

Question Card

Comment: SPI Codes are confusing in and of themselves. The confusion is how they are used in the plastics industry, especially today with the pressure to recycle, packages do not want to NOT PUT A CODE ON THEIR PACKAGE! So the code is misused from its original purpose especially since technology has evolved. This is why the SPI has approached the ASTM to take over the codes, and modernize them. Plastic is a general term and not all plastic, even plastics within the same family are not equal

Rich LeVoi - Basell USA Inc.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION