

Business opportunity rule # R511993

Hello,

7-12-2006

I am a single mother of 3 grown children, and I have recently joined a network marketing business. I have always known this was an awesome opportunity to reach financial freedom from the retail jobs I have had in the past. I just recently found the "ONE" that was made to fit all my criteria. I have never had a job where my efforts were duly compensated, as in the networking model. Even as an exemplary employee, I was paid just enough to get by, and never enough to truly get ahead. I had no savings, and rarely went away for vacations. I would not have been able to get my business started, if it had not been for the low start up cost. I only had to come up with 35.00, and for me, at that time in my life, was difficult. I could see myself stuck in the rut of trading my time for money for 20 more years, and then trying in vain to survive on the minimal Social Security I would have. I have gotten that minimal investment back, many times over, and it feels good. I have paid off my credit cards, and my vehicle is paid for. I have not replaced my income as of yet, but I do see myself getting closer to that goal on a weekly basis. I have gained confidence in myself, because I have seen immediate results for my efforts. I feel better about myself, because I am not living in constant debt and fear of answering the phone, because it might be a collection agency. I see myself making my own "American dream" To live debt free, not rely on the government, or my children in my senior years, and to finally have a reliable vehicle, and my own house. This should not be out of reach, but to people like me, single income families, it is a seemingly impossible dream when working for someone else. This is my chance to show what I am truly worth, and to help others reach their potential.

Upon reaching my goals, I will be helping the economy to grow, and will be able to dedicate a portion of my earnings to charities. Something I have dreamed about for years... as soon as I get ahead. I will pay back the good deeds people did to help me when I needed it. It was always just beyond my reach. I could dedicate time, but many charities need money more than time, especially with all the governmental cut back lately. I want to do my part.

I know there are people out there who are corrupt, and will take advantage of any situation, to their own benefit, and hurt innocent people without a care in the world. This is true of any and ALL businesses. It is pointless to add rules to a perfectly workable business plan, to keep out a few corrupt people. They will find a way around the rules anyway. Then those of us who truly see the potential opportunity, who are honest and upstanding, will be penalized for trying to get ahead in life. If you add enough rules and stipulations, the ONLY people who will be in this business WILL be the corrupt ones, because they will lie, and cheat no matter how much you try to keep them out.

I understand that you want to stop the corrupt people and businesses from taking advantage of the innocent, and I thank you for that. A lot of people don't have the insight to look into potential rip offs, and are looking for the get rich today program. This is how the corrupt ones catch their victims, usually innocent, or naive. We need to educate the general public on the benefit of the better business bureau to keep this from continuing. Educating the public will allow legitimate business owners to continue to support the economy, without tons of paperwork for rules and regulations. These processes would hinder the growth of their business, due to the necessity of finding people with more time and money than the average Joe, or Jane. That is who I look for. This can be a college grad, or a High School drop out. Everyone has a dream.

Of the hundreds of thousands of people in network marketing, what is the percentage of corrupt businesses? 1%, maybe 2%? Imagine if the hundreds of thousands of people making decent money, encouraging the economy to grow, suddenly had that revenue disappear, because it's too hard to make it work. Because there are too many rules, it will take up too much time, and no one will benefit. The "American Dream" will disappear.

I don't want to wait 7 days to get my groceries, or do my banking. My check is good immediately upon writing it. I can buy anything on line with a credit card, and it is processed immediately. I would be very leery of a business that wanted me to wait 7 days before I received my goods, or services. It is not practical to ask such a thing. This would also make people leery of joining my business.

I have not had formal secretary training, and am not an organized person. I would have to hire someone to keep track of who is buying from whom, and where they live, and map it out, and that would not be possible financially. I also think this is a privacy issue. I would not want my name and address out there for one of those "corrupt" businesses to find. Who knows what info could be passed around with this policy in place. This policy would make it too easy for anyone wanting to steal names to take advantage of the situation. It would be scarier than buying on a secure site on the internet. I would be very reluctant to get into a business that was asking me to do this. It makes it sound like a scam.

Thank you so much for listening to my opinions. I know you will see how important it is to keep the policies like they are, and find another way to target the people who are attempting to wreck the chance to truly reach the potential of the network marketing business.

Sincerely,
Karel Dillon
Xango Distributor