Kacy Harrison

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If you're going to allow animals to be slaughtered at least get their name right.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kacy Harrison

Ms. Tina Cohen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

That being said, SELLING ANY FUR is barbaric and should be stopped altogether!! Any reputation that is gleaned by this act has NOTHING to do with being reputable - it's plain cruelty no matter what the name of the fur is!

"Like a mother who protects her child, her only child, with her own life, one should cultivate a heart of unlimited love and compassion towards all living beings".

The Buddha

Compassion, in which all ethics must take root, can only attain its full breadth and depth if it embraces all living creatures and does not limit itself to mankind.

Albert Schweitzer

To be kind is more important than to be right.
Many times, what people need is NOT a brilliant mind that speaks
but a SPECIAL HEART that listens.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tina Cohen

Mrs. Kathy Perszyk

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Animals, no matter WHAT kind should not be inhumanely sacrificed for ANY industry.

Sincerely,
Kathy Perszyk

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kathy Perszyk

Ms. Bernadette LaManna

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation to make it easier to sell their products, frequently acquired through extremely cruel and inhumane methods.

Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon DOG fur under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so consumers won't make the connection to this member of the Canidae (dog) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs by their real name.

And that is the name that should remain on labels and in marketing materials for products made with fur from these DOGS, not from the fur of raccoons as "Asiatic raccoon" implies.

Sincerely,
Ms. Bernadette LaManna

Ms. Barb Kenealy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Racoons do not need to be used for clothing - PERIOD!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Barb Kenealy

Mrs. nancy wolfe

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Stop letting business manipulate by words as a way to kill helpless animals. The fur is not needed at all. Synthetics do the trick. I am a sled dog racer with many parkas that have wonderful warm fake fur. This is just another way to exploit the planet that is not necessary and causes harm to living things. Stop this now. Do not allow raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". Many people will not realize what is happening. The live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. nancy wolfe

Mr. Joseph Fisch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I urge the FTC, in the strongest possible terms, to reject the fur industry's transparent attempt to profit from the suffering of dogs. There must be truth in labeling. Require them to admit they are skinning a breed of dogs. Require them to call their reprehensible product by its rightful name: "Raccoon Dog."

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mr. Joseph Fisch

Mrs. Theresa Belcher

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I once made myself watch a horrendous video of how these precious animals are beaten to near death by slamming them by their tails against the ground or another object, only to then be literally skinned while still breathing. No living being should be made to suffer so terribly. I buy NOTHING that even remotely resembles fur and this is one of the reasons. Please help end this barbaric practice.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Theresa Belcher

Mrs. Joette Balzan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

To Whom It May Concern,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joette Balzan

Miss Amy Heint

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell this stomach turning, cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

To take things a step further, I fully support the U.S. from not allowing the sale of these items in the United States. This unusually cruel mistreatment and disgusting abuse should not be tolerated in the world!

Sincerely,
Miss Amy Heint

Ms. Cari Pinkerton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

For that matter, no animal species should be used and treated in this manner in the name of fashion.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cari Pinkerton

Mr. kyle howard

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

How can you possibly be allowed to completely MIS-IDENTIFY these animals and expect to have any integrity whatsoever?

Sincerely,
Mr. kyle howard

Mrs. AMY NARDONE

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE MAKE SURE RACCOON DOG FUR IS CALLED RACCOON DOG FUR IN ALL FORMS OF ADVERTISING AND ON ALL LABELS.

Sincerely,
Mrs. AMY NARDONE

Ms. Christine Walls

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Christine Walls

Mrs. June Ramirez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I strongly object to using Raccoon dogs fur, and/or any other animal for that matter. Since raccoon dogs are not wild animals, and are a member of the dog family, it is even more inhumane and cruel. I object to using the fur from any animals, and would hope that if people do not purchase such, there will be a discontinuance in the live fur animal trade.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. June Ramirez

Mr. Glenn Steiding

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

TAKE A LOOK PEOPLE, IT'S A DOG! THE CHINESE ARE SUCH CRUEL SOB'S!! THEY ARE NOT OUR FRIENDS, DO SOMETHING TO STIFFLE THESE CALOUS, HEARTLESS PEOPLE!!

Sincerely,
Mr. Glenn Steiding

Mr. Mark Gardner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mark Gardner

Ms. Janet Parris

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that

Thank you.

.

Sincerely,
Ms. Janet Parris

Ms. Lea Bayliss

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

How can you with a clear conscience justify the live skinning of any animal - how horriife - and yes it does go on all the time in conjunction with other excrutiatingly painful abuses. Just to take the skin off their back and put it on the backs of humans?? What does that say about the human species when members condone such oppressive and cruel practices.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lea Bayliss

Mrs. Leslie Dawley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Also, I do not believe in "LIVE SKINNING"!!!! Why don't we change it to a human live skinning & see how these people feel about it???

Sincerely,
Mrs. Leslie Dawley

Ms. Diane Driscoll

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I want to know what I'm buying! Please don't allow manufacturers to play semantic games, which in this case are scientifically inaccurate, to hide what they're really doing. Call this fur what it is and let consumers make informed choices.

Sincerely,
Ms. Diane Driscoll

Ms. Brin Azzarello

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

even so, why the fuck should a raccooon be treated any different???

Sincerely,
Ms. Brin Azzarello

Ms. Kassandra Vela

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please consider this with your heart and not your pocketbook. It's the heart that we keep with us forever.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kassandra Vela

Ms. Prathi Seneviratne

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product. Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so that consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do not allow for this to happen. Consumers should be able to purchase goods and services based on ACCURATE information about what they are buying. Deliberate misleading of consumers only serves to undermine the free-market principles that we hold so dearly, and to cause unnecessary suffering to animals worldwide.

Sincerely,
Ms. Prathi Seneviratne

Mrs. Ashley Watson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The American people increasingly value truth in labeling. Calling this fur "raccoon dog" is the truth.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ashley Watson

Ms. June Avignone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE SKINNED ALIVE.

Sincerely,
Ms. June Avignone

Ms. Cindy Brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The "Asiatic raccoon" and the Finn raccoon are not raccoons at all. They are dogs. Dogs are friends, companions, and family members to many people all over the world.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cindy Brown

Ms. Trish Bunyard

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is time to take action and correctly label the Raccoon dog as what it is, a dog. Allowing this cruel and inhumane treatment to continue is disgusting.

Sincerely,
Ms. Trish Bunyard

Mrs. Brandi Brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

These are living, breathing animals....in all accounts this is inhumane and a severe form of animal cruelty.

I will never buy any type of fur or animal coat. Hopefully this ridiculous practice will stop.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Brandi Brown

Mr. Sam FRIEDLANDER

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please don't allow consumers to be misled into buying DOG FUR.

Sincerely,
Mr. Sam FRIEDLANDER

Mrs. Judith Becker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I would urge you to watch an animal being skinned alive by a cruel trader before you allow this to go on. Truthfully, all animal fur trim should be replaced by truly artificial fur. (Not the dog fur that is labeled as synthetic that comes from China.)

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Judith Becker

Dr. Nicole Shonka

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Those buying these products of animal misery should be forced to acknowledge exactly what animal has been skinned for their own vanity.

Sincerely,
Dr. Nicole Shonka

Ms. Patricia Fitzpatrick

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I find it difficult to comprehend how we allow anyone to perform a "live skinning" on any creature. It's horrendous. At the very least, let's call a raccoon dog - a raccoon dog - and let's hope that keeps the demand for this product to a bare minimum.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Fitzpatrick

Ms. Lisa Leija

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I don't care what you name it, just STOP killing them!!!! What the HELL is wrong with people and the people of China needs some serious help..... How would you liked if you or your kids were killed alive.

We do not have the right to kill anything or anyone. PLEASE JUST STOP THIS NOW!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Leija

Mrs. Diane Kapetanakis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Everyone should be aware that this is part of the dog family AND NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE SKINNED ALIVE UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES!!!!!!!!!! ARE YOU KIDDING!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Diane Kapetanakis

Mr. ROBERT HARLAN

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thanks for your consideration,

Sincerely,
Mr. ROBERT HARLAN

Ms. Rene Ruston

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

For heavens sake. Use common sense here. A dog is a dog. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rene Ruston

Ms. Jana Flynn-Durham

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I need your help.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jana Flynn-Durham

Ms. Madalyn Ruhl

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Man is to be the animal steward on this earth, so kindly stop the inhumane practice of skinning the poor creature of God for his fur. Do not let dollars rule your conscious and actions.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Madalyn Ruhl

Mrs. ROSALYN Burkett

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. DOGS....CATS...ANIMALS....PEOPLE.....MAY I PLEASE ASK THIS QUESTION...IT IS 2012. SINCE WHEN IS "SKINNING ALIVE" A

DEAR ANIMAL OR PERSON ON THIS EARTH ACCEPTABLE. SKINNING ALIVE. THIS WORLD MAKES ME SICK, AND HOW THE PEOPLE WHO DO THIS TYPE OF THING GET AWAY WITH IT LIKE IT IS NOT IMPORTANT OR ANYTHING BAD.....I WOULD PRAY THEY WATCH SOMEONE SKIN A DEAR CHILD OR FAMILY PET IN FRONT OF THEM AND LISTEN TO THE CHILLING CRY...AND SAY, IT'S OKAY. IT'S FINE. WHEN AND WHO WILL PASS LAWS TO HAVE MERCY AND KINDNESS IN THIS MEAN AND CAREINGLESS WORLD...

NO ONE

CARES NO
ONE CARES
AS LONG AS ITS NOT THEIR SKIN THEY ARE RIPPING OFF THEIR BODIES WHILE THEY ARE SKINNED A LIVE TO BLEED OUT AND DIE.....IT'S WHO CARES. THIS IS TRUE...OR ELSE, THIS TYPE OF CRUEL DEADLY TREATMENT WOULD NOT CONTINUE TO HAPPEN. KEEPS ON HAPPENING. WHY WHY WHY WHY????????????????????

Sincerely,
Mrs. ROSALYN Burkett

Mrs. Alyssa Harrison

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Alyssa Harrison

Sincerely,
Mrs. Alyssa Harrison

Ms. Liz Clark

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do not allow the misleading label of "Asiatic raccoon".

Sincerely,
Ms. Liz Clark

Mrs. lucille courtney

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

What a terrible thing they do! So much misery in the world, maybe we can help these poor little dogs! It's the least we can do!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. lucille courtney

Ms. Therese Davis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The cruel practice of skinning raccoons alive or their fur is HORRID.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Therese Davis

Ms. Erin Malone

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies a dog is, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. If you have a dog or know someone who has dog you must be as repulsed as I am by this.

It is important for anyone who may be fooled not to be walked around with a pet on their back. We need to protect those who can't protect themselves.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Erin Malone

Mrs. Kimberly Brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Harvesting fur from living animals in this way is reprehensible. It must stop. Please help!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kimberly Brown

Ms. Cynthia Opderbeck

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is an outrage! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do your part to mandate that fur from racoon dogs be labeled exactly that. This is a matter of consumer rights and it is a matter of humane treatment by humans of animals.

Thank you for your concern and your anticipated support of protection of animals from cruel treatment!

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia Opderbeck

Mrs. Melissa Butler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If you allow this, it will open other avenues of misrepresentation so other animal's will be skinned alive.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Melissa Butler

Dr. Chris Paradise

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And really, they should also be labelled "this fur was skinned off a live animal."

Sincerely,
Dr. Chris Paradise

Mrs. marjorie tromba

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. marjorie tromba

Mrs. CHRISTINA OLIVER

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Live skinning should be outlawed no matter what the animal!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. CHRISTINA OLIVER

Mr. Alexander contreras

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your time in reading this message, and it was not meant to offend anyone in any way. This cruelty has to come to an end.

Sincerely,
Mr. Alexander contreras

Mrs. JUDY Martin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please, be honest, use the correct name and quit trying to "get away" with something!

Sincerely,
Mrs. JUDY Martin

Ms. DIANE ERICKSON

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

I have seen the videos of the Chinese skinning these animals ALIVE. It is hideous and has no place in American retail.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. DIANE ERICKSON

Ms. Georgia Manes

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please be honest with the labels.

Sincerely,
Ms. Georgia Manes

Mr. m. waters

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

We find this practice of treating any animal in this manner
HORRIFYING!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. m. waters

Ms. PETRA HINKE

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help end this breed's inhumane treatment and terrible suffering by not allowing this misleading name change to pass.

Sincerely,
Ms. PETRA HINKE

Ms. Roberta Holt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Skinned alive? OMG! Nothing-no thing-should ever be skinned alive!
Please abolish this NOW!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Roberta Holt

Mrs. Robin Johnson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Better yet lets stop the killing of of raccoon dogs and put a stop to the fur trade all together. Stop the cruelty!!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Robin Johnson

Ms. Lynne Walker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Dogs are not Raccoons

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Calling my chihuahua a Mexican rat doesn't make it a rodent; some people who would happily wear raccoon would be horrified knowing others are wearing dog. But hiding the identity of a species to make it more attractive to the Western consumer doesn't represent the kind of transparency we Westerners prefer in our government.

Anyone who wants to cover themselves in dog fur could simply get a dog
-- most of them shed admirably.

Thanks.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lynne Walker

Ms. carolyn sumners

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The Federal Trade Commission should not even allow the import of these products, period! This practice needs to go viral, which I intend to start on Facebook, and hope to pressure The FTC to block the fur industry from importing not only the fur, but clothing products trimmed in this fur as well. I am certain the American Public would not support this practice, if widely known!!

Sincerely,
Ms. carolyn sumners

Ms. Sandra Rothenberg

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is just horrible that any dog would be skinned alive or dead for fur!! Please do not support the change of this name, as this creature is a dog and not a raccoon, and people need to know this in order not to support this cruelty!

Thank you,

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Rothenberg

Mrs. kristine hunt

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please require proper labeling so that the general public can be aware of what it is purchasing and choose whether to support this horrible practice or not. People with food issues have a right to know what is in a product so they may avoid it for whatever reason it may be, we as the consumer have a right to know what products we are purchasing and what things are made of.

Sincerely,
Mrs. kristine hunt

Ms. Patricia Welch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Adding insult to injury! The injury - skinning animals alive! The insult - deception! Is there any moral person among us?

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Will the FTC lead the way to a better world or add to the downward spiral?

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Welch

Ms. April Lima

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

For God sakes these barbarians can not be human. No matter what kind of animal it shouldn't have to endure sadistic torture, being skinned alive is beyond evil. Whoever does cruel things like that should not be breathing!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. April Lima

Ms. Britni Locke

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Britni Locke

Mr. Leon 7 phylliw McMillan

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation and now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". This isn't true because Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. So given these reputable sources, why don't you join the majority on this issue? The McMillans

Sincerely,
Mr. Leon 7 phylliw McMillan

Ms. Reina Benavidez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the (raccoon) family.

And skinned alive for the fur !!! that is barbaric. China shame on you and anyone that buys dog fur to wear. It is meant to keep the dog warm not you faux fur is warmer by the way produced in the US and china no one has to lay screaming in agony thrown into a pile to die. Regard for life seems to be very very low these days. I am ashamed of my fellow man.

Sincerely,
Ms. Reina Benavidez

Ms. ERICA AVILA

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I am just learning all of this today and am appalled.

Sincerely,
Ms. ERICA AVILA

Mrs. Sandia Germenis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE LISTEN!!!!!!!!!!!!!! These are dogs that are often skinned alive. So very sad, as I have 4 dogs of my own that are like my children. A nation is only as great as how it treats its animals, it was once said.. not in those exact words (Ghandi). This is a terrible practice, and it must be stopped. Nothing should be skinned alive, or be killed for its fur. May God bless these poor animals, and make those punishing them for no reason to see the LIGHT!. No one would want to be skinned alive. They have feelings too!!! I will not stop praying. The only way it will be stopped is to change the labels on fur products for consumers to see. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sandia Germenis

Ms. Liz Lindsey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Stop the mislabeling of racoon dog fur. It is not fair to the customer. These animals are skinned alive in China. Who wants that? What American wants to give money to China for skinning an animal alive?

What I really wish is for all fur to be illegal in the U.S.. What I really want is at least for fur from China to be illegal.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Liz Lindsey

Ms. Sandra Schroeder

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

LIVE SKINNING OF ANYTHING IS A HEINOUS ACT OF CRUELTY!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Schroeder

Mrs. dorothy daniel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Remember there are simple ways to solve simple problems...ever heard of an elephant dog? How about a horse dog? I didn't think so.. yet you have a raccoon dog and it isn't either..it is one or the other....and it truthfully should be labeled as such and the fur industry knows this.....Be steadfast and courageous...it is time to be firm in your decision....we dumb consumers trust you!!!

Dorothy Daniel

Sincerely,
Mrs. dorothy daniel

Mrs. Shaileen Patton

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Let's call a spade a spade, and a dog a dog. While I'm not sure it would make any difference to a person who is willing to buy real fur in the first place, we should at least strive towards honesty and not misrepresentation.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shaileen Patton

Miss Gail Hale

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. What a horrible thing to do and have a living creature go through. Just wrong in so many ways. My heart goes all to all animals that go through this. It makes me have tears in my eyes to think this occurs. Please do the right thing. Animals have feelings and feel pain. This is inexcusable!!!!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for taking a stand for animals - they are God's creation also. They should not have to be treated this way - it is torture!

Sincerely,
Miss Gail Hale

Ms. Susan Hinkle

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Why do we still have to discuss whether or not to accept deceptive labeling of anything?

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Hinkle

Ms. stephanie whittaker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. stephanie whittaker

Mrs. Gertrude Ward

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please continue to call raccoon dogs by their rightful name and stop the fur industry from trying to pull the wool over the public's eyes. The inhumane, torturous treatment of these animals should also be stopped.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Gertrude Ward

Ms. Galia Goodman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels : this is just honest.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. If you want to be honest you will admit this.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Galia Goodman

Ms. Carol Ryner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

LIVE SKINNING??!!! Does the human capacity for cruelty never cease to create horrified amazement? Label the fur accurately--and while we're at it, look for ways to stop using it entirely.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Ryner

Ms. Ann Olsen

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It should also not be permissible for live skinning of ANY animal much less an animal classified as "Man's Best Friend".

"We can judge the heart of a man by his treatment of animals." Immanuel Kant

Sincerely,
Ms. Ann Olsen

Mrs. Catherine Robson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I am horrified that the FTC continues to allow such atrocities to occur by not informing consumers of the true nature of this fur. Please insist on full disclosure in this matter.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Catherine Robson

Mr. Colin Russell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Dogs are man's best friend. You are man's worst friend if you allow dogs to be murdered for their fur. Be a friend, stop the slaughter.

Sincerely,
Mr. Colin Russell

Miss Julie Brown

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.
sincerley

Sincerely,
Miss Julie Brown

Ms. Phyllis Kirchner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

As well as the above misnaming of the product it is just simply cruel to sell fur - period. At the very least one could ensure that the label is correct.

Sincerely,
Ms. Phyllis Kirchner

Ms. lori kantor

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. lori kantor

Ms. Sandy Colombini

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The skinning of ANY animal for human vanity is an abhorrent practice. Please call a spade a spade and at least let consumers know what they are purchasing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandy Colombini

Ms. Hu Trang

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE STOP ALL CRUELTY TO THESE ANIMALS. DON'T TRY TO DISCRIMINATE THEM BASED ON HOW THEY LOOK. THIS IS VERY DISHEARTENING!

Sincerely,
Ms. Hu Trang

Mrs. Viviane Gluckman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that
No, very few of us in this earth deserve the name "HUMANE"
NO FUR NO FUR SHOULD BE EVER USED - WHETHER IT IS FROM WILD EXOTIC ANIMALS OR DOMESTIC ONES..... PERIOD.
TECHNOLOGY IS SO FAR ADVANCED THAT "FAKE FUR" IS GOOD ENUF
IF "SOME HORRID" PEOPLE INSIST ON FUR = THEY WILL NOT KNOW THE DIFFERENCE IF FAKE = SOLD FOR REAL.
WHY HAVE AND EVEN WEAR 'FAKE' FUR ON YOUR CLOTHES - IT IS MORE MODERN & STYLISH & SPORTY WEARING NO FAKE FUR AT ALL BUT IF YOU MUST - IT MUST BE FAKE

IS IT NOT BAD ENUF OUR SOLDIERS GIVE UP THEIR LIVES FOR LIBERTY THAT WE INSIST ON VERY FREE BORN ANIMALS TO GIVE UP THEIR FUR AND LIFE FOR US TO WEAR REAL FUR???

I WISH NO GOOD TO THE PEOPLE WHO INSIST ON REAL FUR; ALTHOUGH I AM SINNING AS I BELIEVE IN EASTERN RELIGION. FROM THE BOTTOM OF MY HEART - I WISH & HOPE THESE HORRID PEOPLE (WHO INSIST ON REAL FUR WEARING) REINCARNATE IN ONE OF THE ANIMALS THEY WILL KILL PURPOSELY FOR THEIR FUR..SO THEY CANNOT VOICE THEIR OPINION EITHER.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Viviane Gluckman

Ms. Carole George

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. This is totally barbaric and disgusting.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Carole George

Ms. Karen Lynch

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We must discourage this abhorrent practice any way that we can!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Lynch

Ms. Anne C

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please have the label reflect what animal supplied the fur. This is important since the fur consumer should know what animal is being slaughtered. It is obvious that using a misleading name is designed to avoid having people discover that the fur they are wearing is from a member of the dog family and be able to sell more of their products. What's next?!

Sincerely,
Ms. Anne C

Ms. Alina Frolova

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.
Alina

Sincerely,
Ms. Alina Frolova

Ms. Carrie Worley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Sadly, the fur industry has maintained a long history of misrepresenting its products in order to sell furs, which are obtained through cruel and senseless treatment of animals. Products sourced from China are particularly appalling as animals are so horribly mistreated, including being skinned alive for their fur - a well documented practice.

Now the fur industry wants to disguise fur obtained from raccoon dogs by adopting trade names such as, "Asiatic raccoon", or "Finn raccoon" with the specific intent to mislead consumers in the source of these fur products. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs by their proper name.

As many consumers might not be comfortable knowing a dog was tortured and killed in order to provide a fur product, they at least deserve to know so they can make an informed decision to purchase or not. I urge you to hold the fur trade industry accountable to provide accurate information to consumers, just as advertising rules demand the same from the pharmaceutical, food and other industries.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carrie Worley

Ms. Sheila Carroll

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require proper labeling on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its product, which is why labeling rules are necessary. Now the fur industry wants to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," which is misleading. Likely consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented if this misleading labeling is allowed.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs by their proper name.

Thank you for your time on this matter.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sheila Carroll

Ms. Betsy Thibault

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

While I don't agree with killing any animal for its fur (and certainly not skinning it alive), at least we should make sure that animal identities are correct.

Sincerely,
Ms. Betsy Thibault

Miss toni lyons

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is just plain sad.

Sincerely,
Miss toni lyons

Ms. Mary Lynn Monge

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please make sure that consumers can make their own wise choices by preventing use of this deliberately misleading name!

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Lynn Monge

Dr. Norma Sutcliffe

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is ABSOLUTELY reprehensible to allow the live skinning of any mammal but do it just for fashion and profit is so inexcusable that words cannot begin to tell of my repulsion. Furrier who participate in such actions are destroying any goodwill they have.

Sincerely,
Dr. Norma Sutcliffe

Mrs. Vonnie Chinn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

NO animal shall be harmed for the sake of entertainment, clothing or as a means to be cruel. Please stop the use of animals in any area where they are harmed or killed.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Vonnie Chinn

Ms. OLIVIA MENDEZ

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Desgraciados...

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. OLIVIA MENDEZ

Ms. Karen Merry

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is totally inhumane to even consider using this dog as an adornment for humans. Leave the coat on the dog and use fake fur. Actually no animal should have to be die to cater to human vanity.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Merry

Ms. Kathryn Robinson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please, we have enough barbarians in this world on it's way back to the dark ages.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathryn Robinson

Ms. Lauren Palmateer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It is absurd that the FTC is even entertaining the possibility of allowing the fur industry to call any canine a "raccoon" so as to avoid offending American sensibilities. Few, if any, Americans would knowingly wear dog fur and it is the FTC's responsibility to make sure that consumers KNOW what they are purchasing.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lauren Palmateer

Ms. Esaias Johnson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. It is truly disgusting.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Esaias Johnson

Ms. Emily Breedlove

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Don't let people lie about dog fur.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please stop this horrific practice.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Imagine someone skinning YOUR favorite pet, alive.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Emily Breedlove

Mr. Michael Moon

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the DOG family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help to stop the killing of dogs for fur!

Sincerely,
Mr. Michael Moon

Mr. Charles Cummiskey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: "Raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Charles Cummiskey

Ms. Patricia Overman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. THESE ARE DOGS!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Overman

Ms. Fran Weaver

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Of course, I would personally not wear ANY animal fur, raccoon, dog, or otherwise, but to try to mislead people into thinking it's a raccoon is just wrong.

Sincerely,
Ms. Fran Weaver

Miss Angélica Beltrán

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be uncalled different

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Read this please!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Angélica Beltrán

Ms. Marenka Cermey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please Stop the abuse.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marenka Cermey

Mr. Mark Shaw

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mark Shaw

Mrs. Heather Davis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Fur should be ILLEGAL!!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Heather Davis

Ms. Kathleen Masser

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

While I would NEVER buy a garment that contains any part of an animal, there are many people who do. But they should know what they're buying.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathleen Masser

Ms. Nicole Gravina

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Nicole Gravina

Mrs. Jeanne Oliver

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jeanne Oliver

Mr. Michael Foley

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Fur for fashion is completely inhumane and serves no purpose in modern society. I would never vote for anyone who supports the industry or helps to loosen regulations. The practice should be made illegal, but until that can happen, fur manufacturers should be required to accurately label their products (just as the producers of other harmful product do).

Sincerely,
Mr. Michael Foley

Ms. Lauren Batdorf

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Do we really need to skin living, sentient beings alive? Ask anyone who owns a dog. Can we please draw the line at this phony misrepresentation of man's best friend? Please?

Sincerely,
Ms. Lauren Batdorf

Ms. Jane Roybal

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do as the public entrusted you and do not allow this misrepresentation and abuse to continue and be further covered up.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jane Roybal

Mr. Jason Moschner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I don't understand why it would ever be acceptable in 2012 to skin ANY animal alive for its fur. What are we, Neanderthals? In any case, please don't make it easier to skin man's best friend alive.

Sincerely,
Mr. Jason Moschner

Mr. Jeff LeFevre

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

These dogs need our protection from unnecessary cruelty. Please support this action to enforce correct labels thereby allowing consumers to make an informed decision. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mr. Jeff LeFevre

Mrs. Mary Radek

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Let's just not buy anything from China PERIOD.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Radek

Ms. Sandi Carner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do not mislabel this "dog fur" in an effort to fool consumers. Skinning a live animal for its hide or fur is just wrong. Let's call a spade a spade. This is not an "Asiatic raccoon." It is a dog! No more misleading labels.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandi Carner

Ms. Lindsey Rives

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Lindsey Rives

Mrs. Jean Macfie

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This is a disgusting form of abuse by the fur trade. Please make this unacceptable in the U.S.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jean Macfie

Dr. Deborah Kohn

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

All governmental and reputable scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs what they are - dogs, a member of the Canidae (dog) family. They are not raccoons of any stripe.

It would be bad enough if they were raccoons ... I'm not a fan of fur anyway and find it not defensible to kill well-clad animals to clothe non-indigenous, non-arctic humans.

We protect dogs - please act to make it impossible to dress up this unnecessary waste of animal life as somehow associated with something less than our best companions.

Sincerely,
Dr. Deborah Kohn

Mrs. Carol Rickert

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carol Rickert

Mr. John Talbot

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Dogs bring so much love and joy it disgusts me they are abused like this, please put a stop to it!

Sincerely,
Mr. John Talbot

Mrs. Sandra Lowry

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Ethically, it should not matter what family the animal belongs to, but the fact that its torture is documented should bar its import into this country on that basis alone, in my opinion.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And it is about time we did something to reign in this industry's gross manipulation of fact.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sandra Lowry

Ms. Janet Supriano

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

No matter what the species. No matter what we name we apply to an animal.

How in the name of all that is alive and beautiful, can any nation.. how can the world, condone the skinning alive of ANY innocent, helpless animal?

My outrage means nothing to the world of commerce and profit; but add my name to those who are also outraged an the inhumaneness of humanity

Sincerely,
Ms. Janet Supriano

Mrs. Debra Ash

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Stop the abuse these poor animals are being subjected to.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Debra Ash

Ms. BONNIE MAUSOLF

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Let's stop pandering to sales and the almighty dollar and start calling "apples" by their name and "oranges" by their name--as they ain't just FRUIT!

Thank you for your consideration in this life-saving matter,
Bonnie Mausolf

Sincerely,
Ms. BONNIE MAUSOLF

Ms. Amy Kramer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Again, PLEASE REQUIRE RACCOON DOG TO BE CALLED "RACCOON DOG".
There is just no need for any animal to be skinned alive.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Amy Kramer

Ms. Barbara Wagner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

How horrible. Now we are resulting to killing and wearing dogs in the name of vanity? We must be a bunch of idiots with too much money to spend.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Barbara Wagner

Mr. Justin Rall

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I am very appalled!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Justin Rall

Ms. Ashley Bixler

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I can't believe they skin them alive to get their fur. Please make sure these animals are not mistreated

Sincerely,
Ms. Ashley Bixler

Mrs. Christine Jones

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not mislead yourselves that you are duping the public at large with your semantics. Is there anyone out there who cannot be bought off... anyone? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christine Jones

Ms. Angela Cooper

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This animal is not a raccoon and the fur industry should not be allowed to call it that.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Angela Cooper

Miss Susan Klass

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If we can't stop the fur trade altogether, let's at least keep them honest.

Sincerely,
Miss Susan Klass

Ms. Krista Carr

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The fur trade, industries and practices are disgustingly cruel and need to be outlawed world wide. Please help those who cannot speak for themselves- thank you!

Sincerely,
Ms. Krista Carr

Ms. Karen Scott

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

As a consumer, it is important that we receive factual information from producers of products. A blatant attempt at misrepresentation is not acceptable.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Scott

Ms. Claire Lloyd

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. They are a dog, no different from the dogs that millions of people in Europe and America keep as pets.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claire Lloyd.

Sincerely,
Ms. Claire Lloyd

Ms. Amanda Davis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

(How could you be so unbelievably awful to skin a living thing?)

Sincerely,
Ms. Amanda Davis

Mrs. Amy Manville

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please, protect this species of dogs. Calling it a raccoon, instead of a dog intentionally deceives consumers ! No doubt the raccoon should be protected as well, but lets be realistic that people will purchase a raccoon pelt, but would be repulsed at wearing dog!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Amy Manville

Mrs. Jane Gould

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

There is no need to use fur on garments at all - so be honest about what you are killing and selling!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jane Gould

Dr. Sonia Sorrell

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Dr. Sonia Sorrell

Miss Annette Gelinskey

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I hope one day NO animals will be used for their fur. That NO animals will be so cruelly and inhumanely treated in China. What that country does to animals is disgusting and horrific and that barely describes it.

Sincerely,
Miss Annette Gelinskey

Mr. Stuart McDonald

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Don't let this fraud and animal abuse continue.

Sincerely,
Mr. Stuart McDonald

Mrs. Denise Michel

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This atrocious and inhumane act has to stop! Skinning alive of any animal should never be tolerated, let alone allowing the fur industry to continue. Put a stop to it today.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Denise Michel

Ms. Vicky Polito

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

MY FAMILY AND I STRONGLY FEEL THIS IS A CASE OF SELFISH LOBBYISTS FOR A SELFISH INDUSTRY TRYING TO PULL THE WOOL, OR FUR, OVER all OUR EYES!
This is pitiful and we're against it.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Vicky Polito

Mrs. Kolleen Cole

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

NO animal should be skinned alive, dog or not! All animals used for fur or human consumption must be raised and killed humanely, and people have the right to know what type of fur they are buying, and that it was treated humanely.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kolleen Cole

Mr. John Henning

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

While the following text is essentially a "canned" message, I concur with the wording and its intent. You are urged to take the requested action.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Respectfully,

Sincerely,
Mr. John Henning

Ms. Amber Parker

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon".

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs by this name.

Sincerely,
Ms. Amber Parker

Ms. Annette Soucy

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And another thing. No animal should be skinned alive. That is cruel and disgusting and cannot be justified.

Sincerely,
Ms. Annette Soucy

Miss Linda Schwartz

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

And "skinned alive"!!! NO animal should be tortured in such a manner, whether dog or raccoon!!!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Linda Schwartz

Ms. Carol Belohlavek

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. No animal deserves this type of treatment. And people involved in the fur industry should themselves be "skinned alive." Horrible. No one needs these animal furs.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Belohlavek

Mrs. Jean Lerner

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jean Lerner

Ms. melanie sutherland

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.
Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. melanie sutherland

Miss Liuwina Hæklund

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

You people make me sick, to think at what length you are ready to go, just to procure money for yourself!
Stop being greedy and start fighting the fur industry!

Sincerely,
Miss Liuwina Hæklund

Ms. Doreen Kraemer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Ms. Doreen Kraemer

Ms. Lori Konrad

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Skinning animals is archaic and disgusting. Please make it stop.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lori Konrad

Ms. Char Barclay

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. OMG I didn't even know this was real, and YES it should be called what it really is!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Raccoon dog fur. This is disspicable knowing you are this to that poor animal. You should be skinned. Char Barclay

Sincerely,
Ms. Char Barclay

Mrs. VICTORIA LATUGA

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that

.EVEN BETTER, HOW ABOUT NOT KILLING THESE DOGS AT ALL!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. VICTORIA LATUGA

Ms. Elaine Price

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please require the Raccoon Do to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

-

It is inhumane to misrepresent the status of an animal in order to sell fur - the mistreatment of the raccoon dog in China is very well documented - they are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation of furs used in order to sell its cruel product

Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in all advertisements and on labels, whenever and wherever it is used.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elaine Price

Ms. Yvette Irwin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Or better yet really, just STOP selling it! Leave them in the wild where they should be.

Sincerely,
Ms. Yvette Irwin

Ms. Karen Martinez

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its products - now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Martinez

Ms. Kristine Ellis

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is a disgusting, inhumane and classic ploy of those who have no respect for life. Please take this small step in stopping the torture.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristine Ellis

Mrs. Anna Ross

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I am sure many consumers would not purchase garments labeled correctly, and that needs to be clarified.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Anna Ross

Mr. Tony Bennion

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I have no time at all for the wearing of fur in a world with at least 5 billion people. Any wild animal could be wiped out at the whim of fashion..Since we are so clever at making synthetic materials let us be satisfied with that and end all cruelty and exploitation of animals.

Sincerely,
Mr. Tony Bennion

Mr. Ed Chamberlin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

First, NO animal deserves to be skinned alive. Second, this deception is a inhumane, heartless, self-serving abomination geared toward feeding the greedy ends of both insensitive Chinese who continue to perpetrate these deploable acts on all animals as well as the willfully blind American people who continue to either passively or intentionally collude with the Chinese to make a buck,

How would you like to have one of your children skinned alive ?
You might begin to understand if the animal were dead first.

If you have to pause for thought on this issue before taking swift and immediate action, you and whatever organization you represent are just as guilty as those committing these atrocities.

"We can do all things through Christ which strengthens us" God Bless You and Your Efforts to do the Right Thing.

Ed Chamberlin

Sincerely,

Mr. Ed Chamberlin

Ms. Joyce Arita

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Our society says dogs are man's best friend...please do what is right.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joyce Arita

Mrs. GIGI LIEBENTHAL

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

No person needs fur. If you are not born with fur, you should not wear it. There are so many imitation "furs" available, so if a person needs fur, let them buy an imitation whatever.

Sincerely,
Mrs. GIGI LIEBENTHAL

Mr. Nick Cochran

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I'm shocked to find out that this is happening. I refuse to buy products made from Raccoon dogs. Skinning them alive is evil.

Sincerely,
Mr. Nick Cochran

Mrs. Denice Keys

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Denice Keys

Ms. Marie Budano

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

NO ANIMALS SHOULD BE SKINNED ALIVE - CHINA'S TREATMENT OF ANIMALS IS SICKENING.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marie Budano

Ms. Judith Wilson

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

NO animals should be skinned alive. EVER.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Judith Wilson

Ms. Carilyn Done

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please break open your hearts and hear the animal's voices.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carilyn Done

Dr. Shannin Zevian

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon dog fur should be labeled as such on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

If consumers are turned off by wearing dog fur, they deserve to know what they're buying all the more.

Thanks for your time.

Sincerely,
Dr. Shannin Zevian

Ms. Etha Rafdord

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Not one single animal should have to die so us "Humans" can wear "Fancy Fur Clothing"!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Etha Rafdord

Ms. Irene Gillette

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. So many animals are being killed. I can not stand another day of animal abuse.

Sincerely,
Ms. Irene Gillette

Mr. Seth Kress

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your time,

Sincerely,
Mr. Seth Kress

Mrs. stephanie valys

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Mrs. stephanie valys

Miss Lynn Pulfer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Better yet- criminalize the cruelty of skinning any animal alive!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Lynn Pulfer

Ms. Barbara Ross

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This practice is unspeakable cruel, wholly unnecessary, should not be considered an acceptable form of trade, work or economy, rather it should be a crime of serious magnitude. This practice demeans the whole of creation. The correct labeling of this so-called product is the extreme least that should be done.

Sincerely,
Ms. Barbara Ross

Mrs. Judith Gravlin

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please, please make certain that the correct label is used to provide consumers and companies the correct knowledge when making their choices.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Judith Gravlin

Ms. Tina Criscione

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

MAKE IT 3 inches high - I WONT WEAR ANY FUR and if I bought something mislabeled - I would return it and not SUPPORT SUCH CRUELTY = YES CRUETY
- HAVE YOU WATCHED THE VIDEOS OF THEM SKINNED ALIVE - THIS WOULDNT BE AN ISSUE IF YOU DID - BAN THEM DONT EVEN ALLOW THEM INTO THE COUNTRY - ITS SICK

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tina Criscione

Ms. Jo Ann Knight

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is one step in outlawing the fur industry completely. Fur belongs on animals NOT on people.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jo Ann Knight

Mrs. Marsha McLean

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

In this day and age there is no use to have the killing of animals for their fur. We have developed other ways of staying warm. Leave the few animal we have remaining without this horrible abuse.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marsha McLean

Mrs. Karen Rudie

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Let's call things what they really are. Just as I want to know what I'm consuming on a food label, any clothing I purchase I want to know what it really is. This would be a major misrepresentation and dishonest.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Karen Rudie

Mrs. Jennifer Ferris

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please don't make it any easier for this awful crime against the raccoon dogs to continue to occur.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jennifer Ferris

Mrs. Pamela LaForest-Fulcher

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Regardless of their species, it is ABSOLUTELY HORRIFIC to skin animals alive-why would any government allow that???? In all honesty- it should be illegal to even sell the fur of an animal that was tortured- maybe that should be on the label as well!! Only sick demented people would buy that- people need to be aware of the pain and suffering that animals go through just so some a-hole human can have a pretty fur coat/accessory.....SICK!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Pamela LaForest-Fulcher

Ms. Jan Wageman

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

From a concerned Caucasian skinned human dog, otherwise known as a human being!

Sincerely,
Ms. Jan Wageman

Ms. Mackenzie Lowry

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is really awful, and a very small thing you can do to alleviate a great deal of suffering in the world.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mackenzie Lowry

Ms. Jennifer Newbauer

Oct 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Not that I think any animal should be skinned alive.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Newbauer