

Greetings,

I have been a part of the Quixtar team for about 3 years now, and I can't say enough words as to how this organization has empowered me to live a much more fulfilled life. My wife & I currently have a business volume of 1000 PV, quickly progressing forward in qualification to 2500 PV. The Quixtar business opportunity has provided for us a lifestyle unlike anything we've ever experienced. Even though I have not yet replaced my current job from it, I know that I honestly have an option to do so through the accurate mentorship that has been displayed throughout my affiliation with this organization. W.Clement Stone mentions in his book "Believe & Achieve" that success is derived from using a sense of "accurate thinking" employing the necessary amount of personal responsibility when making a life-changing decision; this movement is no different when applying to college, taking a new job, or eating at a restaurant, everything in life will involve some risk, however I feel that in my three years experience. I have been made aware that the Quixtar business opportunity is NOT a get rich quick scheme & involves a "significant" amount of work-ethic along with participation in the business model to achieve said results. In sponsoring other potential Ibo's, through my teaching, I look to make it clear that this does require some work, and I take the time required to ensure that this message is clear, and that it continues to uphold the integrity of our organization. Additionally all Ibo's when registering in our team spend between $115-120 dollars, now that is broken down into 2 areas, the first being all legal fees that are associated with the IRS, FTC, and any other officiating department of US Commerce. The second part which represents about 2/3rds of the overall fee. Initiates development of keen product knowledge of that new Ibo's Quixtar business. With this being said. I personally believe that having knowledge of something is important. For example families sending their children off to college for the first time want to have “knowledge” of what their hard earned or borrowed 20-40k per year, is going to award their child in 4 -5 years, and you don't see college ambassadors “guaranteeing” wealth & success upon graduation, or from even merely attending the campus. Another great example is well first let me tell a story about a guy I know that attended the University of Michigan, majoring in math, and science. This man had a level of intellect far superior to his professors, eventually he moved to California to attend the University of California-Berkeley to complete his major. Now from what's on paper, that person sounds like an angel. In reality he was Ted Kaczynski who we know as the “Una- bomber” Now Harvard, University of Michigan nor California-Berkeley have been tarnished.

Overall to apply for a job is to risk not getting it, to apply to a college, or university is taking a risk of not getting accepted, I agree that anything off the well beaten path first requires a choice, which is given by me personally to every potential lbo, that I have met. In understanding that opening a business or participating in a business opportunity, or investing in stocks requires some responsibility on the participant's behalf. If we as a country, that was founded on free-enterprise want make everything less “emotionally abrasive” then every employer should provide to their next new hire a history record of all hires in that position that made, or surpassed what the new hire is expecting to make, over the last 5-10years, litigations from shareholders should come into play ensuring long-term stability in arduous economical climates, 401-k's should be insured, and banks should allow personal loans to invest into stocks.

What I am saying is that to impose these rules just to make a business easy for someone isn't fair to our fathers who fought & died for the freedoms that we as Americans today have. Last I checked it was Life, Liberty, and the “Pursuit” of happiness, a choice that every human has a god-given right to address. I ask from a man whose credibility goes beyond mentioning.

"What is the value of freedom, if you don't use it?"

Thank You

S.J.
