

Mrs. Camille Marshall

Oct 15, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please continue to call them Raccoon Dogs and please don't allow people to sell their fur, especially under a misrepresented name.

Sincerely,

Camille Marshall

Sincerely,
Mrs. Camille Marshall

Mr. Brian Phillips

Oct 15, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. We must not allow the fur industry to twist this just so they can make easier bucks. These poor beautiful creatures don't deserve to be abused, we must protect them!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Brian Phillips

Mrs. Corinne Hackett

Oct 15, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

These so-called "raccoon Dogs" are members of the Canidae (DOG) family and are not in any way members of the (Procyonidae Raccoon family),

I think it will be suitable for us to notify PETA and all the SPCAs in this beloved country of ours that the Federal Trade Commission is aiding and abetting the fur industry in the skinning alive! of dogs and then seeking to deceive purchasers of such garments with such trim (DOG) by deliberate mislabeling!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Corinne Hackett

Ms. terry berry

Oct 15, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Stop killing them altogether. In fact, put an embargo and import tax that will make it impossible for them to be imported. CALLING ALL AMERICANS....STOP BUYING REAL FUR PRODUCTS.

Sincerely,
Ms. terry berry

Dr. Erin Haverly

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon Dogs - Honesty in Labeling

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please be honest and forthright about the fur - it's from a dog and not a raccoon. The label should not be misleading - call it what it is so consumers can make informed decisions about their purchases. Thank you for taking the time to read this message.

Sincerely,
Dr. Erin Haverly

Ms. Vinita Sharma

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The United States must Not support this type of inhumane and infinitely cruel practice of skinning animals alive! Such practices need to be eradicated from the face of the earth!

Sincerely,
Ms. Vinita Sharma

Mr. Jeff Gertz

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Yeah! People really need to know the proper names of the dead animals that they wear. That way, they'll be sure to know whether "raccoons" were murdered and then skinned inhumanely for the sake of vanity, or if "Raccoon Dogs" were the ones getting murdered and skinned.

Perhaps we shouldn't kill either animal. It would be better if we trimmed the wool from sheep and harvested the cotton from plant stems. Nothing is hurt. The sheep grow another pelt and the cotton plants propagate.

Sincerely,
Mr. Jeff Gertz

Mrs. Leanne Sievers

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

There should be steep fines/penalties for any misrepresentation of the source of animal fur.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Leanne Sievers

Mrs. Evelyn Cronise

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do the right thing and call them by their proper name.

Sincerely,
Evelyn Cronise

Sincerely,
Mrs. Evelyn Cronise

Ms. Kristi Harrington

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

In addition, the fur trade itself is completely heinous - skinning an animal ALIVE for it's fur or skin. IF the fur trade must exist there should be stricter rules governing them so that animals - ALL ANIMALS - are treated as humanely as possible.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristi Harrington

Ms. Desiree Baber

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is shameful to use animals for any absolute non-necessary life sustaining purpose - such as fashion. It is in particular horrid that we would cover up the use of dogs for this purpose. Consumers should absolutely be aware of the true origination of "asiatic raccoon" so that they can make an informed choice in their purchasing decisions.

Sincerely,
Ms. Desiree Baber

Ms. joanne dolan

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

STOP SKINNING THEM ALIVE!

Sincerely,
Ms. joanne dolan

Ms. Shirley Harrison-Whyte

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Forget changing the "label name", and just stop killing these precious creatures altogether... AM I THE ONLY ONE WHO READ THAT THESE ANIMALS "ARE BEING SKINNED ALIVE". ARE ALL OF YOU PEOPLE OUT OF YOUR MINDS? YOU SHOULD GO AFTER THE CHINESE FOR CRUELTY TO ANIMALS, YOU ASSES, NOT BECAUSE THEY'RE CALLING THE ANIMALS BY SOME DIFFERENT NAME, BUT BECAUSE THEY ARE TORTURING PRECIOUS LIVING ANIMALS TO DEATH! FROM THIS DAY FORWARD I WILL NEVER, EVER BUY ANYTHING, NO TYPE OF PRODUCT AT ALL, THAT IS MADE IN CHINA. WHAT A BUNCH OF DISGUSTING EXCUSES FOR HUMAN BEINGS. I'M PERSONALLY DONE WITH THEM AND SEVERAL OTHER FRIGGIN' ASIAN COUNTRIES... IF IT ISN'T "MADE IN CANADA OR THE USA", SCREW IT BECAUSE I'M NOT BUYING IT. IF IT'S FUR, I'M NOT BUYING IT. IF IT'S MEAT, I'M NOT BUYING IT. ...and to think I wrote an article to a Chinese newspaper decrying the rape of Nan-King by the Japanese, and requesting an apology from them to the Chinese people. WELL, I'M DONE WITH THE LOT OF THEM. THEY CAN ALL BITE ME. GODDAM SAVAGES IN THE 21ST CENTURY. HOW'S THAT FOR A PERSONALIZED MESSAGE?

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Shirley Harrison-Whyte

Ms. Sylvia Rodriguez

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Do not be a part of this cruel, murderous deceptiveness. Let compassion be the fashion!

Sincerely,
Ms. Sylvia Rodriguez

Mrs. Debbie Pokerwinski

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If this inhumane practice cannot be stopped, please take the necessary steps to ensure that trade names are correct in garment labels. I would never purchase a product made with real animal fur!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Debbie Pokerwinski

Mrs. Maureen Sanzone

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please don't fool the public by using terms that infer that fake fur is not real. Fur is from a real animal. There is no such thing as real "fake fur." Think of the torture & cruelty these animals endure. These animals are in our care, made by God, and they are at our mercy.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Maureen Sanzone

Ms. Rhoda M Serry-Mehl

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I have never understood how groups of people could be so cruel as to skin an animal while it is ALIVE!!! It just makes me physically ill, and I would hope my elected representatives would stop it ASAP. This is not a calm and reasonable request, but a deeply felt response to the information I have received from the charities I donate to.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rhoda M Serry-Mehl

Mrs. Christina Justus

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It's the right thing to do, so you can sleep at night.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christina Justus

Mr. William McMullin

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Make Fur Labels Accurate

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Fur companies are trying to fraud consumers by listing raccoon dogs on the label as "Asiatic raccoon." Please should know if they are buying dog fur.

Sincerely,
Mr. William McMullin

Ms. Sienna M Potts

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Let the buyer beware & make her own choices based on accurate labeling!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sienna M Potts

Miss Avrelle Harrington

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Raccoon dogs should be called exactly what they are and not anything different.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Avrelle Harrington

Mrs. Mara Hanson

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. And, though it should not matter what sort of animal is being skinned alive, there is a different connotation about dogs than there is about racoons in the minds of many consumers.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mara Hanson

Miss V V

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Why do animals have to suffer for our greed for money? Imagine that you were one of these animals being skinned alive, for your fur. Please consider how disgusting and cruel that is.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss V V

Ms. Jeannee Irvine

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please REQUIRE raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This disgusting treatment of any animal (no matter it's name) is deplorable! Please help these raccoon dogs from continued mistreatment!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jeannee Irvine

Ms. Lisa Goldmann

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please ensure the correct labeling of this animal. I, for one, would not want to wear a dog's skin or fur!

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Goldmann

Ms. Joanna Beth Tweedy

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other immoral abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joanna Beth Tweedy

Ms. Susan Mattox

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We need honest and true statement on our clothing. I would be sick, to learn that I was carrying around a dead dog on my shoulders...How can we trust our goverment if there going to allow dishonest statements on our clothing. If they have to decive us, then they know we would not buy this product unless they diceve and misslead us.

Sincerely,
Ms. Susan Mattox

Mrs. Sarah Erickson

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you,

Sarah Erickson

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sarah Erickson

Mr. James Basham

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

ban all types of fur.

Sincerely,
Mr. James Basham

Mrs. Linda Theis

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let's all do the right and honest thing.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Theis

Ms. Gagan Johal

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN,

PLEASE TAKE TIME OUT TO READ THIS AND STOP THIS!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Gagan Johal

Sincerely,
Ms. Gagan Johal

Mrs. Louanne Ziegelbauer

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please stop this barbaric trade in raccoon dog fur. Our country should not condone the torture of animals. We are better than that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Louanne Ziegelbauer

Mrs. Dorothy Griffin

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I do not purchase anything that even vaguely resembles fur. However, I am aware that many people do buy "fake fur," "faux fur," and the real thing, although in the US this has declined significantly.

There is no excuse for these raccoon dogs to be skinned alive or for them to be labeled to mislead potential buyers about what they are. Personally, I would no more think it better to skin a raccoon than a dog. Please do not allow this fur into our country. At the very least, it must be correctly labeled.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dorothy Griffin

Ms. Lois McElwee

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that***.Please!-The USA is better than that-is there no end to greed at the expense of sentient creatures?***

Sincerely,
Ms. Lois McElwee

Ms. Maureen Rosiere

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help put a stop to the fur industry's cruel practice and require the racoon dog be called "racoon dog" on fur labels. The live skinning of an animal for it's fur is horrible beyond words. Greed knows no boundaries. I hope we are more civilized than this.
Sincerely,
Maureen Rosiere

Sincerely,
Ms. Maureen Rosiere

Ms. Kathy Ripley

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I AM ASHAMED OF THE FTC!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathy Ripley

Ms. APRIL SMITH

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I don't know how anyone can skin an animal alive and live with themselves. Anything that can be done to eliminate this sort of action is a direction in the right direction.

Sincerely,
Ms. APRIL SMITH

Mrs. Karen Anderson

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do what you can to help these innocent creatures!

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Karen Anderson

Ms. Sandra Mason

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Sandra Mason

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Mason

Ms. Marissa Myers

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Marissa Myers

Sincerely,
Ms. Marissa Myers

Mrs. Nina Howden

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Animals need and deserve our protection against human predators since they have no defense against humans.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help protect these helpless animals by insisting that their fur be labeled correctly as "Raccoon Dog".

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nina Howden

Mrs. Laura Fishel

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I find this horrific. Not just that a member of the dog family would be used for a fur source, but that any animal would be skinned alive.

Disgusting.

Please put a stop to this practice.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Laura Fishel

Mrs. Christine Maxant

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It's time to tell the truth about what raccoon dog really means. Make it clear and accurate on fur labels. These animals are horribly mutilated and killed for their fur. The Federal Trade Commission knows that the term Asiatic raccoon is misleading and untruthful. For shame.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christine Maxant

Miss DEBORAH Lucas

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Why do people have to skin something "alive" - how horrible - it's bad enough that people think they have to wear fur!

Sincerely,
Miss DEBORAH Lucas

Ms. Michele Drexler

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I don't want Raccoon dogs, Raccoons, or any other any animal for that matter that is used for human consumption to be abused while it is in the care of the breeders/sellers. Furthermore, if any animal fur is used on any garment, I want to see it fairly and honestly labeled. I would choose only "faux fur" as I do not believe these animals are on this earth to be exploited by human greed.

Thank you for your consideration of this important issue.

Sincerely,
Ms. Michele Drexler

Miss Janet Miller

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It's time to stop importing fur and objects decorated with fur from countries where animals are so cruelly mistreated!

Sincerely yours,

Janet H. Miller

Sincerely,
Miss Janet Miller

Mr. Brett Saltzer

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is man's best friend, and evil humans are SKINNING them ALIVE.
EVERYTHING humanly possible should be done to combat this, including making sure that the truth about it is not being hidden.

Sincerely,
Mr. Brett Saltzer

Mr. John Singleton

Oct 16, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Thank you for considering my comments, and no reply is necessary.

Sincerely,
Mr. John Singleton

Mr. Shirantha De Alwis

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: PLEASE DON'T LET THE INNOCENT SUFFER. THEY HAVE SOULS JUST LIKE US. FEEL FOR THEM. Please require raccoon dog to be called &...

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

PLEASE DON'T LET THE INNOCENT SUFFER. THEY HAVE SOULS JUST LIKE US. FEEL FOR THEM.

Most of the highly evolved animals have a consciousness of their own self and do possess souls like us; they feel pain and fear just as we do.

They cry without tears, they suffer without complain. They have no voice to make us understand.

No animal hurts a human for pleasure, for sport, for entertainment, for experiments. So why do we cause unlimited suffering to them. Is it because that other beings are less than you in intellect or manners or looks and therefore gives the right to manipulate, use, abuse, torture and slaughter them as you like and they have no right to complain or feel fear and pain.

We have to appreciate that animals have feelings and are conscious of their environment, they cannot speak, argue or plead, tell the pain; many are captive in our hands, tortured, treated as the lowest form of life, become creatures for our pleasure to use and discard.

One of the main tenets of Buddhism is that "all lives are equal." Confucianism teaches us that "we shall treat everything in the world as one." Jesus talked of being kind even to the "least of them," of watching out for the smallest sparrow. Judaism and Islam have wonderful teachings about kindness to animals as a prime virtue.

Let's make a difference. Let's take a firm and bold decision to change our thinking, our behavior our attitude towards the other beings that share this beautiful earth.

Have a heart for the innocent animals. Please imagine yourself in their place.

Thank you,
Shirantha De Alwis

The time will come when you have to make the choice between what is right and what is easy.

The day will come when we have to part from this world. Parted from our bodies. The souls with hatred, which have created pain to others, may have to return and may have to suffer in return or they may linger in darkness, isolation for ever; as the souls with goodness, love and care, respect of others will find the eternal life of happiness and joy.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Shirantha De Alwis

Ms. Roxanne Robinson

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you,
Roxanne Robinson

Sincerely,
Ms. Roxanne Robinson

Mrs. sabri brandi

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.
sabri brandi

Sincerely,
Mrs. sabri brandi

Mrs. Kathy Khoshfahm

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

In the final analysis, it really doesn't matter what the animal is called. Skinning alive (yes, I've seen the ugly videos) any animal for its fur - in the name of fashion - is wrong on so many levels. It's a crime against the Earth itself. We share this world with the Animal Kingdom - they have just as much a right to be here as we do. Let's leave them alone - they've paid their dues...

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kathy Khoshfahm

Ms. Olga LaCroix

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

Come on...rabbit fur is identified as rabbit. Goose down or feather pillows sell quite well. Calling a spade a spade won't prevent those who want what they want when they want it from buying it.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Thanks for listening.

Sincerely,
Ms. Olga LaCroix

Miss Julie Simmonds

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Julie Simmonds

Mr. Gareth Snelling

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I saw a raccoon dog in the kids area of a festival this year and it brought a lot of joy to the kids and adults. I'm sure they would be sick if they realized that they may be wearing one of these sweet creatures, with feelings, including pain, which deserve to be respected not exploited. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Gareth Snelling

Ms. Sally Sprague

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Animal cruelty and abuse should be brought into the 21st century throughout the entire world. We need to stand up to this type of abuse and stop the misrepresentation by every industry that allows it to occur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sally Sprague

Ms. Cynthia Stroup

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require accuracy in labels: lable raccoon dog as "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

DO NOT ALLOW MISLABELING OF ANYTHING BUT ESPECIALLY when it promotes the inhumane practice of fur sales. Make raccoon dog fur be labeled as such: "Raccoon Dog Fur" -- better yet, make them label it "ACTUAL DOG FUR FROM DOGS THAT WERE TORTURED BY BEING SKINNED ALIVE" -- let's for for truth in labeling. Force people who wear fur to face the facts about it. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia Stroup

Mr. Chris Dale

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Chris Dale

Sincerely,
Mr. Chris Dale

Mr. John Doolittle

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I will never, NEVER buy fur for myself or family members. the concept of killing a beautiful animal so we can wear it is sick!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. John Doolittle

Ms. Rosanna Esposito

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the dog family. They are NOT racoons, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product. Do not allow them to further misrepresent their product by allowing them to sell raccoon dog under the name "asiatic raccoon". The fur industry wants to sell under the name "asiatic racoon" so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other well-documented abuses of dogs for fur.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, the Smithsonian Institution and ALL reputable governeemntal and scientific sources call raccoon dogs "raccoon dogs", not "asiatic raccons". The fur industry should abide by the same terminology.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rosanna Esposito

Mr. Luke Wilkinson

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Use the correct name on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

i have been informed that you plan to, or already have, labelled items made with Raccoon Dog fur with other names, trade names like "Asiatic Raccoon" or "Finn Raccoon".

i am writing to say i think this is misleading to the public, and wrong.

the people should know exactly what they are buying.

to label a fur item made with Raccoon Dog fur anything else, is a deliberate attempt to mislead people, and make them more likely to purchase a item made with fur, because if they see the word dog, they would be put off.

Raccoon Dogs are Dogs. in the Canid family. and people should know this if it makes a difference to how they feel about a product.

the truth is, it's unfair to not be direct to people, in order to help make a sale.

and whether an animal is a Canid, dog, or not, if the public knew and fully understood how badly the Raccoon Dogs and any other animal used for fur are treated, they wouldn't want any product made from real fur.

please be accurate with labels, and use the correct name, "Raccoon Dog".

Sincerely,
Mr. Luke Wilkinson

Mrs. Joyce Schorr

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE help stop this horrible crime against these poor animals.
Skinned alive, please make the changes to the label.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joyce Schorr

Ms. Adeline Veneziano

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be properly labeled as raccoon dog in advertising and labels.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

.

Sincerely,
Ms. Adeline Veneziano

Ms. Anna Lynn Drewniany

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

PLEASE DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS. PLEASE EDUCATE YOURSELF ON THIS.
THESE ARE NOT RACCOONS, THEY ARE DOGS LITERALLY BEING SKINNED ALIVE!
PLEASE PASS STRICTER LABELING SO THAT COMPANIES AND PERSONS KNOW EXACTLY WHAT THEY ARE BUYING AND HELPING TO SUPPORT. THANK YOU!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Anna Lynn Drewniany

Ms. vickie veltman

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please stop this cruelty to man's best friend. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. vickie veltman

Ms. Myra Delay

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

A raccoon dog is actually a dog, not a raccoon, and must be correctly labeled as a raccoon dog. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product, and now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog fur under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt to dupe consumers.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Myra Delay

Ms. dyanna rajala

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product, to which the U.S. has repeatedly said "no." Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog, a beautifully marked breed of dog, under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection between "man's best friend" and the often horrifically abusive practices of the fur trade, including live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, are aware of this and call raccoon dogs just that--raccoon DOGS.. This is clearly a manipulative ploy on the part of the fur trade to try to avoid the negative publicity that is associated with using the pelts of family pets as decoration.

The Federal Trade Commission should not engage in such deception and should require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels and not the inaccurate and misleading trade name "Asiatic raccoon."

Sincerely,
Ms. dyanna rajala

Ms. Sharon Webb

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

PLEASE STAND UP FOR ACCURATE LABELING OF ANIMAL PRODUCTS. THIS STANDARD SHOULD APPLY ACROSS THE BOARD AND NOT BE INFLUENCED BY FUR TRADE LOBBYING. THIS IS A DISGUSTING, UNNECESSARY PRACTICE AND THE CONSUMER SHOULD BE PROTECTED FROM UNKNOWINGLY SUPPORTING IT.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sharon Webb

Ms. Diana SingingHorse

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Rather than just correct labeling, the fur industry needs to come to an end. No human will even look better than the original animal in the fur anyway. Humans need to be made aware that they are NOT the top dogs (or any other animal) that they think they are. No other species of ANYTHING needs humans to survive. PLEASE BAN THE FUR INDUSTRY ALTOGETHER !!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Diana SingingHorse

Ms. Linda Winter

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

As a consumer, I want to avoid all clothing that has fur. Please require that garments are labeled accurately, including those with raccoon dog.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Winter

Ms. Renee Patton

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If you are still going to insist on providing fur to those who still insist on wearing it in this day and age and be proud while you do so ...if you are still to use the cruel and inhumane methods of attaining said fur and not care while you do so...

Then stop being an ass and misleading consumers by intentionally labeling it with the name of something it is not, This is false advertisement and that in turn makes you a big fat liar. If you are supporting using Raccoon Dog fur then ADMIT IT ON THE LABEL while you do so.

Sincerely,
Ms. Renee Patton

Ms. Liesa Moore

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require accurate fur labels listing raccoon dog as "raccoon dog"

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Consumers must be able to trust that the FTC requires truth in labeling - otherwise, what is the point of labels at all?

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Liesa Moore

Ms. Vicki Puluso

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I am sickened when I see people wearing this fur and I would like to believe that few understand the horrendous misery endured by the animals who are killed for it.

Sincerely,
Ms. Vicki Puluso

Mrs. Rebecca Hoogewerf

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Do not stoop to allowing the fur industry to increase their sales due to the United States allowing a misrepresentation of the RACCOON DOG FUR BY ALLOWING THE NAME ASIATIC RACCOON to be used. This animal is a member of the DOG family and should be labeled as such.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Rebecca Hoogewerf

Ms. Catherine Blakeslee

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that

I would actually prefer that imports with this fur could be banned.

Sincerely,
Ms. Catherine Blakeslee

Mrs. W.R. Laws

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It will be a real live scandal if it is revealed that your agency was an accomplice to allowing real dog fur to be concealed as "Asiatic Raccoon". Dog lovers are a powerful group here, and they belong to powerful organizations. Best to be on their good side.

Sincerely,
Mrs. W.R. Laws

Ms. Sherry Burrows

Oct 17, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The "fur" industry is a business that is facing extinction, and it can't die a natural death fast enough. Too many people, at least in the west, simply don't want to wear animals on their bodies, especially ones that were tortured to death.

Since there is no real way of humanely trapping or "farming" animals for their fur, at least none that is cost-effective enough that the fur industry \par

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sherry Burrows

Ms. Deborah Bernstein

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This act should not be committed to any living creature, dog, raccoon, or other. Stopping the practice altogether would be the greatest feat, but short of that, this would be a step in the right direction.

Sincerely,
Ms. Deborah Bernstein

Mrs. Teresa Reed

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Raccoon Dogs = Asiatic Raccoon??? Ok, so using this line of logic, let's just say "humpback whale" = fish, or "Tiger" = Cat....where does it end. Misrepresenting a species in order to sell a product is deplorable not mention no matter which species the allowance of an animal to be skin alive is the most disgusting and inhumane thing I've ever heard of and breaks my heart. Life vs. making money in comparison to Life vs. living is two totally different things and when all people of this planet understand that maybe peace on earth or at least an appreciation of life will begin... hopefully. Thanks for listening.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Teresa Reed

Mrs. Janice Lyons

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry will try any means to mislead the consumer that their cruel product is produced humanely and ethically. Their latest deceit is to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so to remove the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal which have been well proven.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Janice Lyons

Mr. philip ward

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Lets not tell untruths here, if a person buys this fur they are wearing raccoon Dog, having seen pictures of dogs being skinned alive "an absolute disgrace" in pain and suffering , let them know what they are buying.

Sincerely,
Mr. philip ward

Ms. Theresa Wilson

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I think the animal fur trade should be stopped altogether. The mistreatment is unnecessary. We don't need fur on our clothing anymore. That was something that had to be done years and years ago. Now God wants us to keep all animals safe and protected. He will punish those who hurt his animals.

Sincerely,
Ms. Theresa Wilson

Ms. Kathy Papineau

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Kathy Papineau

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathy Papineau

Mrs. Dorothy Ward

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The cruel and disgusting fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

ALL reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It would be wonderful also if the practice of LIVE SKINNING could be condemned.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dorothy Ward

Ms. Carolyn Buford

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Hello,

I have 3 rescued dogs. All are valuable and deserve life.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carolyn Buford

Mr. Joseph Burke

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The British Commonwealth of Southern Maryland approves of this message.

Sincerely,
Mr. Joseph Burke

Miss Rose Harkins

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please identify "raccoon dogs" as members of the "DOG" family. Raccoon dogs are NOT raccoons!!

R. M. Harkin Church

Sincerely,
Miss Rose Harkins

Mrs. Dena Christensen

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please just stop skinning all of gods great creatures for fur!!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dena Christensen

Ms. Kristy Belton

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

These animals are brutally mistreated for their fur. We should at least call them by their name and not try to gloss over the type of animal that they are.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristy Belton

Mrs. Janet Burdick

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I am appalled that they skin these dogs alive, that is more than cruel. It is disgusting. Please help to stop this practice. I would not wear a fur coat of any kind and I encourage anyone I know not to wear fur also. I am so distressed by this, please help. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Janet Burdick

Sincerely,
Mrs. Janet Burdick

Mrs. Margaret Liles

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please remember this when you go home and are greeted by your family pet, family Canidae, and help protect these helpless animals.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Margaret Liles

Ms. Madeleine MacIntyre

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thanks in advance for your help.

Sincerely,
Ms. Madeleine MacIntyre

Ms. Giuliana Rinaldo

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please enforce the fur label laws, so that countries like China are forced to admit they use raccoon dogs in their garments, as it is unfair for unsuspecting consumers to purchase garments they would NOT if they knew the difference. The fur industry is depressing, barbaric, outrageous, and inexcusable no matter what kind of fur is used from any animal! It would be ideal to make selling animal fur for any reason against the law - that would be the humane thing to do.

I could not imagine what these animals go through being bred in filthy, uncomfortable animal cages with inadequate care, shelter unable to have the freedom to express their natural behaviours. In addition to living in the amount of stress and fear for their lives as they unfortunately wait their turns to die an excruciating horrific death of being skinned alive - I could not imagine going through that and yet they do! However, we live in a society very capable of changing that and could protect and relieve the raccoon dogs and all fur animals if we had enforceable government laws protecting the welfare of these animals and taken seriously. Raccoon dogs deserve to live in peace and left alone!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Giuliana Rinaldo

Sincerely,
Ms. Giuliana Rinaldo

Ms. E. Robinson

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

Sincerely,
Ms. E. Robinson

Mr. Christopher Escarcega

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Dear Trade Commissioner:

I do not consider myself a radical environmental or animal rights activist, but the inhumane treatment of the the Raccoon Dog is unconscionable, and the fur trade's efforts to deceive consumers is simply evil.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Christopher Escarcega

Mr. Chad Crabtree

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I would kind request your position in writing to my home address on this very important issue.

Sincerely,
Mr. Chad Crabtree

Ms. Lizabeth Ver Kamp

Oct 18, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

These raccoon dogs and other animals are skinned alive and suffer horribly for the pathetic sake of fashion. Human beings should always strive to act morally, not sadistically, and to be responsible stewards of our planet, not callously usurping and devouring its resources. We must do better.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lizabeth Ver Kamp

Mr. Timothy Warez

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Why rename something that already has a name, if not to mislead? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Anything other than raccoon dog is obviously an attempt to mislead and should not be allowed by the FTC. Why not allow the importation and sale of rat meat under the name Asiatic range free chicken?

Sincerely,
Mr. Timothy Warez

Ms. Donna Janami

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Skinning any animal is absolutely repulsive and puerile. Do the right and the SMART thing of putting that behaviour behind you. Regardless of what animal it comes from, and what you name the animal, it is WRONG and DISGUSTING ! This message above specifies to label the fur specifically as raccoon dog, but you shouldn't label it as anything because it should be non-existent. Stop animal cruelty. These poor animals have no voice to speak up for themselves, they can only cry of pain. Make the world a bit of a better place by giving these animals a break. People everyday try their hardest to stop precious animals such as these from extinction. Just do the right thing ok ?! Not that hard. money isn't the most important thing in the world. you don't take money to your grave, but you do take the things that you do in this world to your grave.

Sincerely,
Ms. Donna Janami

Miss Isabel van Niekerk

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Let's do it together and stand up against animal abuse and cruelty!

God is with those who stand up for the weak, innocent, helpless and those with no voice!

Let us be their voice today!

Sincerely,
Miss Isabel van Niekerk

Ms. Kristin Greene

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please put an end to this heinous practice!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristin Greene

Ms. Kathleen Summers

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon dog should be accurately labelled on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It is misleading to allow the fur industry to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" simply so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kathleen Summers

Mr. Tom Shanks

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

To continue to sanction this misleading labeling and thus protect this barbaric practice is unconscionable. Please take a step toward protecting these defenseless animals.

Sincerely,
Mr. Tom Shanks

Ms. nORMA cAMPBELL

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This horrible situation needs to be addressed and corrected. These animals are members of the Canine (Canidae) family (dog) NOT members of the raccoon (Procyonidae) family.

Asiatic or Finn Raccoon is a made up name not a biological name.
Created for marketing a cruel product.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. nORMA cAMPBELL

Ms. Karen Hall

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Fur is murder, and should always be labeled so that consumers know what it is. Then they can make the informed choice to avoid fur products at all costs. Trying to disguise the animal being skinned alive is a barbaric idea.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Call a dog a dog. If the label says dog fur, any consumer with a soul will run away from it. And that is a good thing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Hall

Mrs. Sherry Frahm

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry wants to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sherry Frahm

Ms. Laurie Dell

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

While I believe that the use of fur in clothing is horrible, inhumane, and should be completely outlawed, in the meantime, garments should be labeled correctly so that consumers are aware of what they're purchasing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Laurie Dell

Ms. LAURIE Sparks

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

No animal should be treated like this. They don't need to use their fur. This is horrible.

Laurie Sparks

Sincerely,
Ms. LAURIE Sparks

Ms. teri halverson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please require the inhumane fur industry to tell the truth. Consumers have a right to know what they are purchasing.

Please respect this animal and call it by what is really is.

Sincerely,
Ms. teri halverson

Ms. patrice roarty

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

THANK YOU FOR DOING THE RIGHT THING!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. patrice roarty

Ms. Maile Jewell

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I strongly support this requirement. When will this ever end? The FTA and other agencies supporting it will help prevent this extraordinary cruelty.

Thank you for your support of this proposition.

s. Maile Jewell

Sincerely,
Ms. Maile Jewell

Mrs. RACHEL CLARKEROBERTS

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product --NK now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. RACHEL CLARKEROBERTS

Mrs. Arlene Rinaldo

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is inconceivable and disgusting that this hasn't already been done.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Arlene Rinaldo

Ms. Janet Wise

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Stop the mis-labeling of products. This is not only cruel, it's fraud!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Janet Wise

Ms. Sarah Beacom

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

STOP ALLOWING THE FUR INDUSTRY TO MISREPRESENT THIS ANIMAL THROUGH NAMING IT AN "ASIATIC RACCOON" WHEN IT IS A RACCOON DOG!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sarah Beacom

Mrs. jane avallone

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Additionally, from another perspective, it is an abhorrent industry whether calling the product raccoon dog or the asiatic raccoon. In this day and age, do we really need to support the fur trade of animals who are killed just to provide an article of clothing? We do have alternatives.

Jane Avallone

Sincerely,
Mrs. jane avallone

Ms. linda denesiuk

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Make a difference...A dog by any other name

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs (a member of the Canidae (dog) family with a superficial resemblance to raccoons) have been documented to be skinned alive in China for their fur, and many consumers want to avoid supporting this cruelty and know which retailers and designers still are. But the Federal Trade Commission is proposing that raccoon dog fur be called the misleading and inaccurate "Asiatic raccoon" -- making it hard for consumers and retailers to know that this is the same animal whose mistreatment is so well documented.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

Sincerely,
Ms. linda denesiuk

Ms. Teresa Ponder

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: URGENT!!! Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not let the special interests stop you from taking the right action.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels so that people are informed.

Sincerely,
Ms. Teresa Ponder

Ms. sandra morris

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

OH NO!! Please do not allow the money mongers to win on their cruel and inhumane quest. To put money before living beings is a travesty to the world. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. sandra morris

Ms. Jeanne Criss

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Call them what they are - and then we will go after the cruelty!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jeanne Criss

Ms. Shari Schroder

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I have watched the undercover videos of these beautiful dogs being brutally skinned alive and laying suffering, without their skin, in a pile of dying animals. Anything that supports this...is absurd.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that...so that possibly some consumers may be opposed to the wearing of these special creatures.

Sincerely,
Ms. Shari Schroder

Mrs. ayn silverman

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.
THESE PEOPLE NEED TO BE STOPPED FROM FOOLING THE PUBLIC-STOP ALL FUR NOW-THANKS SO MUCH---

Sincerely,
Mrs. ayn silverman

Ms. Beate Janssen

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Dogs have long been our companions, best friends, protectors ...they are part of our families. No animal deserves the treatment these Raccoon Dogs are being submitted to. Skinning animals of any sort while alive and conscious is not only cruel, barbaric, inhumane. It is absolutely not conceivable that any human could be capable of such an egregious act.

Vanity and fashion may drive the animal fur trade, but consumers want to know...and have the right to know...what the fur trim on a garment consists of. All fur labeling and advertisement must truthfully and correctly state whether any part or process includes Raccoon Dog by name. Calling the Raccoon Dog any other name (whether Asiatic Raccoon or Finn Raccoon or any other name) is a misleading and devious way to disguise the horrific brutality committed on the Raccoon Dog and prevents the consumer from being able to make a clear and informed choice ,

Please do not contribute to the cruel treatment and live skinning of the beautiful, sentient creatures by allowing the Raccoon Dog to be mislabeled by any other name.

Thank you for your kind consideration,
Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Beate Janssen

Mrs. Patricia Brower

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

FUR IS SO OUT DATED. PLEASE UNDERSTAND THESE ANIMALS FEEL PAIN AND HURT AND CONFUSED AS TO WHY THE HUMAN RACE TREATS THEM SO BAD WONDERING WHAT THEY DID WRONG. ALL THEY WANT IS TO BE LOVED AND LIVE THEIR LIVES AS GOD INTENDED TO, WITH HAVING FAMILIES OF THEIR OWN TO LOVE AND LIVE IN THE WILD AS WAS INTENDED. PLEASE LEAVE THEM ALONG FOR GOD'S SAKE. ENOUGH IS ENOUGH, CAN'T YOU HEAR THE CRIES AS IF IT WERE YOUR OWN BABY GOING THROUGH THIS. SAME DIFFERENCE. THINK ABOUT IT. AND PLEASE STOP THE MADNESS. THERE'S NOTHING HUMANE ABOUT THIS CRUEL ACT

Sincerely,
Mrs. Patricia Brower

Ms. Jody Zuraitis

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It should be named what it is.

Live skinning? Leave it to us humans who are Inhumane.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jody Zuraitis

Ms. darynne jessler

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Almost no one wants to buy this horrific product.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. darynne jessler

Ms. Patricia Louis

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The technology has come a ways where FAUX is easy to use INSTEAD of the FUR from LIVING, BREATHING CREATURE@!!!!
WHAT IS WRONG WITH DESIGNERS WHO FEEL THEY CAN USE ABUSE AND USE. WE ARE THE CARETAKERS NOT THE THE TAKERS.... WE NEED TO PROTECT OUR WILDLIFE AS WELL AS OUR DOMESTICATED COMPANIONS. FOR THE USE OF PALM OIL...LOOK WHAT IS DESTROYING THE FORESTS OF SUMATRA!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Louis

Ms. Letitia Mooney

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This should be a FUR-FREE world.

Sincerely,
Ms. Letitia Mooney

Ms. Lori Politis

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

STOP KILLING ANIMALS - THERE IS NO NEED FOR FUR PERIOD!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Lori Politis

Ms. Janice Pulliam

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require "raccoon dog" label on fur products

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misleading the public in order to sell its cruel product. Now they want to be allowed to fool consumers by selling raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon." No doubt this is to prevent consumers from 1) connecting the product to the practice of live skinning and other abuses of this animal that are well documented and 2) associating the product with dogs, which are pets and whose fur we would never purchase..

Call a dog a dog! Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. The deceitful naming of this animal as "Asiatic raccoon" is deplorable and should not be tolerated, much less legally allowed.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Regulations should fall in line with their determination on this issue.

Sincerely,
Ms. Janice Pulliam

Dr. Christene Pinter

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Haven't you ever seen 101 Dalmations? Cruella DeVille?

If you have the power to prevent people from wearing dogs, please use it. You know it's the right thing to do. You know fur coats look best on the animals that were born in them. Do the right thing! Your conscience will thank you.

Sincerely,
Dr. Christene Pinter

Mrs. Judee Morris

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please act accordingly and "do the right thing."

Sincerely,
Mrs. Judee Morris

Ms. Barbara Hanzl

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Consumers have the right to know what they are really buying. Also the right to not buy fur from gotten in such a cruel way. Please call it what it is.

Sincerely,
Ms. Barbara Hanzl

Ms. robyn Benensohn

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

They are DOGS. Simple.

Sincerely,
Ms. robyn Benensohn

Mrs. Christina Dolphin

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Animals were not put on this earth to be treated as such men do. Torturing them by skinning alive so that man can wear the fur. Place yourselves in the poor defenseless animal's position enduring fear first than unbearable pain until death. FOR WHAT PURPOSE? I assure you that they would not do this to their own people so why should we support them in doing this to a live animal by buying the fur from them...Please help in stopping this cruelty.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christina Dolphin

Mrs. Paula Chihill

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Paula Chihill

Mr. frank roth

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Even if they were racoons, they should not be skinned for their fur!

Sincerely,
Mr. frank roth

Ms. Linda Gibson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Should we sell heroin as poppy by-product? Is that where we are heading??? How about Meth as Drano inhalant? Why not label something for what it really is-or is there someone getting greased?

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Gibson

Mrs. Pam Boyd

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Consumers have the absolute right to know the facts before making a purchase. I personally choose NOT to purchase any animal fur. However, it's extremely misleading to market fur as raccoon fur when it's really from a raccoon DOG.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Pam Boyd

Sincerely,
Mrs. Pam Boyd

Ms. Barbara Azari

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

STOP SKINNING ANIMALS ALIVE - STOP NOW! NO MORE

ABUSE, NO MORE CRUELTY - TAKE IMMEDIATE ACTION!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Barbara Azari

Mrs. Maaïke Van Bommel

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Skinning LIVE animals is the worst thing humans can do - I find it despicable. Money is the root of all evil!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Maaïke Van Bommel

Ms. Kim G Butler

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Call it what it REALLY is! Truth here please!

Sincerely,
Ms. Kim G Butler

Ms. Jennifer Olson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE SKINNING !! and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. NO animal should have to suffer such barbarism.

Dogs are well known to be thoughtful animals who definitely feel pain. This should be outlawed and perpetrators should be HEAVILY fined and prosecuted.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Olson

Ms. sandra reeves

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I can't imagine what these animals feel when tortured beyond belief. We should not allow any of these products in our country. We have enough cruelty here to try to stop.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. sandra reeves

Mrs. Barbara Wertz

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We cannot continue to allow the abuse of these animals simply for adornment on a garment. Do not allow the industry to mislead people by thinking that the fur from the raccoon dog is something else. Close any loopholes in this Fur Rules Review and enforce the law!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Barbara Wertz

Ms. dayna dunne

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Asiatic raccoon? NO, IT'S A DOG!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I'm appalled at the fur industry--that there is still a fur industry--and the live skinning of animals, and deliberate misrepresentation of animals must be stopped.

I'm appalled that there are still consumers for animal pelts, but until that barbaric practice is rooted out of the collective conscious, and the realization that all animals are sentient beings, let us at least call things what they are. Whatever markings these animals have, they are members of the canidae family. Dogs.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. dayna dunne

Ms. Peggy Conway

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The fur industry needs to accurately portray what they are selling.

Sincerely,
Ms. Peggy Conway

Ms. Jennifer Nitz

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: "Raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its product. Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon", so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Nitz

Ms. Cristen C.J. Osborne

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product.

Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that -- dogs!

Sincerely,
Ms. Cristen C.J. Osborne

Mrs. Elizabeth Clayton

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If the fur industry has nothing to hide why do they keep lying?

Raccoon dog IS raccoon dog so why do they want to label it Asiatic raccoon? .... Could it be that they know consumers won't want to wear dog! Too right people don't want to wear dog so please don't allow them to trick the consumer into buying something they don't want to.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Such labeling would be a total and illegal miss representation.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Do not allow the fur industry to con the public with it's lies.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Elizabeth Clayton

Ms. J Watson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Mahatma Gandhi: "The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated." / Please...

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Albert Schweitzer:

"Our task must be to free ourselves... by widening our circle of compassion to embrace all living creatures and the whole of nature in its beauty."

Leonardo da Vinci:

"The time will come when men such as I will look upon the murder of animals as they now look on the murder of men."

Mahatma Gandhi:

"The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated."

Count Leo Tolstoy:

"As long as there are slaughterhouses, there will be battlefields."

Socrates:

"The highest realms of thought are impossible to reach without first attaining an understanding of compassion."

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. J Watson

Ms. katie sutphin

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please! Skinning an animal alive, I don't care what it is cannot be allowed anywhere on earth, for any reason! PLEASE!

Sincerely,
Ms. katie sutphin

Ms. Robin Douglas

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please stop the killing of animals for fur and the barbaric practice of skinning them alive!
Thanks

Sincerely,
Ms. Robin Douglas

Miss Kristine Andarmani

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Miss Kristine Andarmani

Ms. Lisa Perry

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Changing the name of an animal for the sake of the fur industry is an abomination.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Perry

Ms. Jennifer Tomassi

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help our citizens oppose this cruel practice. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Tomassi

Mrs. Denise Taylor

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help put an end to these inhumane acts.

Thank you

Sincerely,
Mrs. Denise Taylor

Mr. Nicholas Poveromo Jr

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Why are domesticated animals being used for the fur industry in the first place? I can only assume because it's China who is processing these animals and they simply do not care about their welfare. These are animals that were never originally raised for such use and the fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Nicholas Poveromo Jr

Mr. GERAL HOLCOMB

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Public not as dumb as you think. Call animals by their names: require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur ...

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long and massive history of misrepresentation in order to sell its violence. Now they want to be allowed to legally mislead the consumers calling the raccoon dog, "Asiatic raccoon" to deceive the public.

This, no doubt, is deception so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. GERAL HOLCOMB

Mrs. Gayle Philpot

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is bad enough to kill raccoons for their fur. It is inexcusable that DOGS are being killed for their fur and to add insult to injury they are being labeled as "raccoons." As long as the fur industry is killing innocent animals, please require that industry to call the fur by its correct name.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Gayle Philpot

Miss Amanda Salvner

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your time and for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Miss Amanda Salvner

Mr. R & S Aradkar

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not allow an outrageous exception to be made in labelling to deliberately confuse consumers.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. R & S Aradkar

Ms. Laurie McCrink

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon DOG to be called "raccoon DOG" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please DO NOT ACCEPT the fur industry's name, "Asiatic raccoon," and but require the proper labeling as it truthfully is, "Raccoon Dog."

Sincerely,
Ms. Laurie McCrink

Ms. F. Meinelschmidt

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that, I understand, have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family, although NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE ABUSED!!!!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. F. Meinelschmidt

Ms. Kelly Carapezza

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Kelly Carapezza

Sincerely,
Ms. Kelly Carapezza

Ms. Stephanie Berens

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: PLEASE require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!!!!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. PLEASE DO NOT support a lie that permits cruelty to thrive.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Stephanie Berens

Ms. Ellen Lewis

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If someone buys a garment with fur they should know if they are buying the skin of a dog. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Ellen Lewis

Ms. Patricia Higgins

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I WOULD LIKE TO SEE ALL FUR BE REQUIRED TO BE ACCURATELY LABELED AND ALSO WHETHER THE ANIMAL WAS RAISED ON A FUR FARM OR TRAPPED IN THE WILD. CONSUMERS DESERVE TO KNOW WHAT THEY ARE PUTTING ANIMALS THROUGH WHEN THEY BUY FUR. IN ADDITION, MOST AVERAGE CITIZENS DO NOT REALIZE THAT MUCH OF THE FUR IMPORTED FROM CHINA IS TAKEN FROM DOGS AND CATS THAT ARE OFTEN BEATEN TO DEATH UP AGAINST STONE WALLS.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Higgins

Ms. Anastasia Steinberg

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I've long wondered about the "fur" that is sold today. Consumers have a right to know what they are actually purchasing and how the item was made.

I can't even begin to imagine that anyone would actually want a garment that was made by skinning a dog alive. No one wants that kind of "beauty."

If the fur industry wasn't aware of that, then why are they trying to hide the fact that the animal they are using is a dog?

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Anastasia Steinberg

Mr. David Johnson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Real fur is abhorrent anyway. Be fur free!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Mr. David Johnson

Ms. Heather Whitney Price

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is unfair to raccoon dogs and to consumers to allow misleading and inaccurate labeling of fur. Please prevent the cruel and unjust mislabeling of raccoon dogs' fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Heather Whitney Price

Ms. Darcy Bauer

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please, please be a person who effects a change in this issue.
Darcy Bauer

Sincerely,
Ms. Darcy Bauer

Ms. Eileen Karsten

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

IT TAKES A VERY SICK EVIL PERSON TO SKIN ANIMALS WHILE ALIVE,

Sincerely,
Ms. Eileen Karsten

Mrs. Nikola Kaminsky

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do whatever you can to stop animals being used for the sake of fashion. If you can't stop the fur trade, please make sure customers are adequately informed about where the fur comes from and how it was obtained. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nikola Kaminsky

Ms. Donna Abecasis

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I DO NOT WANT TO BUY OR WEAR " MANS BEST FRIEND " It's sinful that these o'toole act in. such a horrible manor !!!!!!!!!!

I wonder how they would like to be skinned themselves!!!!!!!!!!
Alive no less THEY HAVE NO SHAME AT ALL BRINGS A WHOLE NEE MEANING TO BEING TORTURED !!!!!!!!!!! Shame in all of them

Sincerely,
Ms. Donna Abecasis

Ms. Cynthia Snow

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon DOG under the name "Asiatic raccoon", so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please require the FTC to correctly label this product so that, we the consumer Can Make A Clear Choice.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia Snow

Mr. Dave and Rita Cross

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt, so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that!

Please work to make fur labels tell the truth! The public deserves to know!

Sincerely,
Mr. Dave and Rita Cross

Ms. LaVern Strawn

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

IT REALLY DOESN'T MATTER TO ME WHAT THEY ARE CALLED....I THOUGHT WE HAD LAWS AGAINST USING ANIMAL SKINS FOR FURS IN OUR COUNTRY, i.e., we do not allow furs of any kind...they are all illegal, right?

WELL IF NOT, NOW IS THE TIME. WHEN IS IT EVER GOING TO END THAT WE ADORN OURSELVES, SMUGGLY AND HAUGHTILY, BY TAKING THE SKIN OFF OF OTHER LIVING CREATURES, WHILE THEY ARE LIVING, AND HANG IT UPON OURSELVES. THERE'S ALSO THE SIN OF PAYING SOMEONE ELSE TO DO THE DIRTY JOB. SHAME! SHAME! SHAME!

Sincerely,
Ms. LaVern Strawn

Ms. Louisa McCleary

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

People have a right to know exactly what they are buying. Calling this animal an "Asiatic raccoon" is devious and misleading. Encouraging a trade that employs such horrifying practices by allowing its practitioners to lie is particularly egregious. Require honest labeling!!

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Louisa McCleary

Mrs. Christine Reynolds

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Just another act of cruelty all for the sake of money. Anyone that does that has no heart and is a poor excuse for a human? being. I am so disgusted with cruelty to animals. I just don't understand it. Never will. All animals should be respected.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christine Reynolds

Miss Patricia Drake

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

All other industries are held to some standard to ensure 'truth in labeling'. This industry should be no different.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Miss Patricia Drake

Mrs. Jo Jean A. Marshall

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: TELL THE TRUTH... Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Misleading the public is wrong!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jo Jean A. Marshall

Ms. Paulette Ray

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

A dog is a dog and a raccoon is a raccoon. Let's label these animals correctly and STOP fooling the people into thinking it is raccoon fur. Please be honest about it and let the people know they are wearing a Chinese dog.

Sincerely,
Ms. Paulette Ray

Ms. Elizabeth Glover

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

These are DOGS.
DOGS not Raccoon's

They're being skinned alive and worse and called Raccoons to deceive Americans who protect dogs but not Raccoons.

Outlaw lying about the "ingredient", ,
the animals species.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Elizabeth Glover

Dr. Anita Pereira

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its terribly cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please help us humans evolve into anti-cruel beings; help us end this "hidden" cruelty to fellow sentient beings.

Thank you so much for all you do to make this world a better place to live in.

Sincerely,
Dr. Anita Pereira

Ms. JOHNNIE WHITE

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Some people just have to lie. Stop the fur trade all together

Sincerely,
Ms. JOHNNIE WHITE

Ms. Michele Ellis

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Let's do the right thing..the public has a right to know that this cruel, inhumane practice is ongoing.

Sincerely,
Ms. Michele Ellis

Ms. Mary Ann Forster

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please make sure that labeling is accurate to prevent the cruel treatment of these beautiful creatures.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Ann Forster

Ms. Cindy MacDonald

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I watched a very brutal video of a Chinese man skinning a raccoon dog ALIVE. Let the truth be told.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cindy MacDonald

Miss Emma Victoria Cutney

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its product. At present, they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the misleading name "Asiatic raccoon", no doubt so that consumers will not make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs by their proper name.

Please ensure that the fur industry is required to use truth in advertising practices.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
Miss Emma Victoria Cutney

Ms. Marianne Ferguson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of lying in order to sell its product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so consumers who are aware of the difference won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. This terrible abuse of a live animal needs to be stopped and if there are no consumers for this fur- the abuse will end.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marianne Ferguson

Ms. SALLY ANN FARR

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Skinning any kind of dog alive is wicked awful. How can any human do this without any conscience?

Sincerely,
Ms. SALLY ANN FARR

Ms. Laura McGowan

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Unfortunately, I witnessed a raccoon dog being skinned alive, then tossed on the ground while in shock and still breathing. I was sobbing hysterically as I screamed at the Chinese man. Frankly, I feel that ALL fur should be banned. There is absolutely NO justification for torturing an animal, much less for fashion. Anyone who purchases fur of any kind in our present society where fur is NOT necessary for survival, is blight on this planet.

Sincerely,
Ms. Laura McGowan

Mrs. Sara Deni

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sara Deni

Ms. Cynthia bright

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Personally I believe the Chinese are barbaric and disgusting in their inhumane treatment of animals. It is horrific to even begin to believe anyone could skin any animal alive!!! Revolting, sickening and I will post this on any and every social media forum I am able to. As it is, I tell everyone I can how monstrous the Chinese are in their total disregard for animals, in the inhumane skinning, killing and abuse of dogs and cats. Sickening, and I will never stop relaying my horror until Americans stop buying any China product which uses leather, or fur of any type.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia bright

Dr. Dwayne Knirk

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is bad enough today, in anyplace but the most remote circumstances, that any animals are violently destroyed solely for the pleasure of wearing their skin. Violent destruction of living animals no longer has any ethical justification. Hiding such violence behind innocuous words is a failure to denounce violence, and a failure to denounce it condones it. John Locke said all that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing. Please do not abdicate your responsibility to speak for the good. At least do not allow the violence to be hidden behind a "just another animal we kill" label.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Dr. Dwayne Knirk

Ms. Pat Lukensmeyer

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please remember:

Mahatma Gandhi, philosopher "The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated."

Thank you so much for your kind response to this issue.

Sincerely,
Ms. Pat Lukensmeyer

Ms. Allyson White

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

As consumers WE NEED THE TRUTH!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Allyson White

Mrs. Christina Vawser

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We do have a law going before the President on the Truth in Fur Labeling Act, for which this is the perfect example. I know that I would very much want to know if I went to purchase something labeled "Asiatic Raccoon", that it was fur taken from a dog and not a type of raccoon!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christina Vawser

Mrs. Victoria Darrow

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Are you kidding me???

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Victoria Darrow

Jacquelyn West

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please stop cruel and deceptive practices that currently allow dogs to be killed for their skin and coat.

Sincerely,
Jacquelyn West

Ms. Mia Manon

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

There's no reason for anyone to use fur of any type any longer! Stop it! Give this poor animal the correct name and then give it the trap-free life it deserves!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Mia Manon

Ms. Sharon Harrison

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE SKINNED ALIVE, ESP. FOR SOMETHING AS SUPERFICIAL AS THEIR FUR!!!! IN MY OPINION, LABELS SHOULD BE PUT ON ALL FUR COATS WHERE THIS HEINOUS PRACTICE IS DONE STATING THAT "THIS FUR HAS BEEN PROCESSED THROUGH THE LIVE SKINNING OF THE ANIMAL."

FOR GOD'S SAKE, FIND A WAY TO STOP THIS HORRIBLE PROCESS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sharon Harrison

Sincerely,
Ms. Sharon Harrison

Carole and Paul Dyer

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

With all of the faux fur that is now available (and, it looks great!), why are we even discussing the use of animals for their fur???

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Carole and Paul Dyer

Mrs. frances h. foreman

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely, Fran

Sincerely,
Mrs. frances h. foreman

Ms. Elan Carlson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE STOP THE CRUEL KILLING FOREVER!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Elan Carlson

Ms. Dawn Pelosi

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It should NOT MATTER what type of animal it is, no animal should be skinned alive, let alone awake, conscious, and feeling. That goes for all venues of animal fur AND MEAT trades, to include rhinos and elephants for horns and tusks, and apes, tigers, bears for body parts. AS well as the export of American horses to Canada and Mexico. All animal trade should and must be regulated, licensed, run and inspected by persons with integrity, knowledge, and compassion. Anyone found abusing any life should be punished. THAT INCLUDES hunting family groups of dolphin, whales, and seals. THERE IS JUST NO REASON FOR IT!!! Allowing the torture of wolves with leg crushing traps, and the hunting of wildlife for 'trophy' is WRONG. There should be a 'need' to take any life. No life should be for 'sale' for the 'sport'. To make that fair, go hunting in barefeet and barehands, JUST AS THE ANIMALS ARE ARMED- THAT would be 'sporting'.

Sincerely,
Ms. Dawn Pelosi

Mrs. heidi blechar

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

anyone doing this to any animal is a "human" who really does not deserve to be called human.

there are more ways to make a living, it shows that there is nothing human about that individual, that they enjoy killing.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. shame on all of the people who could change things but turn a blind eye. how convenient to look away.

Sincerely,
Mrs. heidi blechar

Mrs. Tracey Dalia

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Let's call a spade a spade... and a racoon dog a racoon dog. No false names to mislead the public... and sell product. It isn't right in any area to falsely represent the product you are selling. People have a right to know what it is that they are purchasing!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tracey Dalia

Mr. Everett Eddy Jr

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. It is only fair to the animal, whose life was sacrificed for its fur, to be called by its name.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Everett Eddy Jr

Miss Terra Bell

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. This name is a blatant deception, and one that would mislead American consumers - many of whom own dogs themselves - in order to prevent them from knowing what kind of animal the fur came from.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please don't let a simple physical feature - their little black mask - lead to their live skinning and torment.

Sincerely,
Miss Terra Bell

Mrs. Mindy Jones

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry should not be permitted to continue its long history of misrepresenting their products and the extreme animal abuse behind those products. Here's what I mean by "extreme" animal abuse:

http://www.ecouterre.com/raccoon-dogs-flayed-alive-to-make-knockoff-ugg-boots-graphic-

video/ (Be sure to check out the video in this article)

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-2045016/Raccoon-dogs-skinned-alive-make-cheap-copies-Ugg-boots.html>

Raccoon dogs got their name because their fur resembles raccoons' fur. However, raccoon dogs are NOT closely related to raccoons. They ARE closely related to domestic dogs. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae family, just like domestic dogs, wolves, foxes, jackals, and coyotes. Raccoons are from the Procyonidae family.

The fur industry openly admits that they want to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" because fewer people would be willing to buy fur products made from dogs. But their products ARE made from dogs! And to make matters worse, it's done in an horrific, abusive way!

I read the arguments from the fur industry as summarized on the Federal Register (link below), and I was so disheartened by it. Their comments grossly misrepresented reality and rejected common sense. Summarized, their case was this: 1) Just because it's a dog doesn't mean we should call it a dog. 2) Consumers are more familiar with the term "Asiatic raccoon" because their only exposure to this animal is through our products, and we've always labeled it using a term we invented to get around having to use the word "dog." 3) No one wants to buy products made from dogs. If you make us label dog fur as dog fur, no one will buy it.

<https://www.federalregister.gov/articles/2012/09/17/2012-22568/regulations-under-the-fur-products-labeling-act>

All reputable governmental and scientific sources call raccoon dogs just that. Additionally, if you google both terms, it's easy to see that everyone else (except the fur industry) calls these animals

"raccoon dogs," as well. The term "Asiatic raccoon" appears only in fur product labeling or when someone is explaining that the fur industry incorrectly labels raccoon dogs as Asiatic raccoons.

This whole situation is sickening and absolutely absurd. PLEASE don't let the fur industry hide their horrific abuses by using a fake name for a dog. PLEASE give consumers the information they need to decide for themselves whether they want to buy or wear dog fur.

Thank you for taking the time to read this message!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mindy Jones

Mrs. Adriane Mayko

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And furthermore, in this 'day and age' FAKE FUR is FINE!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Adriane Mayko

Ms. janet curtis

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

this has to stop! raccoon or dog it all has to stop! RESPECT OUR ANIMALS NOW!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. janet curtis

Ms. Margaret Boudreau

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

There is no need for Americans to wear fur of any kind any more. Until the fur industry can be shut down altogether, it is essential that whatever fur exists be labeled properly - to help eliminate the purchase of such fur.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Margaret Boudreau

Dr. Jessica Harper

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Because all reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that, the fur from these animals needs to be labeled with that name.

Other terms are deceptive. Please help consumers by requiring the fur industry to use the term "raccoon dog"

Sincerely,
Dr. Jessica Harper

Ms. Lorna Phillipson

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon DOG" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of MISREPRESENTATION in order to sell its cruel product. Now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon DOG under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so THAT consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal WHICH have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs correctly: as Raccoon DOGS.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lorna Phillipson

Ms. Shelly Marie

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please play no part in deceiving the public -All must know this barbaric, reprehensible, atrociously brutal industry for what it is. It is bad enough, that in this day & age -With all of the fabulous fabrics out there -That anyone at all wears Fur-Ever!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Shelly Marie

Ms. Tracey Miers

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Changing the name is intentional misleading and representing where the fur comes from and should not be supported by the FCC! I had no idea such an issue existed until now and I'm horrified to learn this is even under consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tracey Miers

Ms. celia rajkovich

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. There needs to be truth in advertising.

Sincerely,
Ms. celia rajkovich

Ms. LINDA MCCORMACK

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

How can anyone skin a live dog?!?!?! That is SICK!! PLEASE stop them from calling them a raccoon.

PLEASE,
Linda McCormack

Sincerely,
Ms. LINDA MCCORMACK

Mr. Chris Loveless

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. This is an atrocity that needs to come to an end! However, since the US can't stop China from their irresponsible, and abominable practices, the US CAN stop allowing these types of products from coming into our country. Why they should be allowed trade embargo with the United States, or other countries when we don't allow such abuse here. Renaming an animal to cover up the sins of men doesn't make it any better! Let's help put an end to the cover up, if we can't (WON'T) stop the abominations of animal abusers.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Chris Loveless

Mrs. GLORIA JASTREMSKY

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

EVERYONE SHOULD HAVE THE TRUTH OF WHAT THEY ARE BUYING!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. GLORIA JASTREMSKY

Mrs. julia frascarelli

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It's only fair to call them "dogs" and not raccoons.

Thank you, Julia Frascarelli

Sincerely,
Mrs. julia frascarelli

Mr. Everett Halligan

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Require Raccoon Dog to be called "Raccoon Dog" on fur labels and NOT the inaccurate and misleading trade name "Asiatic raccoon"

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Everett Halligan

Ms. Suzanne Michael

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that I only found this out just now reading this article, but you can bet everyone I know will hear about it now! That is so sick but then the Asian people are some of the cruelest, sickest people I've ever heard of. I'm sure after they skin the dog they eat it too! Geeze I'll be reading every label that has fur trim from now on and everyone withing ear shot of me will know if I find a misleading label like this on it!.

Sincerely,
Ms. Suzanne Michael

Miss JASMIN Espinoza

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

PLEASE STOP SELLING ALL FUR FROM ALL ANIMALS! I BEG YOU! I BEG THAT YOU HELP STOP THE USE OF POOR ANIMALS FOR ANY PURPOSE, THIS IS VERY CRUEL, INHUMANE & SAD!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Miss JASMIN Espinoza

Mrs. Christine Becker

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I would not wear or eat dog either!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christine Becker

Mrs. Christina McLean

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This act of cruelty is sad and revolting. Please give these poor victims a voice to be heard.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christina McLean

Mrs. Susan Taylor

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Raccoon dogs are quickly becoming endangered. Please do not allow them to be over hunted just for good relations with China.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Susan Taylor

Mr. John W Rumery jr

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

How can people like this look in the mirror?

Sincerely,
Mr. John W Rumery jr

Ms. Colleen McKenna

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do what is right. Stop this horrible action.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Colleen McKenna

Ms. Lisa Greene

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: If it's "raccoon dog" then say so on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Consumers have the right to know what they are buying. Please do not allow this egregious deception to continue.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Greene

Mrs. Judie Mindrum

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

No fur industry! No killing of any animal for purposes of making vanity clothing for people. Ban the fur trade, the animal trade and the ivory trade. Any trade that deals with animals or animal parts.

Please, let's really be humane humans.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Judie Mindrum

Mrs. sherri young

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please let people know what they are doing to these dogs. I never thought when I was buying a coat to look at what the trim was made from or what it came from. I would never!!!! buy a coat if I knew this. Please give the consumer the power to not kill a innocent animal for a few pieces of hair on a coat ect....

Thank You
Sherri Young

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. sherri young

Mr. David Dudek

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

As a professor of business, I could provide you much research that illustrates the importance of complete and accurate information to efficient operation of the marketplace. Just look back at the manner in which food processors took unhealthy trans fats out of most of their products after they were forced to put trans fat information on their product labels. Consumers cannot make informed buying decisions without accurate product information.

It is critically important that you do not allow products with Raccoon Dog components to be labelled with any other name. This would be misleading. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is an important part of your job to help ensure that consumers can make well informed buying decisions by ensuring that products are accurately labelled. You need to ensure Raccoon Dog components are accurately labelled as Raccoon Dog,

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

David E. Dudek
Therese Fleming Dudek

Sincerely,

Mr. David Dudek

Shirlane Ferrante

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that i don't care what you call it, cruel and disgusting practice of skinning alive needs to be abolished.

China's heartless, cruel unethical and immoral treatment has been oing on for decades and no one has stepped in to stop it.

Sure label it raccoon dog, but instead of labeling it, why not stop this nauseating practice..

Sincerely,
Shirlane Ferrante

Ms.Carolynn Camden

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The public has a right to know what they're eating and what their clothing is made of. As an American and humane treatment of animals advocate, I strongly recommend that any and all "fur" products be labeled correctly. As a human being, I abhor the practice of hunting or capturing animals in any way for the purpose of using their precious hide for a piece of clothing or as decoration for anything.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carolynn Camden

Ms. Jean Nations

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the dog family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the raccoon family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jean Nations

Ms. Heide Cantillo

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help in stopping the outrageous Asian fur trade!! With all of the gorgeous synthetic fur fabrics on the market today, there is absolutely no need to kill animals any more!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Heide Cantillo

Ms. Marsha Traylor

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Hello: require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

And disregarding the dog/raccoon family thing, no one should be wearing fur anyway. Whatever the species.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marsha Traylor

Mrs. Judith King

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

If outlawing the use of the fur is not possible, then at least take the conscientious step of mandating the use of the proper name of the animal so that buyers can be better informed and make the right choice as to whether or not to buy these products!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Judith King

Mrs. Angeline Pelton

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Shame on you for again trying to mislead the public in disguising the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs for their fur.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Angeline Pelton

Ms. Linda Rhyan

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop the use of fur in any manner, at a minimum, insure that raccoon dog fur is correctly labeled. What a travesty for these poor animals-to die just to trim someone's clothing! Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Rhyan

Dr. Sol Myers

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. So let's get real and save lives, instead of the American custom of killing everything that breathes! Thank you!

Sincerely,
Dr. Sol Myers

Nancy Roberts

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

SKINNING ANY LIVING ANIMAL ALIVE IS UNBEARABLE TO THINK ABOUT, LET ALONE ACTUALLY DOING IT! This practice must be stopped doing whatever it takes!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Sincerely,
Nancy Roberts

Mrs. Cheryl Vallone Rigby

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your consideration and for accepting these comments.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cheryl Vallone Rigby

Ms. Rebecca Gosses

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. We as Americans are sick of getting sub-par products from China. Stop this unnecessary practice and STOP accepting garbage from a country that clearly doesn't care about our citizens.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rebecca Gosses

Ms. Wendy Stoner-Lincoln

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

Even if they were raccoons, it's still completely wrong to abuse, mutilate and torture any animal for ANY reason whatsoever.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Wendy Stoner-Lincoln

Ms. Rhonda Slabaugh

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. THEY ARE DOGS.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rhonda Slabaugh

Dr. Sadie Schrader

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: MANDATE raccoon dogs to be LABELLED "raccoon dog" on fur

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the CANIDAE (DOG) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (RACCOON) family.

REPUTABLE governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, IDENTIFY RACCOON DOGS as DOGS.

Sincerely,
Dr. Sadie Schrader

Ms. Sharon Roadman

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. And so must we!

Sincerely,
Ms. Sharon Roadman

Mr. christian rocklein

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: raccoon dog should be called "dog" on fur labels - not "raccoon".

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please don't let the fur industry get away with this nonsense.

Sincerely,
Mr. christian rocklein

Mrs. Jody Webb

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

*Please Put These To Right.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jody Webb

Mrs. Kimberly Farrington

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I could not watch the videos of people skinning live raccoon dogs. The thought alone was horrific enough. Why you, the Federal Trade commission, would want to change the name of an animal that has been abused this way so that others could sell clothes with this animal's fur is very suspicious. Retailers have taken clothes off from the shelf when they have learned that the fur was from these mistreated and horribly abused animals. The only reason that the clothes ended up on the shelves in the first place was through inaccurate/fraudulent labeling. Now, you would like to knowingly permit this inaccurate/fradulent labeling so that we as consumers could be fooled? This is underhanded and I would expect more from those of you who are in a position of authority. Please respect people enough to let us decide whether we need to abusively kill animals solely to keep our feet warm or whether we could try some "real" faux fur.

Sincerely,
Kimberly Farrington

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kimberly Farrington

Miss Tatiana Resto

Oct 19, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Even so, no animal, whether dog or Raccoon should be abused.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Tatiana Resto

Mrs. Rhana & Jeff Wyble

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

P.S. This should not happen to any kind of animal. I am so sick of our country purchasing things from China, especially when they are allowed to do sick things like skin an animal alive. How would they like to be skinned alive? Somebody needs to do something about this NOW!

I am also tired of sending letters to senators and representors about protecting our wildlife and getting some bull**** form letter back from them basically stating "if it fits in their budget, maybe they'll look into it", that's a good way to get voted out of office as far as I'm concerned. You gotta love the internet and the amount of people who would view the politicians as being insencitive.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Rhana & Jeff Wyble

Mr. c soraghan

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE REQUIRE RACCOON DOGS TO BE LABELLED AS SUCH ON FUR LABELS. THANK YOU.

Sincerely,
Mr. c soraghan

Ms. sylvia roachford

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I am disgusted that any animal be skinned alive or even killed for its fur. At least accurate labels should be put on garments sold in the U.S.A. We are supposed to be civilized in this country.

Sincerely,
Ms. sylvia roachford

Mrs. Jamie Preston

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Why is the FTC enabling the fur trade to engage in the deliberate deception of advertising dog fur as raccoon fur when all reputable scientific and governmental sources identify dogs as dogs, (Canidae family) even though some of them look like raccoons, and raccoons as raccoons (Procyonidae family) who look like raccoons not dogs. Has the concept of truth in advertising fallen victim to the belief that false advertising sells dog fur only if people are misled to think they're purchasing raccoon fur? Please don't facilitate the cruel exploitation of man's best friend by allowing these helpless dogs to be mercilessly butchered alive for their fur and then falsely marketed as "Asiatic raccoon". This despicable cover up is nothing less than false advertising and the FTC would better serve and protect the public by demanding that furriers truthfully label all animal fur according to genetic analysis, not what the fur looks like.

Sincerely,
Jamie Preston

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jamie Preston

becky fisher

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is just sick. What kind of person could skin an animal while it is still alive! Or worse yet wear the animals fur knowing this. Why do you have to lie and misrepresent everything. Can't you just be honest? No, it's all about the money! You will one day have to answer to God! May he have mercy on you for allowing this practice.

Sincerely,
becky fisher

Ms. Patricia Duca

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Label Raccoon Dog Fur AS Dog Fur

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The use of animal fur for clothing is obscene enough but to learn of dogs fur being used is absolutely sickening and beyond cruel. Consumers need to know what they are buying so the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented are known!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Would you want YOUR dog skinned alive to trim YOUR garment? I think not...but if you did...what a cruel person ou are.

Do the right thing!

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Duca

Mrs. Dorothy Krapf

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dorothy Krapf

Mr. ken moore

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This misleading labelling should be stopped. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. ken moore

Ms. K Lowe

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I never cease to be both appalled and saddened by the act of 'humans' on its fellow creatures.

Your support to bring this particular horror to an end would be much appreciated.

Sincerely,
Ms. K Lowe

Mrs. Constance Korb

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This should be a "no-brainer"! Let people know what they are purchasing and don't let underhanded sales techniques prevail! The only people who will be upset by these changes are the same people trying to sell dog fur to unsuspecting citizens -and they should be stopped!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Constance Korb

Mr. James Grant Jr

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I would prefer the banning of this fur from even entering this country but its something we could only hope for someday.

Sincerely,
Mr. James Grant Jr

Mrs. Ginger Maloney

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Why in this day and age are we still practicing such barbaric behavior? Why would anyone want to wear a dog? We need to educate people that this beautiful animal is a canidae.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ginger Maloney

Mrs. Christine Stahl

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please consider making all natural fur products illegal in the U.S. due to the cruelty involved in supplying this product.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Christine Stahl

Mrs. Diane Poole

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. We must stop this!!! These animals are dogs and should be classified as dogs!!! Stop all animal cruelty!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Diane Poole

Mrs. Diana Greenhalgh

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

aAnd for that matter, why don't you just leave the poor raccoon dogs alone!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Diana Greenhalgh

Ms. Genie Tillisch

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry should not be allowed to sell the fur of the raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon." Consumers should know they are buying the fur of a member of the same family as their favorite pet curled up on their hearth. The well documented abuses of the poor raccoon dog are atrocious.

Sincerely,
Ms. Genie Tillisch

Ms. pamela larson

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please don't support this proposed naming convention by fur traders. I have seen videos of this extreme cruelty - a skinned dog raising its head from a pile of dead animals. This will never leave my head. It's beyond me how anyone can be so cruel.

Sincerely,
Ms. pamela larson

Ms. Nancy Pickard

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

This is not only a dishonest practice, but unfair to consumers who are concerned about animal protection, as the majority are today. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Nancy Pickard

Ms. Joan Liberty

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is beyond my ability to comprehend that skinning live animals is a practice. I will pray for the people who are so far removed from the value of life that they have become so inhuman.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joan Liberty

Ms. Karen Koenig

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

All fur belongs on the animals it came on, NOT on humans! The fur industry itself is cruel, outdated, and unnecessary in this age of good synthetics which do not kill animals!

Please help to stop this practice.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Karen Koenig

Rita Arlotta

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Rita Arlotta

Sincerely,
Rita Arlotta

Ms. Millie Lynch

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Barbarity is barbarity, no matter what. I do not support these animals being mistreated. Do something about it!

Sincerely,
Ms. Millie Lynch

irene schipp

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please outlaw all FUR from any animal.
Even Faux Fur could be dog or cat fur from China!!!!
There is no need to wear fur!!!!!!!!!!!!
No animal should be bred and skinned alive or killed for their fur!!!!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
irene schipp

Mrs. Barbara Dinger

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Barbara Dinger

Sincerely,
Mrs. Barbara Dinger

Ms. Jude Turner

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,

Jude Turner

Sincerely,
Ms. Jude Turner

Jennifer Antak

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Regardless, no animal should be skinned alive!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Antak

Mrs. Penny Taylor

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

++++Who would want a dead animal around their neck anyway? Don't they realize the suffering it went through?++++The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Penny Taylor

Mrs. Tracy Bergstrand

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Your attention to this important matter is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tracy Bergstrand

Ms. Anna Monastero

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

To call this animal by a false name is completely disregarding the rights it has simply by being a living creature. Some might think that this change of name has no significant meaning but it potentially has the ability to determine the outcome of this species future. It is a barbaric practice to skin an innocent animal and use its fur; especially today when there is absolutely NO NEED to do this. It sickens me that there are people who would do this merely to make money. It is repulsive. So to change this animals name to 'Asiatic raccoon' would not only be misleading but it would be wrong. If this name change were to happen, predictably, the purchase of clothes with this fur would go up because of the consumers ignorance to this false name. Now is that fair? Is it just to allow this innocent creatures rights to a safe life be taken away from them? Absolutely not. Those who have no concern for these poor creatures are disgusting people. Our being human means we should take care of those who cannot protect themselves, not exploit them. Please inform yourselves and others of the horrible fate these animals have to endure and will endure if their name is allowed to be changed. Give these creatures the chance at life they DESERVE. Thank you

Sincerely,
Ms. Anna Monastero

Ms. Mary Callahan

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not allow the fur industry to railroad the FTC and consumers. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Callahan

Mr. Joseph Collins

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Killing animals for fur is about as despicable and cruel as it gets, but to add lying to the long list of treacheries committed by the fur industry makes it even worse. The public has a right know what they are buying, and of the horror associated with the making of the product.

Sincerely,
Mr. Joseph Collins

Mdlanie Burian

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. The mere act of reading this information causes me to catch my breath, as it is that distressing for any compassionate individual.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We absolutely must work to stop all of the heinous, cruel, barbaric acts perpetrated on all animals who are made to suffer beyond our comprehension--let alone for the sake of adorning our clothing with their fur!!!!

Sincerely,
Mdlanie Burian

Mrs. Nancy Hart

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It should be outlawed that any animal is raised for its fur to be used in clothing! It doesn't matter to me what the animal is called...it should not be killed for its fur.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nancy Hart

Miss Sharon Farmer

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

To see the horrible deaths raccoon dogs suffer is unbearable. I have never known anything so horrific that is done to animals. This treatment is a reflection of the people. I am truly ashamed.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Sharon Farmer

Mrs. Patricia Stubenvoll

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

HOW COULD YOU let the fur industry continue this horrible lie of calling the Raccoon Dog an Asiatic or Finn Raccoon ????? The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. They are in the line of OUR family dogs.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please be honest in the labeling of all your products.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Patricia Stubenvoll

Mrs. Tammy Warner

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I along with most of the united states population do NOT want dogs to be skinned for any reason, little lone decoration on garments! In so many family a dog is not just a pet, but is a valued family member. We would never skin one of our human family members! Please help stop this misleading behavior. Call a Raccoon dog a dog, simple as that! Thank you for you help.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tammy Warner

Ms. June Bowers

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The caring citizens of this country will appreciate you taking the appropriate action concerning these raccoon dogs by requiring their fur to be labeled properly. Hopefully, we will protect these animals by eventually banning the importation of their skins to the United States and thus, reducing the demand for them.

Sincerely,
Ms. June Bowers

Ms. BARBARA THORSON

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please make this change and call fur from the "raccoon dog" what it is, so consumers are not misled and they know what they are buying. Now is the time to make this change! Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. BARBARA THORSON

Mrs. Tricia Hamilton

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. I would not buy any type of fur but when they say faux and it is a raccoon or a dog I am ashamed of our government!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tricia Hamilton

Christine Grabar

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

There is no excuse for skinning any poor animal alive! Leave the animals alone -- people do not need to wear fur coats. Fur coats belong on the animals -- not on humans. People who design clothes should try to design fake fur coats with material that is soft, but not actual fur from an animal.

Christine

Sincerely,
Christine Grabar

Ms. Lisa Keer

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

We need to extend that proper labeling to the garment industry.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lisa Keer

Mrs. Maria Stewart

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please STOP the labeling of dog fur as raccoon fur and STOP the cruelty of skinning alive ANY animal for any reason. How can the perpetrators of such hideous acts call themselves human beings?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Maria Stewart

Sharon Lajer

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help end this horrible practice. If you care about dogs, this must stop. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Sharon Lajer

Mr. Keith Krupinski

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I am forever disgusted by the torture of animals in the name of fashion (if you can call it "fashion").

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Keith Krupinski

Mr. mike hall

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please ban all fur trade from China, because of inhumane abuse of all animals

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs and all dogs and cats of all species are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

In short. Ban all fur and hair trade with China because of the inhumane practices they do.

Sincerely,
Mr. mike hall

Ms. Eva Kendall

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. It only confuses people and when supporting the fur industries, people should know what they're wearing.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Eva Kendall

Ms. Alexis Birrell

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Better yet, just call it "dog" fur. It's dog fur and it's deceptive not to call it what it is. It's dog fur. How could our government let us be so deceived? It's dog fur!

Sincerely,
Ms. Alexis Birrell

Ms. wanda selley

Oct 20, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Raccoon dogs or raccoons in general--why do they have to be slaughtered for vanity sake? Why stop with them? On a sarcastic note, how about we use the skins of all living things--human as well? Sounds sickening, doesn't it? It is sickening. Call the raccoon dogs for what they are and better yet, put a stop to the senseless inhumane killing of these animals. Why use animal skins when there are natural and synthetic fabrics that warm the body just as well--if not better?

Sincerely,
Ms. wanda selley

Ms. Carol Bishop

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. It is truly as disgusting as the bludgeoning and skinning alive of the Canadian baby harp seals, who are separated from their mothers and brutally killed in front of their mothers.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Stop lying to consumers. Stop exploiting and mistreating animals for unnecessary human consumption.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Carol Bishop

Mrs. cyndy brittain

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. The truth needs to be told to the public, about this misrepresentation. Most caring people will not want to buy garments if they knew the truth about how these dogs are treated. By calling them Asiatic raccon, China will profit an misslead unsuspecting buyers.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please do the humane thing by not allowing this name change. We must not regress, to do so we are telling China that the United States condones such cruel behavior. Its time for the US govt. to take a stand on such issues.

Sincerely,
Mrs. cyndy brittain

Ms. Bonnie Wagner

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Consumers have the right to know what they are buying.

If you want to use this different name, then use a humane way of obtaining the fur from this poor animal.

After seeing what this raccoon dog goes through, it would kill me to find out I was wearing some of it's fur.

If you want us to buy these products then be honest with the consumer.

Thank You,
Bonnie Wagner

Sincerely,
Ms. Bonnie Wagner

Mrs. Sarah Krank

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. If they were raccoon, there is no reason for their fur to be taken from them to adorn clothing or purses to stroke vanity.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Then take the next step and not allow ANY animal fur into the industry.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sarah Krank

Ms. Hannah Harvey

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Dogs are dogs! You can't hurt them just because they are unique. Being unique just gives them more reason for respect!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Hannah Harvey

Mrs. Leslie Lowery

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry must not sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" which confuses consumers so they won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Leslie Lowery

Ms. Keena Chan

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Be humane to animals! Any cruelty to all animals including food chain, be a criminal case! Nowadays our Global society be a humane international, against any bloody inhumane to animals!

Sincerely,
Ms. Keena Chan

Mrs. Frances Abbott

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. This should really be labeled what it is DOG FUR forget any mention of raccoon just to mislead

Sincerely,
Mrs. Frances Abbott

Ally Mensching

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Allowing the skinning of these animals is one thing, by hiding the fact of what they truly are in a scheme to trick people is awful.

Sincerely,
Ally Mensching

Ms. Jacqueline Schmidt

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Labeling

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The cruel fur industry should not be allowed to sell raccoon dog fur under the name of "Asiatic raccoon" in order to fool consumers. Raccoon dogs are members of the dog family & not part of the raccoon family.

Even the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, the Smithsonian Institution, as well as all governmental & scientific sources refer to these animals by the raccoon dog name.

The fur industry obviously does not want the buyers to think of the live skinning as well as other horrible abuses that the raccoon dogs have undergone & which are well documented.

These labels are misleading & need to be changed. Please make the changes on these fur rules. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jacqueline Schmidt

Ms. Kristen Coyle

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs
Please do the right thing. Just because you change there name doesn't makes it right for some one to take a animals skin. In this day and age we don't need to do that. Please protect those that can't protect themselves. We don't live in the dark ages anymore!

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristen Coyle

debra carruthers

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for helping to do what is morally and ethically right.

Sincerely,
debra carruthers

Mr. Frank Stokes

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It is tragic that these animals are used for fur at all - most consumers would want to know if they're supporting this practice.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Frank Stokes

Ms. stephany chan

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I saw the PBS documentary filming how the Chinese skinned the german sherpers alive for their fur. That images never leave me. Me and my kids have been haunted by the images since then.

Please give a helping hand to stop this cruelty done to the voiceless animals.

Sincerely,
Ms. stephany chan

Angel Pike

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

PLEASE!
HAVE YOU EVER WATCHED THEM IN THEIR HABITAT?
HAVE YOU SEEN HOW THEY CARE FOR THEIR YOUNG?
THEY LOVE AND CARE JUST LIKE US.... WELL, NOT IN CHINA.
PLEASE MAKE THEM STOP.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

SINCERELY,
ANGEL PIKE

Sincerely,
Angel Pike

Ms. Yuki Katayama

Oct 21, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, membersK of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Yuki Katayama

Ms. Sandra Anderson

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Stop this deceit. Consumers depend on the little information on a label.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Anderson

Sonya Brown

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

My family and I honestly cannot understand why you would want to support the fur industry and their suppliers in China by allowing them to disguise their horrific cruelty.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Sonya Brown

Miss Sophie McCann

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels PLEEZE!!!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. THAT IS ANIMAL CRUELTY!!!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Sophie McCann

Mrs. Jill Heins

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its inhumane product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog fur under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and routine abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jill Heins

Mrs. Rosemary Hieber

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Help Stop the BARBARIC PRACTICE!!! Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

LIVE SKINNING??? BARBARIC PRACTICE!!! HOW DO WE SUPPORT THAT PRACTICE???

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Rosemary Hieber

Ms. Risa Leonard

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

A number of years ago, I clicked on a link that showed Chinese fur farms. It also showed an animal being skinned alive by a fur farm worker. It was one of the MOST DISTURBING videos I have ever seen, and even today, the image of that struggling animal being held upside down while a worker proceeded to skin the animal from its feet to its head and then throwing the still living, furless body on a pile of similar bodies has never left my mind. These racoon dogs are treated horribly, and mislabeling the fur is just another way to perpetuate this horror and continue to make money from consumers who do not understand how the fur that trims their jacket is obtained..If the Chinese government wishes to allow these animals to be used for fur, at least let them be straight forward about it.

Sincerely,
Ms. Risa Leonard

Mrs. RoseMarie Williams

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

No animal should be subjected to that form of TORTURE!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

I do not want fur made from dogs to even be available for human use!
All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. RoseMarie Williams

Ms. Hope De Los Santos

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

***** Each year more than 40 million animals are killed for fashion. Whether used as a full-length coat or simple trim, fur represents senseless pain and suffering. With beautiful faux fur alternatives widely available, there is no need to torture and kill animals to make a fashion statement.*****

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Hope De Los Santos

Joan Boccino

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The inhumane treatment of animals in China greatly influences my buying of all Chinese made products. When I can opt out I do and will continue doing so until things are changed.

Sincerely,
Joan Boccino

Mr. Jeremy Crytzer

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Cruelty is unconscionable regardless of which species is its victim.
Take cruelty OUT of fashion!

Sincerely,
Mr. Jeremy Crytzer

sara hoffman

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

Ms. Tricia M

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be identified as "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Allowing the garment industry to identify their fur anything other than "Raccoon Dog" is misrepresentation. Such deceptive practices should not be allowed.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tricia M

Miss Jade Sturms

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: "raccoon dog" is more accurate than the misleading, destructive new label proposed

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog's fur a member of the dog family, not raccoon) under the name "Asiatic raccoon." No doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Miss Jade Sturms

Ms. Beth Masino

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: .

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

You know, I used to be a peaceful, live & let live person but I'm about to launch a campaign called Screw China! People will be bombarded with all the many reasons we should not purchase the cheap, disappointing true crap that comes over to this country by the mega boatload and replaces stuff that our citizens used to make and were paid a decent wage to do it. Now, we sell our soul for plastic, often toxic stuff we do not need and help promote the exploitation of child factory workers! These bastards kill dogs and label the fur raccoon (and shame on anyone who buys any fur for any reason) Screw China , they dangle a population in the billions as some sort of mega-buyers ready to buy whatever we have, but they don't because they have no money---they have the same 1% with 90% of all the money just like us. This whole trade partner thing has been one big scam and anyone who buys Chinese or shops in Walmart is a traitor

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Beth Masino

Ms. Suzanne deLesdernier

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Live skinning any animal anytime is unacceptable to me.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. People must know that these animals are relatives of family pets.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help us stop cruelty everywhere. Most people do not want cruelty, but it is often difficult to know what is really going on. Correctly naming something is a good early step in understanding and informed decision making.

Sincerely,
Ms. Suzanne deLesdernier

Ms. eve marie english

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

there is no excuse for the inhumanity that these helpless animals must endure. please help by insisting that these animals are correctly represented so as not to undermine what they are just so they can be excused as "vermin" by the uneducated.

Sincerely,
Ms. eve marie english

Ms. Cathy McInnes

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not allow incorrect labelling in the fur industry. Do not allow dogs to be killed and skinned for their fur to be sold under the name "Asiatic raccoon." Do not let the fur industry mislead the public.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

It is horrible that raccoons are skinned for their fur. Don't let dogs be added to the list of creatures that suffer this terrible fate and abuse. What if this was your pet?

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,
Ms. Cathy McInnes

Patricia Rogers

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I do not believe that most Americans would willingly purchase clothing made from dog fur. The racoon dog is a true canine. Please require this fur to at least be honestly labelled for what it is, "raccoon dog", not the entirely false "Asiatic racoon".

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution use the term raccoon dog, and I ask the Federal Trade Commission to follow suit.

That these animals are skinned alive and left to die crying in agony has been documented. I do not think animal products that are the result of such vicious practices should be imported at all. I hope, in time, the FTC will please consider stopping the trade in this cruel item entirely. At least, in a first step, please do not help the cruel people who engage in this hideous practice as an ordinary activity of their industry hide behind a false name for their product. Thank you for this opportunity to express my opinion.

Sincerely,
Patricia Rogers

Mr. Howard K. Beale, Jr.

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon", no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Howard K. Beale, Jr.

Mrs. Carol Crunkhorn

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: To label fur from raccoon dog as "Asiatic Raccoon" would be 'misrepresentation'.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carol Crunkhorn

Ms. Rachel Brandstetter

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

-----
I have a modification to that - label where the animal comes from. Some people might boycott regardless of what it's called if they know what country it comes from. (Better safe than sorry when it comes to something like that...)

Sincerely,
Ms. Rachel Brandstetter

Mrs. Clova Abrahamson

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Consumers have an absolute right to know exactly what is being purchased. If fur being offered for sale is dog fur, it should be so labeled. Pure and simple.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Clova Abrahamson

Mrs. Nina Lozano

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Truth in advertising demands that components be accurately identified.
Raccoon Dog is raccoon Dog. It is not raccoon.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nina Lozano

Mrs. Catherine Tribble

Oct 22, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I can not think of a good reason to use a false name for these products other than to mislead the consumer. We have a right to know the products we are buying.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Catherine Tribble

Ms. Julie Zweig

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

First, no animal should be skinned alive! My feeling is that artificial fur should replace all fur used on garments. However, the fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Julie Zweig

Claudia Test

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Test

Ms. denise melucci

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

People have a right to know exactly what they're buying and who they're giving their money to! Is that so unreasonable?

Sincerely,
Ms. denise melucci

test test

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
test test

nancy katzbeck

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

AMERICANS LOVE DOGS-ALL SPECIES. WE WANT TO KNOW IF THEY ARE BEING USED IN PRODUCTS. DO NOT PROMOTE CRUELTY AND MISTRUST BY ALLOWING CONFUSING LABELING OF IMPORTED CHINESE PRODUCTS.

Sincerely,
nancy katzbeck

Ms. Nicole Bravo

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

*PLEASE help raise awareness regarding the truth about raccoon dog fur and put an end to the heartless abuse of these animals!

Sincerely,
Ms. Nicole Bravo

Pat Foley

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Do not allow these products to be sold anywhere in the USA. Would you buy a coat made from dogs? Neither would I. Shame on CHINA for doing this and shame on you if you allow this to happen. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Pat Foley

Ms. Patricia MacKenzie

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Absolutely no animal should be skinned alive just for its unique fur.
Can't the fake fur manufacturers come up with an acceptable substitute?
Just as no animal should be killed just for sport.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia MacKenzie

Ms. Jacqui Franklin

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

This is a disgusting practice and those who practice it should be punished.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jacqui Franklin

Ms. Paula. Wasserman

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Please do not let this happen. I've seen these animal and they are not in any way but coloring like a raccoon.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Paula. Wasserman

Mrs. Kim Piatt

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

No animal should be skinned for their fur, but to do it and lie about it is worse. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kim Piatt

Ms. Diana Stockdale

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Personally I am against any kind of fur, no matter what family the animal is from. But to purposely misrepresent where fur is coming from in order to sell more of it is repugnant (as is the mistreatment of these poor animals).

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please force the force the fur industry to use the correct name of the animals they killed to make their products.

Sincerely,
Ms. Diana Stockdale

Mr. Brian McKilligan

Oct 23, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I disagree with any attempt to sell animal for any reason, but it is even more offensive to think that such a deceptive labeling program would be allowed in our country.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Brian McKilligan

Ms. Sabina Weilbier

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If every other reputable scientific organization that deals with animals calls these raccoon dogs, a "dog" then the fur industry has no right to rename the animal for its own convenience. It is, of course, obvious why the fur industry wants to remove the word "dog" from this animal's name. They know that the majority of their consumer base has a very visceral revulsion for harming "dogs" of any kind since many people have them as beloved companion animals. I hope that the people who still wear fur do eventually recognize that these raccoon dogs want to live a pain-free, decent life as much as the pooch sitting beside them on the couch, and stop buying any garment made of or trimmed with fur.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sabina Weilbier

Mrs. Linda Auchmoody

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

(Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. This disgusting barbaric practice is just horrible and must be stopped. They are dogs.. not racoons!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Linda Auchmoody

Ms. JerriLyn Miller

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.
This is Disgusting and MUST NOT be allowed!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.
Killing a dog for its fur is disgusting...In fact, killing any animal is despicable

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. JerriLyn Miller

Mrs. Jennifer Hutchins Farrell

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I don't believe in skinning animals so humans can don it. However, if you have to mislead consumers in to purchasing it because the treatment of the animals in obtaining it is so cruel it is even more shameful. Stand up for what is right, manipulating the public to support a practice extremely inhumane is just plain wrong and puts in question the FTC integrity and to whom.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jennifer Hutchins Farrell

Ms. Gretchen Lukens

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The government is by and for the people, and as the demand for fur declines because a majority of the people realize that they do not want to further cruel mistreatment of animals, the government should not make it easier for them to sell their unwanted product under a false name. It is no surprise the fur industry is hoping they can change the name, because they too realize that a majority of people would not want a member of the Canidae (dog) family to be skinned alive for a fashion statement. It reminds citizens too much of their beloved pets. Also, many consumers are aware of the horrific practices of the live skinning and other abuses this Raccoon dog has faced only for it's fur, and the consumers would not want that to happen to any dog.

Furthermore, all reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. It would be shameful for this government agency to be allowed to falsely misname an animal to try and entice people to buy a product that most consumers would find offensive and would not buy if properly labeled. Also, one would have to ask that if this product would be allowed to be labeled as a raccoon rather than a dog and someone buys that product because of the labeling, would the FTC be liable under a suit of false advertising?

I hope that the FTC seriously consider not allowing the fur industry to mislabel their product. This would not only reflect the will of most consumers, but might even avoid any potential lawsuits for false advertising. Thank you for your time and consideration regarding this issue.

Sincerely,
Ms. Gretchen Lukens

Geneve Keel

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Calling the raccoon dog "Asiatic raccoon" is equivalent to False Advertising!

It seems that if it is legitimate to skin the fur off of living dogs, or killing the dogs and then removing their skin, then it was legitimate for Germany to make lampshades of human skin. I doubt you would agree with this.

Because they are in the dog family they should be protected by the same laws that govern all dogs and cats. That they are not family pets is no excuse to ignore the laws against cruelty, even for the fur industry.

Sincerely,
Geneve Keel

Ms. Olivia D'Alessio

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Live skinning is sick. People should know what they're buying.

Sincerely,
Ms. Olivia D'Alessio

Ms. LYNETTE kerce

Oct 24, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Have we not come farther in this world then skinning something alive?

Lynette Kerce

Sincerely,
Ms. LYNETTE kerce

Natasha Breckenridge

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Sincerely,
Natasha Breckenridge

Mr. Massimo Giuntoli

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Massimo Giuntoli

Sincerely,
Mr. Massimo Giuntoli

Ms. Sheila McCracken

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has been misrepresenting its product (victims) for far too long in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". This is so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the dog family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the raccoon family. Even if they were members of the raccoon family, they certainly don't deserve to be skinned alive or abused in any way.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Sheila McCracken

Mr. eddie smith

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Eddie Smith

Sincerely,
Mr. eddie smith

Mrs. Midge Grinstead

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

As a consumer, I have a right to know what I am purchasing. I certainly NEVER want to purchase an item with animal fur.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Midge Grinstead

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

claudia davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
claudia davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Mrs. Melissa Wiegele

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Consumers like to be informed. Therefore, why would you try and hide that? Those that don't care, will purchase it regardless of the labeling, but those that do, should have the right to know. Please correct this misleading term.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Melissa Wiegele

Lara Koch

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Lara Koch

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Ms. emily mitchell

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. This disgusts me.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. emily mitchell

Ms. eloise lanum

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Require the raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a LONG history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning & other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental & scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, & the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that!

Sincerely,
Ms. eloise lanum

Ms. Jennifer Burdette

Oct 25, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please stop the support of animal cruelty. No matter what the creature, their voice must be heard.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jennifer Burdette

Mr. Jason Lanum

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please Require Raccoon Dog Fur Labels to Be Accurate

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I'm writing to ask that you establish rules to force the fur industry to stop using the misleading term 'Asiatic Raccoon' on their fur products and use 'Raccoon Dog' instead as proper.

The current practice is incredibly disingenuous as Raccoon Dogs are belong to the Canidae family and not the Procyonidae family. This is something the Smithsonian, Fish & Wildlife Service, and Smithsonian all agree on.

Sincerely,
Jason Lanum

Sincerely,
Mr. Jason Lanum

Ms. kathryn wadle

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Pay attention to the valuable animal life on this earth. Cruelty is cruelty and the Chinese suck in all areas of giving a you-know-what for human life let alone animal life. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- DO NOT ALLOW ANYONE to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". DO NOT ALLOW - DO NOT ALLOW - DO NOT CONDONE LIVE SKINNING AND/OR OTHER ABUSES OF THIS ANIMAL OR ANY OTHER ANIMAL that have been well documented or not.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

KATHRYN S WADLEE

Sincerely,
Ms. kathryn wadle

Miss Rachael Paterson

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Here is another example of a selfish organisation thinking money money money. You know sometimes in life there is more to worry about than profits, you just have to be less ignorant to realise that.

Sincerely,
Miss Rachael Paterson

Mr. Thomas England

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you, Thomas England

Sincerely,
Mr. Thomas England

Ms. Shannon Sweeney

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is time we as a society stop putting monetary gain at the forefront of all of our decision-making. The exploitation, abuse, and killing of so many animals in the name of trade and economic welfare for individuals or nations must come to an end. China is especially adept at large-scale slaughter and consumption of species that are near extinction to satisfy the selfish desires of so many people we call "consumers". Enough already. Not everything should be for sale or allowed to be a commodity.

Sincerely,
Ms. Shannon Sweeney

Mr. Mark Darcourt

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

The treatment of these animals is barbaric and horrible. They must be identified as what they really are to raise public awareness of their cruel slaughter for the fur trade.

Sincerely,
Mr. Mark Darcourt

Mr. Christopher Gulbransen

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It is bad enough that these animals are skinned alive and horrifically abused aside from the skinning. Name the raccoon dogs what they are and stop the lying, defrauding, and the hiding of who is being abused here. Take action now to make the name change on the fur labels because animals are getting skinned alive right now while before skinning, are packed in crates while they are alive and squirming in pain and terror.

Sincerely,
Mr. Christopher Gulbransen

Mrs. STEPH VESEY

Oct 26, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

NO LIVE ANIMAL FUR EVER!!!!!! The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. STEPH VESEY

Dr. Deborah Black

Oct 27, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please label raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please stop the fur industry from selling raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon." Skinning a live animal - no matter what it's called - is a moral offense.

Sincerely,
Dr. Deborah Black

Mrs. Dominique Margolis

Oct 27, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help stop the cruelty!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dominique Margolis

Laura Thomas

Oct 27, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

If consumers knew that a "raccoon dog" was in fact a dog, they would not be buying products made with its fur. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Please require them to label the products accurately.

Sincerely,
Laura Thomas

Ms. sandra bell

Oct 27, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Actually, these greedy bullies should not be kidnapping and killing any of the innocent animals who are just trying to live their lives in peace in their own habitat -- not bothering anyone.

Sincerely,
Ms. sandra bell

Ms. Cynthia Hale

Oct 28, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. How can you be so cruel as to skin ALIVE any animal?

Sincerely,
Ms. Cynthia Hale

Ms. Stephanie Reynolds

Oct 28, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Anything to make a dollar. How horrible.

Sincerely,
Ms. Stephanie Reynolds

Ms. Martha Parisi

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels; its about time

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon", no doubt so that consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The fur industry should be no-exception. They should be required to call them that also!!!!

Sincerely,
Ms. Martha Parisi

Mrs. Lone Merise Frederiksen

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Go on YouTube and watch the raccoon dogs being skinned alive - it's hell on earth!

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Don't let the cruel fur industry call this dog a raccoon! Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lone Merise Frederiksen

Miss Nina Erlandsen

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Nina Erlandsen

Sincerely,
Miss Nina Erlandsen

Mrs. Ursula Pelka

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: A raccoon dog should be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

Thank you for your time and action.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ursula Pelka

Ms. Penelope Bakatsias

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

THIS IS HORRIFYING. NO ANIMAL SHOULD BE SKINNED ALIVE. ONLY THE HUMANS WHO ALLOW THIS.

Sincerely,
Ms. Penelope Bakatsias

Mrs. Denise DeCasper

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I've never seen anything more detestable - how these dogs are torn apart for fashion. To let it continue is an atrocity. Human beings should know better.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Denise DeCasper

Ms. Linda Richardson

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: "Raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for giving this matter serious and thoughtful consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Linda Richardson

Ms. Joyce Doughty

Oct 29, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your attention to my concerns.

Sincerely,
Ms. Joyce Doughty

Mrs. Viktoria Nealis

Oct 30, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

No animal should be worn

Sincerely,
Mrs. Viktoria Nealis

Ms. Mary Denise Hayes

Oct 30, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please HELP. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you,

Mary Denise Hayes

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Denise Hayes

Ms. Angela Notah

Oct 30, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Call it what it is - use the correct name of "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. While other animal-related industries are attempting to move forward to more humane practices, the fur industry continues to take a step backwards.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. One would hope that a consumer purchasing an item made of fur would at least know about the animal sacrificed which they are about to wear; however, most consumers are unaware and should therefore not be misled by tags and labels.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that; please act in accordance.

Sincerely,
Ms. Angela Notah

Ms. Ann Fennell

Oct 30, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It doesn't matter whether it is a dog or a raccoon, or a mouse; to sell fur that is obtained in such a horrific and barbaric manner is something that NO country - especially the United States - should be doing! I feel sick to think that anyone could do such things to one of God's creatures and that anyone could sell (or import, or buy) fur obtained with such cruelty and suffering!

If labeling this honestly as a dog will cause some people to avoid buying such fur and supporting this abominable trade, then, for God's sake, label it honestly. I am absolutely horrified that you condone such barbarity by allowing "the fur industry" to even sell this, much less import it and deceive people into buying it. What kind of human being would do that???

We shouldn't be importing ANY animal products from Asia - they have a reputation for being sub-human in their treatment of animals and it is unconscionable for the United States to condone it by importation.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Ann Fennell

Mr. Neeman Fay

Oct 31, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please! Whoever is reading this I beg you to make the right choice. After viewing videos of these beautiful creatures being skinned alive, I have become obsessed with bringing them liberation. Please do the right thing. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mr. Neeman Fay

Mr. David Drinkwater

Oct 31, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Consumers should be aware of this distinction - this disclosure should be MANDATORY!

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Quite frankly, the use of animal fur on clothing in general when the animal was sacrificed JUST for the use of the fur is UNACCEPTABLE.

Sincerely,
Mr. David Drinkwater

Ms. debra doll

Oct 31, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.
Debra Doll

Sincerely,
Ms. debra doll

Sara hoffman

Nov 1, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 1, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

Mrs. Karen Galbato

Nov 1, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Karen Galbato

Mrs. Tamara Camen

Nov 2, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please, please save these beautiful animals!! I beg you!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tamara Camen

Ms. Pamela Woolen

Nov 2, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

PLEASE have compassion for ALL animals but especially fur bearing animals which are raised solely to be inhumanely slaughtered, just so cruel people can wear their fur! Totally disgusts me how any government can allow this industry to thrive in our societies today. Be the leader, US, and stop the slaughter of ALL fur bearing animals used in the name of "fashion"!

God bless. HE sure has me!

Sincerely,
Ms. Pamela Woolen

claudia davila

Nov 2, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
claudia davila

Claudia Davila

Nov 2, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Miss Laura Luna

Nov 2, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

It is such a cruel thing to do these poor animals, skinned alive!! how would you like it if they were to skin you alive, not fun at all right?? Then why do these poor animals deserve to be treated and killed for their fur? We have evolved and have cotton which is naturally given to us by mother nature to make clothing for us. The need to torture these animals and have then go through all of the pain of being skinned alive. No one deserves to go through that.. not even animals.

Sincerely,
Miss Laura Luna

Mrs. Dianne Fieri

Nov 2, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

"The greatness of a nation...can be judged by the way its animals are treated." Gandhi

"Until we extend the circle of his compassion to all living things, humans will not find peace." Albert Schweitzer

"The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good people to do nothing." Edmund Burke

Wearing animal is not beautiful, it is a blood bath of suffering and looks gross on humans. The beauty of fur is in the animal - its grace, nature and spirit. Do not encourage the fur trade - PLEASE re-read the statements above-COMING FROM WISE PEOPLE!!!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dianne Fieri

Ms. Patricia Callis

Nov 3, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Consumers have a rights and should not be duped into buying something they would not otherwise because of dishonest labeling. For obvious reasons many do not wish to buy a product which is trimmed with the fur of an animal which has been skinned alive. Why is the fur industry allowed to mislabel? It has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please stop this cruel and dishonest practice by ensuring that racoon dog be called racoon dog on labels. As consumers we have a right to know what we are buying.

Sincerely,
Ms. Patricia Callis

Miss Katie Bonnin

Nov 3, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog fur to be labeled "raccoon dog" fur.

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel products -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon," no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Using inaccurate names that give people false impressions is an unacceptable practice that must be stopped. Consumers deserve to know the truth about where their products come from and what they are made of.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Sincerely,
Miss Katie Bonnin

Mrs. Joanne Rawlings

Nov 3, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The idea that anyone would skin an animal of any kind alive for fur for coats just plain makes me sick. We should ban the use of any fur from these dogs on anything brought into this country. It has been going on too long already.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joanne Rawlings

Ms. Sandra Fish

Nov 3, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Raccoon dog fur HELP

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please make all countries accountable for inhumane actions. Require truth in labels and advertising. Help the racoon dog. They need you

Sincerely,
Ms. Sandra Fish

Ms. Angela Pavlu

Nov 4, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please help keep people informed about where products really come from by trying to keep misleading names off of consumer products.

Sincerely,
Ms. Angela Pavlu

Ms. Rose Goode

Nov 4, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rose Goode

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

Ms. Jane Harris

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jane Harris

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

Claudia Davila

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

sara hoffman

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

Claudia Davila

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia Davila

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Claudia davila

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia davila

Mr. Jerry Parrillo

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. and help stop the cruel abuse of these animals.

Sincerely,
Mr. Jerry Parrillo

Ms. Mary Miceli

Nov 5, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Whether a Raccoon, a Dog, or a Raccoon Dog, these animals have a central nervous system, feel pain, sense anxiety, and bleed red blood as humans do.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Mary Miceli

Claudia Davila

Nov 6, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

sara hoffman

Nov 6, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

sara hoffman

Nov 6, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
sara hoffman

claudia davila

Nov 6, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
claudia davila

Claudia Davila

Nov 6, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Claudia Davila

Deborah Guinnessy

Nov 7, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Deborah Guinnessy

Lara Koch

Nov 7, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Lara Koch

Lara Koch

Nov 7, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Lara Koch

Jacqapitest apitest

Nov 7, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called 'raccoon dog' on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like 'Asiatic raccoon' and 'Finn raccoon' are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels. The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name 'Asiatic raccoon' no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name 'Asiatic raccoon' implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Jacqapitest apitest

Mr. Randall Piazza

Nov 9, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please stop this cruel disgusting treatment of God's animals. We are not to abuse and kill needlessly His animals He put us in charge of.
Randall Piazza

Sincerely,
Mr. Randall Piazza

Ms. Victoria Wirth

Nov 9, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

False advertisement is a criminal act and should be dealt with accordingly. However what is worse is the intentional killing of animals for nothing more than monetary gain and to adorn the bodies of people who have a block of ice where a heart should be. Our native American ancestors killed and wore animal hide and fur to cover thier bodies and keep warm, very different from needlessly slaughtering animals purely for personal gain. We no longer require these senseless, disgusting killings and should not condone them.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Victoria Wirth

Mrs. Kimberly Rechner

Nov 9, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Being SKINNED ALIVE??? Cruel punishment to any animal.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Kimberly Rechner

Tom Warzeka

Nov 9, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product. Now, they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon". The sole purpose of this is to deceive consumers from making the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please do not permit the fur industry to deceive consumers. Force the industry to use the word "dog" in the name. Then, people will know that the fur they would be buying came from an abused animal closely related to their family pet.

Sincerely,
Tom Warzeka

Mrs. Bonnie Heginbotham

Nov 9, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

I saw a film showing heaps and piles of racoon dogs all along a dock. The piles were five feet high and the length of the piles looked to me to be 50 yards long. All the dogs had been beaten in the head and were semi-conscious. Then a man took one and skinned it alive. After it was skinned, it still moved its mouth. Needless to say, I wept.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Please disallow the importation of the fur from these poor creatures made possible by the cruelty of our so-called "Asiatic friends."

Sincerely,
Mrs. Bonnie Heginbotham

Ms. tonia brow

Nov 11, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Anyone who has seen the torture and pain these dogs suffer would NEVER support wearing a fur. This is an animal that belongs in our home being loved and nurtured NOT tortured and skinned alive to be worn as some misguided statement of entitlement. The labelling must be truthful so a consumer can make an informed choice.

Sincerely,
Ms. tonia brow

Ms. Kristine McCullen

Nov 12, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. This is ludicrous

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. Either way they are all animals and should not be killed for fur!

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Kristine McCullen

Ms. Michelle Taylor

Nov 12, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Consumers need this information clearly spelled out in order to make informed decisions on what industries/products they will or will not support. The US should never provide perceived or actual support to the barbaric mistreatment of Raccoon Dogs. Even if you are not anti-fur you still should have accurate information for the products you purchase. My hope is that some minds will be changed, and that can't possibly happen if labels are inaccurate. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Michelle Taylor

Mr. Fernando Costa

Nov 12, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Fernando Costa

Sincerely,
Mr. Fernando Costa

Lilian Carswell

Nov 12, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Why is the FTC proposing that fur from members of the dog family be labeled “Asiatic raccoon”?

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like “Asiatic raccoon” and “Finn raccoon” are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Please do not bow to the pressure of the fur industry to mis-label fur from China. Obviously, the fur industry is trying to disguise the fact that their products are obtained by the horrific means that people have now slowly become aware of. For the FTC to allow the fur industry to obscure the taxonomy of the animals that are the source of this fur is unethical. To do so would be a complete betrayal of the consumer's trust.

Sincerely,
Lilian Carswell

Elizabeth Kelley

Nov 12, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue,
NW Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its products, which are produced in ways that cause undue CRUELTY and SUFFERING to animals. NOW they want to be allowed to sell raccoon DOG under the name "Asiatic raccoon", no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the LIVE skinning and other horrible abuses of these animals that have been well documented. I have been sickened by these videos which are readily available for documentation of the cruel methods. Any human with a heart will agree that regulation and truthful labeling is essential and makes more sense.

Raccoon DOGS are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

I support banning all real animal fur products due to the cruel and inhumane methods used on and against animals. Animals should have rights to life and HUMANE treatment. Other than certain animals, such as bovines, if raised and humanely killed for absolute necessary food and clothing, the act of killing animals for fur or hides should be illegal.

At the very least, all products should be REQUIRED to be truthfully labeled. Consumers have a RIGHT to know exactly what they are buying. If a product used real animal fur, then the exact animal name must be included. Consumers have a right to know and animals have a right to freedom from cruelty and inhumane treatment.

Thank you, as I plead for the strict regulation of the fur industry and required truthful labeling of products!

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Kelley

Benetta Buell-Wilson

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Stop Raccoon Dog mislabeling and imports!

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

U.S. citizens have the right to know what they are importing. Instead of importing the fur of these horribly abused animals, why don't we ban importing fur altogether?

Have you seen the videos of what happens to these poor animals??
STOP ALLOWING FUR IMPORTATION!!!

Sincerely,
Benetta Buell-Wilson

Mrs. Sharon Cooper

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sharon Cooper

Mr. p k

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

STOP THIS HORROR. WE DO NOT NEED TO KEEP WARM AND LOOK PRETTY AT THE COST OF INNOCENT ANIMALS.

Sincerely,
Mr. p k

Ms. Marion Achoulias

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Products made of "raccoon dog" must be labeled as such

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

As consumer and citizen I am outraged how impudently we are being misled and lied to by the fur industry. We have the right to know exactly what we are buying.

After having researched the matter further I realized that the fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation. Cat and dog fur from China is not even labeled at all. The industry knows that what they are selling are inherently cruel products.

I am appalled that now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon".. The motives are evident: this is done so consumers won't be able to empathize with the animal that is being skinned ALIVE.

Let us stick to the facts:

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. The fur industry should not be exempt from using proper definitions.

Sincerely,
Ms. Marion Achoulias

Mrs. Sarah Loewen

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sarah Loewen

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sarah Loewen

Ms. Meghan Clynick

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: raccoon dog fur should be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry is a cruel, unnecessary, and violent industry. All fur imports (and fur from within Canada) should be banned. Do not allow misrepresentation in order to sell this disgusting product - a raccoon dog is a member of the canine family, and is not an Asiatic raccoon - hence fur labels for products in Canada absolutely NEED to be labelled so consumers are aware that they are buying dog fur. It might also make people realize how gross it is to support the industry if they make the connection between dog fur and the fact we keep dogs as pets in North America. Live skinnings and other cruel practices have been widely documented - it is an embarrassment that our country supports this by importing fur.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family. All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that. Please ensure this correct term is the one used on fur labels so consumers are not being tricked. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Meghan Clynick

Ms. S. McIntyre

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

It's no better than using house cat or dog fur. It's repulsive and people have the right to know what they're buying.

Sincerely,
Ms. S. McIntyre

Ms. Tori Dileo

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of cruel misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented. This just shows their greedy, abusive nature & it must not be allowed to happen.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

No animals should suffer for fashion in a manner so horrific that no human could possibly imagine.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely,
Ms. Tori Dileo

Ms. Allison Kimbrough

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry itself is a cruel and inhumane industry. It not only robs animals of what is rightfully theirs, but subjects those animals to horrific means of "harvesting." To allow the raccoon dog's coat to be advertised as "Asiatic raccoon" is a horrendous misrepresentation all in the name of profit. While it is sickening to think anyone will be turning a profit off of the mistreatment, and skinning for animals, many fur-wearers would prefer to have raccoon fur over a dog's fur. To allow the raccoon dog's coat to be misrepresented only perpetuates this malignant behavior that we have come to treat millions of animals with, and encourages the mistreatment and skinning of more and more animals.

Call it "raccoon dog" on labels, and NOT "Asiatic raccoon."

Sincerely,
Ms. Allison Kimbrough

Miss yves sturdevant

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

Sincerely
Yves Sturdevant

Sincerely,
Miss yves sturdevant

Mrs. Jean Vale

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

They are cruelly skinned alive to die slowly and painfully. There is no reason for the FTC to accept the false labeling and encourage animals painful death for vanity.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jean Vale

Ms. Stacie Demchak

Nov 13, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

Why would you be spending the time and effort on this kind of nonsense?
We're facing a fiscal crisis in the United States of America. It's a dog. Last I read, it's not even OK to sell sweaters made from dog fur (not pelts, just natural shedding).

Sincerely,
Ms. Stacie Demchak

Ms. Malinda Boughn

Nov 14, 2012

Federal Trade Commission
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

Subject: Please require raccoon dog to be called "raccoon dog" on fur labels

To Federal Trade Commission,

Regarding Fur Rules Review, Matter No. P074201: Raccoon dogs are among the most mistreated animals for their fur, and consumers deserve to know when fur from raccoon dogs is trimming garments. Inaccurate trade names like "Asiatic raccoon" and "Finn raccoon" are misleading and serve only to disguise the live skinning and other mistreatment of raccoon dogs. Please make sure raccoon dog fur is called raccoon dog fur in advertisements and on labels.

The fur industry has a long history of misrepresentation in order to sell its cruel product -- now they want to be allowed to sell raccoon dog under the name "Asiatic raccoon" no doubt so consumers won't make the connection to the live skinning and other abuses of this animal that have been well documented.

Raccoon dogs are a member of the Canidae (dog) family and are NOT, as the name "Asiatic raccoon" implies, members of the Procyonidae (raccoon) family.

All reputable governmental and scientific sources, including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Smithsonian Institution, call raccoon dogs just that.

THIS IS A TRAVISTY. DON'T ALLOW THIS TO HAPPEN.

Sincerely,
Ms. Malinda Boughn