For these violations, the FTC seeks relief, including a permanent injunction, monetary relief, and other relief, pursuant to Sections 13(b) and 19 of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 53(b), 57b, and pursuant to Section 522(a) of the GLB Act, 15 U.S.C. § 6822(a).

2. The Plaintiff States allege that Defendant's false or misleading claims discussed below constitute unlawful, unfair and/or deceptive acts and practices that are prohibited by the below enumerated state consumer protection laws and/or weights and measures laws.

SUMMARY OF THE CASE

3. Dollar General Corporation ("Dollar General" or "Defendant") positions itself as "America's neighborhood general store," operating more than 20,000 stores nationwide and promising customers "convenience, value and service—Every day!" Dollar General markets itself as an accessible alternative to large discount and big-box retailers, offering low-priced essentials that millions of Americans rely on for everyday needs.

4. Dollar General's business, as its CEO describes it, is "uniquely positioned to serve underserved customers in rural communities." To that end, its stores and locations are particularly intertwined with those communities. For example, approximately 80% of Dollar General stores are located in towns of 20,000 or fewer people. Dollar General stores are also, for broad swaths of the country, conveniently located, with roughly 75% of the United States population living within five miles of a Dollar General store.

5. Dollar General recognizes its customers "rely on [Dollar General] to stretch their dollars." Its "core customers" are predominantly low- and fixed-income households or, as Dollar General's CEO has described them, those who "run[] out of money before the month runs out," rely on $1 items to "balance [their] budget[s]," or "remained under financial pressure in 2025." Households earning $35,000 or less represent 60% of the company's total revenue. Dollar General sells around 2,000 items for $1 or less—prices that are critical to its core customers who depend on Dollar General's pricing accuracy for basic financial stability.

6. But Dollar General has for years engaged in deceptive conduct that harms the very consumers it claims to serve. Although Dollar General promises convenience, low prices, and value, the company has routinely charged customers more at the register than the prices displayed on shelves, price tags, and advertisements. This pattern of inaccurate pricing has persisted for years and affects millions of purchases across the country.

7. The scope of Dollar General's pricing misconduct is also staggering. From January 1, 2019, through March 31, 2026, [redacted]. During this period, Dollar General [redacted], demonstrating pervasive and systemic pricing inaccuracies, rather than isolated or accidental errors.

8. Dollar General's internal audits confirm what government inspections have repeatedly found. Dollar General's own data shows that pricing discrepancies are known, recurring, and observed across the company's footprint.

9. Dollar General knows that its persistent practice of charging prices higher than those it advertises or represents harms consumers, as reflected by numerous complaints it has received. From January 1, 2023, through March 31, 2026, Dollar General received at least 29,265 complaints categorized as "Did Not Honor Marked Price," with complaints submitted in all 48 states in which it operates. These complaints demonstrate widespread consumer harm and confirm that customers nationwide have been charged more than the advertised price.

10. In fact, Dollar General's internal communications illustrate the problem best: in a [redacted], Dollar General acknowledged that [redacted] (emphasis added).

11. State regulators have likewise identified repeated violations. Between 2019 and 2026, Dollar General entered into nine settlements with eight state Attorneys General and consumer protection agencies concerning inaccurate pricing, paying more than $13 million in resulting penalties.

12. Despite thousands of failed inspections, tens of thousands of consumer complaints, and multiple enforcement actions, Dollar General has failed to implement adequate safeguards to prevent continued overcharging. The company claims it "own[s] our actions and decisions and learn[s] from our mistakes," but its pricing systems still routinely allow advertised prices to differ from prices charged at the register. Dollar General continues to advertise one price while charging a higher price at checkout.

13. As a direct result of Dollar General's unlawful conduct, consumers nationwide have paid significantly more than they expected for basic household goods and necessities, enriching Dollar General at the expense of the low-income and rural households it markets itself as serving. The consequences of these overcharges fall most heavily on shoppers living on razor-thin margins—families who carefully budget every dollar and rely on accurate, transparent pricing simply to meet their day-to-day needs. Rather than ensuring its prices at checkout are accurate, for years Dollar General avoided implementing safeguards to prevent continued overcharging, effectively shifting the burden of its own operational shortcomings onto the very communities and consumers who can least afford it. In doing so, Dollar General has taken advantage of vulnerable shoppers and has extracted millions of dollars in unlawful overcharges.

DEFENDANT

47. Defendant Dollar General Corporation, also doing business as Dollar General, is a Tennessee corporation with its principal place of business at 100 Mission Ridge, Goodlettsville, Tennessee 37072. Dollar General transacts or has transacted business in this District and throughout the United States. At all times relevant to this Complaint, acting alone or in concert with others, Dollar General has advertised, marketed, distributed, or sold general merchandise to consumers throughout the United States.

COMMERCE

48. At all times relevant to this Complaint, Defendant has maintained a substantial course of trade in or affecting commerce, as "commerce" is defined in Section 4 of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 44.

DEFENDANT'S BUSINESS ACTIVITIES

Overview of Company and Stores

49. Dollar General is a publicly traded company with over 20,000 stores across 48 states. Figure 1 depicts the number of Dollar General stores in these 48 states, as of the time

Defendant issued its 2025 Annual Report & 2026 Proxy Statement (on or about April 7, 2026).

50. Dollar General sells a wide variety of consumer goods at low prices (typically $10 or less), including food such as milk and eggs, health and wellness products, cleaning and laundry supplies, self-care and beauty items, and seasonal décor.

51. Consumable products are the company's largest product category, and in 2025 represented 82.0% of the company's net sales. In 2025, seasonal products comprised 10.1% of the company's net sales; home products comprised 5.2%; and apparel comprised 2.7%.

52. When making purchases at Dollar General stores, consumers use, among other payment methods, cash, debit cards, credit cards, manufacturer coupons, SNAP EBT (a government program allowing participants to pay for food, colloquially known as food stamps), checks, and gift cards.

53. From 2023 through 2025, Dollar General reported making $122 billion in net sales; specifically, the company reported $38.7 billion, $40.6 billion, and $42.7 billion in net sales in 2023, 2024, and 2025, respectively.

54. Dollar General's business model emphasizes "low-cost, no frills building[s] with limited capital requirements" and "a low operating cost approach" in these stores.

55. Stores are frequently too thinly staffed to meet the demands imposed by Dollar General's corporate offices, meaning they lack time, for example, to print new pricing labels and affix them to shelves. Internal communications demonstrate that employees at the top level of the company are aware of stores' low staffing. For example, in a news article sent to the CEO of the company and others, a former assistant manager in Illinois stated that she spent many of her shifts as the only person working in her store: "You're lucky if you get to work two to four hours of your eight-to 13-hour shift with another human being."

Dollar General's False Pricing Advertising

56. Dollar General advertises its products' prices, among other means, (1) through its weekly circulars; (2) in-store, including through price placards on shelves; and (3) through owned channels such as its app and its website.

Circulars

57. Every week, each Dollar General store receives print copies of the weekly circular, and roughly half of Dollar General stores place print versions of the weekly circular in newspapers or mail them directly to consumers. The company makes a digital version of the circular available on its website and mobile application.

58. The circulars depict products that are available for sale to consumers at specified prices. An example page from a circular posted on Dollar General's website in January 2026 is depicted below in Figure 2.

59. However, on numerous occasions, Dollar General has charged more at the register than prices listed in its circulars.

60. Consumers frequently report, both to Dollar General and to law enforcement, that Dollar General charged more than the prices listed in circulars. For example:

A. In October 2025, a Pennsylvania consumer complained that Dollar General's "weekly flyer . . . has advertised five for $5 with 2 l[iter] sodas. When I got up to the register[,] they were charging me $2.95 a[]piece. I explained about the sale and their statement was this is what their prices are. This has happened numerous times on many different occasions. I am tired of being ripped off. Dollar [G]eneral is within 3 miles of my home with the next available store being about 12 mi[les] away. I'm also tired of having to take time out of my evening to go over my receipts and then spending the gas money to go over and get my money back." This consumer reported paying with a credit card.

B. In January 2026, a Missouri consumer complained he was "charged full price, despite [a] promotion where consumer is supposed to receive a free two liter bottle of Pepsi with purchase of a DiGiorno pizza." This consumer reported paying with a debit card.

C. In December 2024, Dollar General recorded a Virginia consumer complaining that the company's flyer was "confusing because . . . the price on the fliers . . . is not ringing of[f] on the register." The consumer reported she purchased crackers that were supposed to be three for $6 and a Lego toy that was supposed to be 50% off, but she was charged more than the advertised prices.

D. In February 2026, Dollar General recorded a Wisconsin consumer complaining "that the weekly flyer advertised a 'Buy 3, Get 1 Free' deal on Swanson beef or chicken broth" and that he "purchased 8 items total, four beef and four chickens[,] but was charged for all of them, including the two that should have been free."

E. In December 2025, Dollar General recorded a Wisconsin consumer complaining that "Folgers Coffee was advertised at a promotional price of 2 for $11 in the Dollar General Weekly Ads flyer" and that she "expected to pay $11 for two items but was surprised when she was charged $11.25 each." The consumer noted that the cashier was "confused that the register did not reflect the promotion," but the store manager "insisted that the promotion did not apply to decaf." The consumer also reported that "the flyer did not specify size or variant restrictions," but Dollar General nonetheless "charged the higher amount." As the consumer "did not want to argue further,[] she paid and left the store."

F. In July 2025, Dollar General recorded an Ohio consumer complaining that "she received a flyer from the store" advertising that "bread was on sale for $1.50, but she was charged $1.95." The consumer advised that the employee "who rung her up" "advised [her] to call corporate."

G. In December 2025, Dollar General recorded a Louisiana consumer complaining that "she went to make a purchase based on the prices shown in the sales paper she received from the flyer," but was confused and frustrated because "the employee told her that he could not honor the prices listed in the sales paper because the register does not reflect those prices."

H. In October 2024, Dollar General recorded a New Jersey consumer complaining that flyers advertising a buy-two-get-one-free deal were not honored, and that the consumer was charged more than the promotional amount for these bags of chips.

I. In December 2024, Dollar General recorded a Texas consumer complaining that the company "did not want to give her the price of the coupons for the week that appears in the newspaper." According to the consumer, the promotion offered "[three] six packs of Coca Cola for $11.00," but Dollar General charged her $18.00 and "this [was] not the first time this has happened to her."

J. In May 2025, Dollar General recorded a Wisconsin consumer complaining that, with respect to the purchase of soda, "the newspaper [and the] stickers in the store said that he can have 3 12 p[ac]ks for $11 with a digital coupon," but he "was charged $13 plus taxes."

K. In March 2024, a Minnesota consumer made the following complaint about a Dollar General store in Hayfield, Minnesota: "from day one the prices have not matched what the sale ads are or the sale tags on the shelf. They are overcharging on merchandise. This does not happen once in a while it has been every single time I walk into that store from 2017 to 2024."

In-Store Prices

61. Dollar General also advertises its products' prices in stores. In its stores, Dollar General advertises products as available for sale to consumers at specified prices, whether through promotional signage on windows or the store exterior, prices on the shelves, prices on the products themselves, and through interior signage relating to special offers (such as a "sale," "buy-one-get-one-free" deal, or "clearance" price). 62. However, on numerous occasions, Dollar General has charged more than the price listed on the shelf, the product, or in the in-store sales offer.

63. For example, between January 16, 2026, and April 1, 2026, FTC investigators made undercover purchases at Dollar General stores in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Missouri, and

Maryland. The FTC investigators used credit cards to make all purchases at these stores. Every single undercover purchase resulted in Dollar General charging more at the register than the price advertised for multiple products:

A. During a January 16, 2026 undercover purchase at a Dollar General store in Cleveland, Ohio, 13 out of 58 items rang up with a price different than the price listed on a product label or shelf (an error rate of 22.4%). Of the 13 price inaccuracies, 5 were undercharges and 8 were overcharges, resulting in a net overcharge of $3.25.

B. During a February 27, 2026 undercover purchase at a Dollar General store in Springfield, Missouri, 6 out of 59 items rang up with a price different than the price listed on a product label or shelf (an error rate of 10.2%). Of the 6 price inaccuracies, there were 2 undercharges and 4 overcharges, resulting in a net overcharge of $4.07.

C. During a March 11, 2026 undercover purchase at a Dollar General store in Sharpsburg, Pennsylvania, 6 out of 60 items rang up with a price different than the price listed on a product label or shelf (an error rate of 10%). Of the 6 price inaccuracies, there were 2 undercharges and 4 overcharges, resulting in a net overcharge of $2.60.

D. During an April 1, 2026 undercover purchase at a Dollar General store in Baltimore, Maryland, 5 out of 59 items rang up with a price different than the price listed on a product label or shelf (an error rate of 8.5%). Of the 5 price inaccuracies, there were no undercharges and 5 overcharges, resulting in a net overcharge of $3.65.

64. Between January 1, 2023, and March 31, 2026, Dollar General received 29,265 complaints categorized as "Did Not Honor Marked Price." Dollar General agents typically use this category "[f]or customer communications concerning an alleged discrepancy between an item's shelf and register prices."

65. The FTC, the Plaintiff States, and Dollar General also receive complaints about these types of false pricing practices at Dollar General. Below are examples of typical complaints:

A. In August 2025, a Massachusetts consumer complained that "[t]rail mix was advertised with a yellow and red sign stating a price of $2.75, but when [he] attempted to purchase it, the cashier rang it up for $5." The consumer elaborated that when he returned to the store the next week, "the signs with the incorrect price were still displayed."

B. In July 2026, a Kentucky consumer complained that "[e]very item (5 items one day and one the next) bought at the Dollar General Store in Elkton[,] Kentucky had a shelf price that was lower than the cash register price." This consumer reported paying with a debit card.

C. In August 2023, an Ohio consumer complained that Dollar General listed the shelf price of milk as $3.95 but charged him $4.25 at the register.

D. In March 2026, a South Carolina consumer complained that "the [D]ollar [G]eneral beside my house" has the "price advertised on the shelves for one thing" and "when you get to the register you're charged MORE _ it's EVERY time_ I[']M SICK OF IT FRANKLY! The problem is the one on Williamston [Road] in Anderson[,] SC says they're 'not allowed to change it or fix the price correctly' as told to them BY THEIR BOSSES!"

E. In June 2026, an Alabama consumer complained that she "purchased multiple items from Dollar General in which the price on the receipt scanned higher than the shelf price. For example, the price of Twinkies had a shelf price of $2.50, but the receipt price was $3.50. This happened with other items such as paper towels, toilet paper, and bleach."

F. In February 2025, an Ohio consumer complained that he "grabbed a carton of eggs that were listed at $5.10 on the shelf, which rang up for $6.35 at the register," and that the cashier did not address the price discrepancy. The consumer reported paying for the item using a debit card.

G. In January 2026, a Georgia consumer complained that she was "charged $6 for an item that was originally priced at $8, despite a sign stating that all Christmas items were 70% off." The consumer elaborated that "the manager refused to adjust the price, citing corporate policy" and noted that this was "not the first time [she] experienced this issue with Dollar General." The consumer reported paying for the item using a debit card.

H. In December 2025, a Pennsylvania consumer complained that on "2 different days I have been not charged the correct price as advertised by the register[']s computer[.] I have been overcharged[,] not getting the correct advertised price." The consumer reported paying for the items using a debit card.

I. In November 2025, a Wisconsin consumer complained that, on November 6, 2025, a "[p]roduct was advertised as 3 for $12," but "[r]ang up as 3 for $15." He elaborated, "I told the employee it was labeled as 3 for $12. I walked her over to the sign. She said the sign should have been removed as the sale ended on 11/1/25. I asked if they would honor the price from the sign, she said she could not." This consumer reported paying with a credit card.

J. In January 2026, a Texas consumer complained that a Dollar General store "is overcharging for items marked at a specific price" and noted that "when you purchase th[ey] jack up the price [so that] it doesn't match advertised prices on shelf[.]" He continued, "[W]hen I told them it's illegal[,] they admitted it and said I cannot correct it I have to overcharge you or I will get in trouble!!!!" He concluded, "Illegal scam been going for y[ea]rs[.] [T]hey have taken hundreds of dollars from me in the last [seven] y[ea]rs I've shopped there. I told them over and over but they know it's illegal and will not stop!"

K. In November 2025, a Florida consumer complained about being charged $2.50 for a bottle of Johnson & Johnson baby shampoo when the price on the shelf was $2.00. When this consumer raised the issue with the store employee, the employee gave the consumer the option of paying the higher price or not purchasing the baby shampoo.

L. In August 2024 a Michigan consumer complained, "The price listed on the tag for the eggs was $3.25, so I picked up 2 dozen. When I was at the register checking out with Alicia the eggs rang up a [sic] $4.50. When I told her she said the price must [have] went up and that the company never let the store know when prices go up. She refused to change the price. When I pointed out that you have to charge what is displayed. Her comment was that yesterday was her last day and she didn't care. I'm sure the same incorrect pricing is throughout the store. I know candy bars are listed at one price and changing [sic] something else. Whenever you are in the shop you might see someone restocking but never changing prices . . . ."

M. In November 2024, Dollar General recorded a California consumer complain that "she visited a Dollar General store and saw a sign advertising 50% off clearance prices but did not receive the discount when checking out. When she asked about the promotion, the employee said it was no longer valid but had not removed the sign." The consumer also reported that she observed another customer in line receive this promotion. When the consumer questioned the cashier, the cashier answered, "because she just bought one item, and you have several cat foods in your cart."

Dollar General Digital Advertisements

66. Third, Dollar General advertises products through digital channels it owns. On its digital channels (including its website and mobile application), Dollar General advertises products as available for sale to consumers at specified prices. See, e.g., Figure 9.

67. However, on numerous occasions, Dollar General charges more at the register than prices listed on its digital channels.

68. Consumers frequently report, to Dollar General and law enforcement, that Dollar General charges more at the register than prices listed on its application or website, or deals offered there. For example:

A. In December 2025, a New York consumer complained that the "[c]ompany advertised a price for Roblox cards online and they could not honor that price in any of the retail stores on Long Island."

B. In November 2024, a Mississippi consumer complained that he "recently visited a [D]ollar [G]eneral store and upon using the app I [saw] advertised BOGO [buy-one-get-one] free on motor oil at a price of $6.95. I bought 4 and after I checked out[,] I noticed they rang up $7.25 and charged for all 4 of them." This consumer reported paying with a debit card.

C. In August 2025, a Georgia consumer reported being offered a coupon for "[$]5 off" a purchase of $25 in the app, which was not honored at the register.

D. In July 2024, Dollar General recorded a Florida consumer complaining that the company's app advertised an 18-pack of Busch beer for $11.87, but Dollar General charged her $15.55.

E. In February 2026, Dollar General recorded a Mississippi consumer complaining that Pedigree dog food was listed as $24.95 on the company's website, but Dollar General charged her $29 at the store.

F. In April 2024, Dollar General recorded an Illinois consumer's complaint that "the store manager and employees . . . didn't honor the website pricing." The consumer reported trying "to buy the Dr. Pepper that [was] shown on the website for 3 for $9," but when he tried "to pay [at] the register, it rings up for $10.78." Dollar General recorded the consumer stating that "[t]he Manager said that 'Whatever the register[] rings up[,] that will be the price[,] and we can't give you [a] discount.'"

G. In July 2024, Dollar General recorded a Wisconsin consumer complaining that he was charged $4.95 per bag of chips at the register despite seeing the Dollar General website offer these chips for $1.95 per bag.

H. In November 2024, Dollar General recorded an Illinois consumer complaining that Scrubbing Bubbles was "$3.50 on the website but she got charged $4.25."

I. In December 2024, Dollar General recorded a Connecticut consumer complaining that she went to a Dollar General store to purchase a Christmas cup based on a buy-one-get-half-price promotion on the Dollar General app, but "the store did not honor it because the item has a different price when they rang up from the cash register."

J. In March 2024, Dollar General recorded an Ohio consumer's complaint that "he saw the price on the website and app, at $6.50 [for] the coffee mate creamer. But when he went to the store, and bought the items, he was charged full price. He only noticed it when he got home. And he doesn't want to go back to the store since he'll be wasting gas money."

K. In September 2023, a Michigan consumer complained that "I clipped my coupons and checked out. The ad clearly states tide pods 16-21 count for 4.00 after the 1.50 coupon which I had clipped. The manager proceeded to tell me it's only for the exact scent of tide with febreeze. Only the scent pictured in the ad was the coupon good for even though it says 16-21 count.…I had a coupon for 2.00 off coke Pepsi mix and match 3 for 15 then 2.00 off. The 3 for 15.00 came up right but the 2.00 did not come off. She [the manager] said the ad shows Pepsi, Mountain Dew and the coke in the photo and anything else is excluded…. But Diet Coke was not pictured and it was only what was pictured. … I think it's time the attorney generals[sic] office launches a full investigation to protect us especially since we already pay so much for necessities. Every little bit of money is a lot in these times… Please take a look at the dollar general app coupons along with this weeks [sic] ad to see the coupons I am talking about."

L. In June 2025, Dollar General recorded a California consumer complaining that,

"after reviewing the store's online advertisements, she selected items based on the promotional deals: 6 packs of Pepsi (advertised as 3 for $11), 3 packs of Dr. Pepper (3 for $12), and Lays chips (Buy 2, Get 2 Free, regular price $3.95 each). Her subtotal showed $66.80 for 13 items. With the advertised discounts and a $5 coupon applied, she expected her total to be approximately $37.61." However, Dollar General charged $50.72, which was higher than the consumer expected. She also reported "the subtotal she had on the app reflected a $31.90 discount and $2.16 in estimated tax, but the final amount still did not align with her calculations."

M. In April 2025, a Florida consumer complained that he had "consistently, over the past year, found Dollar General lists items as being one price on their shelves or in online ads, but the register charges a higher amount." This consumer visited over 15 stores in his area. He reported that Dollar General employees informed him that they were not allowed to override the prices charged at the point of sale.

69. After seeing the false prices described in Paragraphs 56-68 above, consumers go to the checkout counter, where Dollar General attempts to, and frequently does, obtain or cause to be disclosed to a person consumers' payment information, namely information from their credit and debit cards and checks that contain the consumers' bank account information, through means including self-checkout machines, transactions in which consumers accomplish payment without interacting with a cashier or self-checkout machine, and attempted credit and debit card transactions that fail for a reason other than a card decline, such as a point-of-sale equipment malfunction or physical problem with the card.

70. At the checkout counter, consumers sometimes notice the higher price being charged at the register and ask for the lower price to be applied. However, in many instances, despite policies requiring them to honor the lowest price and at least two state settlements requiring the same, see infra Paragraph 93, Dollar General employees do not correct the issue.

71. In many instances, consumers are unable to identify pricing errors prior to or during the checkout process. When consumers check out, prices flash quickly on the screen and are difficult to track in the moment. In some Dollar General stores, the screen shown to consumers at checkout does not clearly display the price charged for each item; for example, during an FTC undercover buy, the screen keeping a running list of items and associated prices faced only the store employee, and the only display visible to the FTC's investigator during the checkout process was a small screen showing an abbreviated item description and price.

72. Some consumers do not discover pricing issues until after they have completed their purchase or after they return home, and some may never discover them at all. For example:

A. In June 2025, Dollar General recorded a complaint from a Nebraska consumer stating: "It is ridiculous that I am wasting my time and energy because your stores can't honor the price they say[.] The first time you have to wait till you get home and check over your receipt and go back and fix it[,] it seems like it's a computer wide in Omaha problem[.] I wonder how many people are getting charges and not realizing it. Because that is two different stores in a week it's happened at."

B. In the same month, Dollar General recorded a complaint that a Michigan consumer purchased items advertised as a buy-one-get-one deal, but "[a]fter paying and leaving the store, she reviewed her receipt at home and realized she had been charged full price for each item."

C. In June 2024, Dollar General recorded a complaint that an Alabama customer "said that there is a promotional discount that if you buy 3 of this Dr. [P]epper diet 6 packs you can get it for only $8 total. She said that it is all over in the store and on the DG APP[,] and the promo is not applied on her purchase. She said that she just noticed it once she got home[.]"

D. In March 2024, Dollar General recorded a complaint that a Wisconsin consumer sought assistance after purchasing items advertised as buy-one-get-one-50% off, but "he paid for the whole price on the second bottle and he did not realize[] it until he got home."

E. In July 2026, a Florida consumer complained that she paid a higher price for an item than what had been listed on the shelf. She was informed that the store would fix the price tag on the shelf but could not adjust or refund the price for her prior transaction. She contacted Defendant's corporate office and did not receive a response. The consumer concluded: "Imagine how many unsuspecting customers have been deceived with price on item versus register price."

Dollar General's Failure to Correct Its False Pricing Practices

73. Dollar General is well aware it routinely charges consumers more at the register than the price advertised, marked on the product, or printed on the shelf, but has failed to correct the issue. In addition to the consumer complaints it receives, Dollar General routinely fails pricing inspections across the United States; has been the subject of many lawsuits, settlements, and press concerning the practices; and produces weekly and quarterly reports showing that many stores do not update pricing labels on time or at all. Despite repeated red flags, Dollar General has failed to correct the issue and continues to make false pricing statements.

Dollar General routinely fails pricing inspections across the United States

74. It is unlawful in all 50 states to advertise an inaccurate price. Consequently, numerous state and local government agencies conduct inspections to ensure pricing accuracy within retail establishments—inspections Dollar General frequently fails.

75. While states may apply different standards to conduct these inspections, most jurisdictions (thirty-three states) follow the Examination Procedure for Price Verification published by the National Institute of Standards and Technology ("NIST"), or a past version of it. This procedure sets a 2% threshold—meaning that a failed pricing inspection occurs where more than 2% of items inspected have inaccurate price labels—and involves a randomized, systematic sampling of dozens of products from within a store.

76. State and local regulatory inspections following these procedures, or similar state-created versions, have revealed widespread pricing inaccuracies at Dollar General stores nationwide. For example:

77. Kansas: Between January 1, 2023, and March 2, 2026, Dollar General failed over 39% of pricing inspections in Kansas. One store failed 44 pricing inspections and two others failed more than 30 pricing inspections each.

78. Louisiana: Between January 1, 2023, and April 15, 2026, Dollar General stores in Louisiana failed 144 pricing audits and incurred fines totaling $176,850.

79. New Mexico: Between January 5, 2026, and April 14, 2026, New Mexico conducted 73 pricing inspections of Dollar General stores, with 53% of inspections resulting in failures. A Dollar General store in Clovis, New Mexico, failed three consecutive inspections.

80. Iowa: Iowa conducted eight inspections at seven stores between January 23, 2023, and June 27, 2024. Dollar General failed each inspection, with its stores overcharging for 18% of items tested. In one inspection that took place on January 18, 2024, 13 out of 25 items had pricing errors, resulting in a $19.70 overcharge.

81. Arkansas: Arkansas conducted 392 inspections of Dollar General stores between January 4, 2023, and April 15, 2026. These stores failed at least 20.1% of inspections during that time. On October 25, 2025, in an inspection of a Strong, Arkansas, Dollar General store, 11 of 50 products tested (22%) were priced incorrectly on shelves, with eight of the incorrect prices resulting in overcharges. The overcharges totaled $4.85.

82. Kentucky: Kentucky conducted 242 inspections of Dollar General stores in 2023. These stores failed 23.97% of these pricing inspections. On April 6, 2023, in an inspection of a Glasgow, Kentucky, Dollar General store, 20 of 50 products tested (40%) were priced incorrectly, and all of the incorrect prices were overcharges, totaling $15.70.

83. Ohio: From January 1, 2026, through March 22, 2026, Dollar General stores in Lake County, Ohio, have failed 50% of pricing audits. Nearly half of the inspections were re-inspections after a prior failure, yet Dollar General stores still failed more than 36% of the re-inspections. More than 75% of the pricing inaccuracies were overcharges.

84. Between January 1, 2023, and March 2, 2026, Dollar General failed more than 45% of pricing inspections in Columbus, Ohio. Virtually three in four of the pricing inaccuracies were overcharges.

85. Utah: Between January 10, 2023, and April 15, 2026, Dollar General failed more than 45% of pricing inspections in Utah. One Dollar General store in Nephi, Utah, failed 15 of 19 inspections, including ten in a row from May 21, 2025, through April 8, 2026. 63.9% of the pricing inaccuracies were overcharges.

86. Missouri: In a statewide investigation conducted by the Missouri Department of Agriculture and Missouri Attorney General's Office, Dollar General failed 92 of its 147 inspections in an eighteen-month period ending in 2023.

87. Wisconsin: In Wisconsin in 2023, 662 of the 7,344 products scanned by Wisconsin price verification inspectors resulted in overcharges (9%), with the average overcharge being 17% higher cost than the stated price.

88. Tennessee: Between January 8, 2026, and March 30, 2026, Dollar General failed more than 10% of pricing inspections in Tennessee, an increase from a 5% failure rate in 2025.

89. North Carolina: In 99 inspections of 54 North Carolina Dollar General stores between June 2023 and November 3, 2026, price inspectors identified no fewer than 1,168 instances of pricing inaccuracies.

90. Dollar General's own audit records show that [redacted]. From January 1, 2019, through March 31, 2026, Dollar General [redacted]. Indeed, where Dollar General has records of an audit, the company [redacted].

91. [redacted].

Dollar General has been the subject of numerous lawsuits, settlements, and press concerning these false pricing practices

92. Since 2019, Dollar General has settled nine state actions with eight different state Attorney General Offices and consumer protection agencies regarding its pricing inaccuracies.

93. Payments from these settlements regarding pricing inaccuracies exceed $13 million, and Dollar General agreed to injunctive relief in many of these matters. Specifically:

A. In 2019, Dollar General reached a $10,586 settlement with Wisconsin.

B. In 2019, Dollar General reached a $1.75 million settlement with Vermont.

C. In 2023, Dollar General reached an $850,000 settlement with Wisconsin.

D. In 2023, Dollar General reached a $1.2 million settlement with New Jersey.

E. In 2023, Dollar General reached a $1 million settlement with Ohio.

F. In 2025, Dollar General reached a $400,000 settlement with Colorado.

G. In 2025, Dollar General reached a $1.55 million settlement with Pennsylvania.

H. In 2026, Dollar General reached a $1.875 million settlement with New York.

I. In 2026, Dollar General reached a $5.3 million settlement with Missouri.

J. The Colorado and Pennsylvania settlements require Dollar General to post signs in its stores informing consumers it will honor the lowest price in the event of any discrepancy.

94. Additionally, since 2022, Dollar General has been the subject of eight class-action lawsuits pertaining to pricing accuracy problems.

95. Further, on December 3, 2025, The Guardian published an article titled, "How the Dollar-Store Industry Overcharges Cash-Strapped Customers While Promising Low Prices."

96. This article was the subject of significant internal deliberation and discussions within Dollar General.

97. In one example, in a December 2025 email in response to publication of the Guardian article, Dollar General's CEO remarked, [redacted] Accurate pricing, the CEO added, [redacted]"

Dollar General internally reports on its failures to update pricing labels

98. Dollar General typically changes prices in its stores on a weekly basis. At Dollar General, in-store employees responsible for implementing price changes are informed of price changes when they receive updated price labels and/or shelf signage, as well as communications and directions from corporate concerning pricing activities. The company sends messages to store teams directing them to take the following actions on the following days each week:

99. The weekly memos Dollar General sends to its stores instruct its staff to remove out-of-date shelf price labels. For example, Dollar General's procedures for removing shelf price labels and promotional signage involve sending stores new labels or signage and providing instruction for stores to remove or cover previously placed labels or signage in connection with the posting of new materials.

100. Relatedly, Dollar General retail stores are supposed to schedule a five-hour "Compliance Tuesday" shift each week. During this shift, Dollar General policies dictate that store employees replace outdated price labels in light of weekly core price changes taking effect. In addition, as described above, Dollar General provides instructions to store employees to remove expiring in-store promotional signs on Saturday evenings in connection with their placement of signs advertising the next week's promotions.

101. For core price changes, employees at Dollar General's retail stores receive and print peel-and-stick labels (also called tags) on perforated sheets, which are organized according to the layout of the stores. During Compliance Tuesday shifts, employees are supposed to walk the store, affixing new labels (or tags) to the shelves containing the relevant items.

102. [redacted]

At that point, consumers will be charged the updated price at the register regardless of whether shelf prices have yet been updated.

103. Core price changes are generally increases rather than decreases, meaning that when a price is changed in the register system but has not yet been updated on the shelf, it usually results in an overcharge. For example, in a 2023 Dollar General [redacted]

104. Dollar General's on-paper policies to update pricing achieve little in practice. Since at least January 5, 2023, employees at Dollar General's corporate headquarters have [redacted].

105. But these statistics reflect only a best-case scenario for Dollar General because they do not track whether the printed labels are actually affixed to shelves. In the above-referenced Guardian article, which was sent to Dollar General's CEO and others, a Dollar General employee spotlighted the complaint of a former lead sales associate in Louisiana who "shared that she 'threw away [new price] tags sometimes' to keep herself or colleagues out of trouble."

106. Frequently, Dollar General's internal reporting reflects failures to update pricing labels and switch out old labels. If labels are not even printed, certain prices on shelves will necessarily be incorrect and the prices consumers are charged at the register for those items will usually be higher than those on the shelves. See supra Paragraph 103.

107. For example, on August 23, 2023, [redacted]

[redacted]. On or about April 24, 2024, [redacted]. And, likewise, on December 11, 2024, [redacted].

108. On or about July 2, 2025, a Dollar General employee noted that [redacted]

111. On or about March 24, 2026, a Dollar General employee noted that failing only [redacted]

Despite These Failures, Dollar General Continues to Make False Pricing Statements

112. Dollar General's internal documents reflect the importance of price accuracy to its customers and the problems overcharges at the registers cause them. For example, in a 2023 Dollar General [redacted]

[redacted]

113. Despite Dollar General failing thousands of governmental pricing inspections, and settling numerous legal actions over its inaccurate pricing, Dollar General still regularly internally reports documentation of false pricing, see supra Paragraphs 98–111. Dollar General has failed to make sufficient changes to its policies and practices to resolve this problem. This is despite accurate pricing being [redacted], see supra Paragraph 97.

114. Based on the facts and violations of law alleged in this Complaint, the FTC has reason to believe that Defendant is violating or is about to violate laws enforced by the Commission because, among other things: it has failed thousands of pricing inspections over the past seven years; in spite of those failures, it continues to fail pricing inspections; the Commission's investigators found mislabeled pricing at Dollar General stores in 2026; and the Company has caused millions of dollars in harm.

VIOLATIONS OF THE FTC ACT

115. Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a), prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce."

116. Misrepresentations or deceptive omissions of material fact constitute deceptive acts or practices prohibited by Section 5(a) of the FTC Act.

COUNT I

Misrepresentations to Consumers Regarding Product Prices

117. In numerous instances in connection with the advertising, marketing, promotion, offering for sale, or sale of goods in its retail stores, Defendant represents, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that consumers will be charged the advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices.

118. In fact, in numerous instances in which Defendant has made the representations described in Paragraph 117, consumers are charged more than the advertised price.

119. Therefore, Defendant's representations as described in Paragraph 117, are false or misleading and constitute a deceptive act or practice in violation of Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a).

VIOLATIONS OF THE GRAMM-LEACH-BLILEY ACT

120. Section 521 of the GLB Act, 15 U.S.C. § 6821, became effective on November 12, 1999, and remains in full force and effect. Section 521(a)(2) of the GLB Act, 15 U.S.C. § 6821(a), prohibits any person from "obtain[ing] or attempt[ing] to obtain, or caus[ing] to be disclosed or attempt[ing] to cause to be disclosed to any person, customer information of a financial institution relating to another person . . . by making a false, fictitious, or fraudulent statement or representation to a customer of a financial institution."

121. The GLB Act defines "customer" to mean, "with respect to a financial institution, any person (or authorized representative of a person) to whom the financial institution provides a product or service, including that of acting as a fiduciary." 15 U.S.C. § 6827(1). The GLB Act defines "customer information of a financial institution" as "any information maintained by or for a financial institution which is derived from the relationship between the financial institution and a customer of a financial institution and is identified with the customer." Id. § 6827(2). The GLB Act defines a "financial institution" to include "any institution engaged in the business of providing financial services to customers who maintain a credit, deposit, trust, or other financial account or relationship with the institution." Id. § 6827(4)(A).

122. Section 522(a) of the GLB Act, 15 U.S.C. § 6822(a), empowers the FTC to enforce Section 521 of the GLB Act "in the same manner and with the same power and authority as the [FTC] has under the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act [FDCPA] . . . to enforce compliance with such Act." Pursuant to Section 814(a) of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692*l*(a), a violation of the FDCPA is deemed an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of the FTC Act. Section 814(a) of the FDCPA further provides that all of the functions and powers of the FTC under the FTC Act are available to the FTC to enforce compliance by any person with the FDCPA, including the power to enforce provisions of the FDCPA in the same manner as if the violation had been a violation of an FTC trade regulation rule. Thus, pursuant to Section 522(a) of the GLB Act, the FTC may enforce Section 521 of the GLB Act in the same manner as if a violation of the GLB Act were a violation of an FTC trade regulation rule.

123. Section 19 of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 57b, authorizes this Court to grant such relief as the Court finds necessary to redress injury to consumers resulting from Defendant's violations of the GLB Act, including, but not limited, to the rescission or reformation of contracts, and the refund of money or return of property.

COUNT II

Use of False, Fictitious, or Fraudulent Statements to Obtain or Attempt to Obtain, or Cause to Be Disclosed or Attempt to Cause to Be Disclosed, Customer Information of a Financial Institution

124. In numerous instances in connection with the advertising, marketing, promotion, or operation of its retail stores, Defendant has made false, fictitious, or fraudulent statements or representations to customers of financial institutions to obtain or attempt to obtain, or to cause to be disclosed or attempt to cause to be disclosed to a person, customer information of a financial institution, namely information from their credit and debit cards and checks that contain the customer's bank account information, including by representing, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that consumers will be charged the advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices.

125. Therefore, Defendant's acts or practices set forth above violate Section 521 of the GLB Act, 15 U.S.C. § 6821.

VIOLATIONS OF ALABAMA LAW

COUNT III

Deceptive Trade Practices

126. The State of Alabama incorporates Paragraphs 2 through 15, Paragraph 17, and Paragraphs 47 through 114 as if they were fully alleged herein.

127. Alabama's Deceptive Trade Practices Act forbids certain "deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Ala. Code § 8-19-5. The term "trade or commerce" "[i]ncludes, but is not limited to, the advertising, buying, offering for sale, sale or distribution or performance of any service or goods, and any other article, commodity, or thing of value wherever situated and shall include any trade or commerce affecting the people of this state." Ala. Code § 8-19-3(8). Defendant's business operations, as described above, constitute trade or commerce under the Deceptive Trade Practices Act. See id.

128. The misrepresentations regarding pricing that Defendant makes in connection with the advertising, marketing, and promotion of its products through its paper and digital advertisements have the capacity, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading consumers, and they are therefore deceptive trade practices prohibited by Section 8-19-5(9) of the Code of Alabama, which prohibits "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised."

129. Likewise, the misrepresentations that Defendant makes in-store with regard to the prices of goods offered for sale violate Section 8-19-5(27) of the Code of Alabama, which prohibits "[e]ngaging in any other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of trade or commerce."

VIOLATIONS OF ARIZONA LAW

COUNT IV

Violations of Arizona Consumer Fraud Act, A.R.S. §§ 44-1521 to -1534

130. The State of Arizona realleges all prior allegations of this Complaint as though fully set forth in Paragraphs 2 through 15, Paragraph 18, and Paragraphs 47 through 114.

131. The conduct described in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint constitutes deception, deceptive or unfair acts or practices, fraud, false pretenses, false promises, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of material facts with intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of merchandise in violation of A.R.S. §§ 44-1521 to -1534.

132. Defendant's violations of the Arizona CFA include, but are not limited to, having engaged in deceptive and unfair acts and practices by advertising a certain price for items in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices on store shelves and then charging consumers a higher price at the point of sale.

133. While engaging in the acts and practices alleged in this Complaint, Defendant knew or should have known that that its conduct was of the nature prohibited by A.R.S. § 44-1522, subjecting itself to enforcement and penalties as provided in A.R.S. § 44-1531(A).

VIOLATIONS OF ARKANSAS LAW

COUNT V

Violations of the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act

134. Plaintiff State of Arkansas realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations made in Counts I through II, as well as Paragraphs 2 through 15, Paragraph 19, and Paragraphs 47 through 114.

135. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act prohibits "knowingly making a false representation as to the characteristics…of goods or services." Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-107(a)(1).

136. Defendant knowingly made false representations regarding the price of goods in advertisements, circulars, on its website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices.

137. Therefore, Defendant's acts or practices violate Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-107(a)(1).

138. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act prohibits the advertisement of goods or services "with the intent not to sell them as advertised." Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-107(a)(3).

139. Defendant advertised goods in advertisements, circulars, on its website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices at prices for which it did not intend to sell them.

140. Therefore, Defendant's acts or practices violate Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-107(a)(3).

141. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act prohibits the "act, use, or employment by a person of any deception, fraud, or false pretense" in connection with the advertisement or sale of goods or services. Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-108(a)(1).

142. Advertising goods at a price for which one does not intend to sell the goods is the use of deception, fraud, or false pretense in connection with the advertisement of such goods.

143. Defendant advertised goods at a price for which it did not intend to sell the goods.

144. Therefore, Defendant's acts or practices violate Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-108(a)(1).

145. The Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act prohibits "engaging in any other unconscionable, false, or deceptive act or practice in business, commerce, or trade." Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-107(a)(10).

146. Defendant's practices relate to business, commerce, or trade.

147. Defendant's advertising practices intentionally promote a deceptive price for goods in advertisements, circulars, on its website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices in order to gain business it might not have had, had consumers known the true price of the goods.

148. Defendant's pricing practices are deceptive and unconscionable in violation of Ark. Code Ann. § 4-88-107(a)(10).

VIOLATIONS OF CALIFORNIA LAW

COUNT VI

Violations of California's FAL, Business and Professions Code section 17500

149. The People of the State of California re-allege and incorporate by reference the allegations in Paragraphs 3 through 13, Paragraph 20, and Paragraphs 47 through 114 in this Complaint.

150. Defendant has engaged in business acts or practices that constitute violations of Business and Professions Code section 17500 et seq. by making or disseminating, or causing to be made or disseminated, false or misleading statements with the intent to induce members of the public to purchase products in retail stores when Defendant knew, or by the exercise of reasonable care should have known, that the statements were false or misleading. Defendant's false or misleading statements include, but are not limited to, its statements, promises, and representations as follows:

151. In connection with the advertising, marketing, promotion, offering for sale, or sale of goods in its retail stores, Defendant represents, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that consumers will be charged the advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices, when in fact, consumers are unable to purchase the product for the advertised price.

152. Each of these misrepresentations or omissions was material and likely to deceive a reasonable customer or prospective customer.

153. The People of the State of California seek an injunction requiring Defendant to cease the false and misleading advertising practices alleged herein pursuant to Business and Professions Code section 17535.

154. The People of the State of California further seek an appropriate civil penalty under Business and Professions Code section 17536 of up to two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) for each violation of Business and Professions Code section 17500.

155. The People of the State of California seek all other relief available under California law, including restitution and such other equitable relief as the court deems just and proper.

COUNT VII

Violations of California's UCL, Business and Professions Code section 17200 et seq.

157. Defendant is a "person" as defined by Business and Professions Code section 17201, which includes "natural persons, corporations, firms, partnerships, joint stock companies, associations and other organizations of persons."

158. Defendant's acts or practices alleged in the Complaint violate California's UCL, Business and Professions Code section 17200, which prohibits any "unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act[s] or practice[s]." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200.

159. Defendant's violations of the UCL include, but are not limited to:

A. Violations of the False Advertising Law, California Business and Professions Code section 17500 as alleged above in Count VI;

B. Violations of Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a), as alleged in this Complaint in Paragraphs 3-13, and 49 through 125.

C. Violations of Section 521 of the GLB Act, 15 U.S.C. § 6821, as alleged in this Complaint in Paragraphs 3-13, and 49 through 125.

D. Violations of California's Consumers Legal Remedies Act, Cal. Civ. Code section 1750, et seq. ("CLRA"):

(1) The CLRA prohibits unfair and deceptive acts and practices undertaken in transactions intended to result in the sale of goods or services to consumers. Cal. Civ. Code § 1770.

(2) Defendant is a "person" under California Civil Code section 1761(c).

(3) Section 1770(a)(9) prohibits "[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised."

(4) Defendant violated section 1770(a)(9) when, as described above, it advertised that consumers will be charged the advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices, when in fact, consumers are unable to purchase the product for the advertised price.

E. Violations of California's Business and Professions Code section 12024.2:

(1) Section 12024.2(a) makes it unlawful for any person, at the time of sale of a commodity, to charge an amount greater than the price that is then advertised, posted, marked, displayed, or quoted for that commodity, or to charge an amount greater than the lowest price posted on the commodity itself or on a shelf tag that corresponds to the commodity. Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 12024.2(a)(1)–(2).

(2) Defendant violated section 12024.2 each time, as described above, it charged a consumer at the point of sale an amount greater than the price then advertised, posted, marked, displayed, or quoted for that product, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or on shelf tags.

160. Defendant has engaged in unfair, unlawful, and fraudulent practices, described in this Complaint, by representing to consumers that retail goods were available for an advertised price when consumers were, in fact, charged more than the advertised price for those goods.

161. Section 17203 of the UCL provides that "(a)ny person who engages, has engaged, or proposes to engage in unfair competition may be enjoined in any court of competent jurisdiction." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203. Section 17203 also permits recovery of any "money or property, real or personal" acquired by a violation of the UCL. Id.

Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206(a). Section 17206(a) thereby authorizes the County Counsel of Los Angeles County, where the City of Los Angeles, located in Los Angeles County, has a population in excess of 750,000, to bring such an action.

163. Under the UCL's Section 17205, these remedies and penalties are "cumulative to each other and to the remedies or penalties available under all other laws of this state." Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17205.

164. The People of the State of California, therefore, are entitled to: an injunctive order requiring Defendant to permanently cease the unlawful, fraudulent and unfair acts or practices alleged herein, including Defendant's false and misleading advertising; restitution to all victims of such acts or practices; civil penalties; and all other remedies available under the law.

VIOLATIONS OF CONNECTICUT LAW

COUNT VIII

Claims and Relief Sought by Connecticut Attorney General

Pursuant to the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act ("CUTPA")

(Deceptive Practices)

165. The Connecticut Attorney General incorporates Paragraphs 2 through 15, Paragraph 21, and Paragraphs 47 through 114 as if they were fully alleged herein.

166. At all times relevant hereto, Defendant has been engaged in trade or commerce in the State of Connecticut pursuant to Conn. Gen. Stat. § 42-110a(4).

167. In numerous instances in connection with the advertising, marketing, promotion, offering for sale, or sale of goods in its retail stores, the Defendant represents, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that purchasers will be charged the advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on its website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices.

168. In truth and in fact, in numerous instances in which the Defendant has made the representations described in Paragraphs 2-15 and Paragraphs 47-89, consumers are charged more than the advertised price.

169. The Defendant's representations, as described herein, were likely to mislead consumers acting reasonably under the circumstances in that they were led to believe that they would be charged one price for a product when, in fact, they were charged a higher price.

170. The Defendant's advertisements focused heavily on price as material terms of their offers, and the price is a material term of all offers for goods.

171. The Defendant, therefore, engaged in deceptive acts or practices in violation of CUTPA, Conn. Gen. Stat. § 42-110b(a).

COUNT IX

(Unfair Practices)

172. The Connecticut Attorney General incorporates Paragraphs 2 through 15, Paragraph 21, and Paragraphs 47 through 114 as if they were fully alleged herein.

173. By engaging in the aforesaid acts and practices, the Defendant violated the public policy of the State of Connecticut in one or more of the following ways:

A. Failing to comply with the public policy requiring truth and accuracy in the pricing of consumer commodities, as set forth in Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 21a-73 to 21a-79b;

B. Violating the public policy of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing; and

C. Violating the public policy against misrepresentations, either affirmatively or through nondisclosure.

174. The Defendant's practices set forth above have caused and are likely to cause substantial and unjustified injury to consumers in that consumers were and are substantially harmed by being required to pay more than the displayed or advertised price for products.

175. The Defendant's acts and practices, as described herein, therefore constitute unfair acts or practices in violation of CUTPA, Conn. Gen. Stat. § 42-110b(a).

VIOLATIONS OF DELAWARE LAW

COUNT X

The Delaware Consumer Fraud Act

176. The State of Delaware, ex rel. Kathleen Jennings, Attorney General, incorporates by reference the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

177. The Delaware CFA makes any act, use, or employment of a misrepresentation, omission of any material fact, or other certain actions or inactions, in connection with the sale, lease, receipt, or advertisement of merchandise, regardless of whether or not any person had in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged, thereby an unlawful practice in violation of 6 Del. C. § 2513(a).

178. The term "Merchandise" under the Delaware CFA includes goods for sale, including those of the type offered and sold by Defendant.

179. Defendant made misrepresentations, omitted material facts, and/or undertook other actions or omissions, in connection with the advertising, marketing, promotion, offering for sale or sale of goods, and pricing of its merchandise in its retail stores. Defendant represented that purchasers would be charged an advertised price yet charged more than the advertised price at the point of sale, as further described in this Complaint.

180. Each misrepresentation, omission of material fact, and/or other action or omission constitutes a separate violation of the Delaware CFA.

181. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was in violation of the Delaware CFA.

182. Defendant willfully violated the Delaware CFA.

COUNT XI

The Delaware Deceptive Trade Practices Act

183. The State of Delaware, ex rel. Kathleen Jennings, Attorney General, incorporates by reference the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

184. The Delaware DTPA defines "person" to mean an individual, corporation, government, or governmental subdivision or agency, statutory trust, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, unincorporated association, 2 or more of any of the foregoing having a joint or common interest, or any other legal or commercial entity. 6 Del. C. § 2531(5).

185. On numerous instances, as further described in this Complaint, Defendant violated the Delaware DTPA in connection with the advertising, marketing, promotion, offering for sale or sale of goods, and pricing of merchandise in its retail stores by:

A. Advertising goods with intent not to sell them as advertised in violation of 6 Del. C. § 2532(a)(9);

B. Making false or misleading statements of fact concerning the reasons for, existence of, or amounts of, price reductions in violation of 6 Del. C. § 2532(a)(11); and

C. Engaging in conduct which similarly created a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding in violation of 6 Del. C. §2532(a)(12).

186. Each such action and occurrence constitutes a separate violation of the Delaware DTPA.

187. Defendant knew or should have known that its conduct was in violation of the Delaware DTPA.

188. Defendant willfully violated the Delaware DTPA.

VIOLATIONS OF FLORIDA LAW

COUNT XII

Violations of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act (FDUTPA)

190. Section 501.204(1), Florida Statutes, provides that "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce are hereby declared unlawful."

191. Section 501.203(8), Florida Statutes, defines "trade or commerce" as "the advertising, soliciting, providing, offering, or distributing, whether by sale, rental, or otherwise, of any good or service, or any property, whether tangible or intangible, or any other article, commodity, or thing of value, wherever situated. 'Trade or commerce' shall include the conduct of any trade or commerce, however denominated, including any nonprofit or not-for-profit person or activity."

192. Defendant, in connection with the advertising, marketing, promotion, offering for sale, or sale of goods in its retail stores, represents, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that consumers will be charged the prices set forth in its advertisements, circulars, website, mobile applications, on the products themselves, on signs affixed near products, or on shelf prices.

193. However, on numerous occasions, consumers are not charged the prices reflected in Defendant's numerous marketing tools, but rather prices in excess of the advertised amounts.

194. Defendant's misrepresentations and unfair inducements as set forth above, are false and misleading and constitute a deceptive act or practice in violation of Section 501.204(1), Florida Statutes.

195. Defendant is subject to civil penalties for willful violation of FDUTPA in the amount of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) for each violation under section 501.2075, Florida Statutes, and Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000) for each violation that victimized or attempted to victimize a senior citizen or person who has a disability under Section 501.2077, Florida Statutes. A willful violation occurs when the person knew or should have known that his or her conduct was unfair or deceptive.

196. The above-described acts and practices of Defendant have injured and will likely continue to injure and prejudice the public.

197. The acts and practices of Defendant as set forth herein are misleading or deceptive and likely to mislead consumers acting reasonably; and consumers within the State of Florida and elsewhere were actually misled by the acts and practices of Defendant recited herein.

198. Defendant has willfully engaged in the acts and practices alleged herein when it knew or should have known that such acts and practices were unfair or deceptive or otherwise prohibited by law.

199. Unless Defendant is permanently enjoined from engaging further in the acts and practices complained of herein, Defendant's actions will result in irreparable injury to the public for which there is no adequate remedy at law.

202. 203. In numerous instances in which Defendant has made the representations described in Paragraph 202, consumers are charged more than the advertised price.

204. Defendant's aforesaid methods, acts, and practices are deceptive and are thus unlawful under the FBPA, including O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393(a), the FBPA's general prohibition against unfair and deceptive practices.

VIOLATIONS OF OHIO LAW

COUNT XXIX

Violations of Ohio's Consumer Sales Practices Act

306. Plaintiff Ohio re-alleges and incorporates every allegation set forth in all other paragraphs.

307. The Ohio Consumer Sales Practices Act ("Ohio CSPA"), O.R.C. 1345.01 et seq., and its Substantive Rules, Ohio Adm. Code 109:4-3-01 et seq., specify that certain acts or practices by a supplier constitute an unfair or deceptive act or practice when made as a part of a consumer transaction.

308. Defendant is a "supplier" as defined in the Ohio CSPA, O.R.C. 1345.01(C), because Defendant engages in the business of effecting or soliciting "consumer transactions" by selling goods to "consumers" for purposes that are primarily personal, family, or household, as defined in O.R.C. 1345.01(A) and (D).

309. It is an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of the Ohio CSPA, O.R.C. 1345.02(A) and 1345.02(B)(8), for a supplier to represent that a specific price advantage exists if it does not.

310. It is an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of the Ohio CSPA, O.R.C. 1345.02, and its Substantive Rules, Ohio Adm. Code 109:4-3-03, for a supplier to make an offer of sale of any goods when such offer is not a bona fide effort to sell such goods.

311. As set forth above, Defendant represents, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that Ohio consumers will be charged the advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices.

312. Defendant regularly charges Ohio consumers more than the advertised price.

313. Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts or practices have affected and continue to affect the people of the State of Ohio.

315. The Ohio Attorney General is authorized to recover a civil penalty if a supplier commits an Ohio CSPA violation that violates a rule previously promulgated pursuant to O.R.C. 1345.05(B)(2) or that was committed after a court decision declaring that act a CSPA violation was made available for public inspection pursuant to O.R.C. 1345.05(A)(3).

316. Each instance of an unfair or deceptive act or practice alleged herein constitutes a separate violation of the Ohio CSPA.

R.I. Gen. Laws § 6-13.1-5.

VIOLATIONS OF SOUTH CAROLINA LAW

COUNT XXXV

343. Defendant's acts and practices as alleged herein (advertising a certain price for items in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices on store shelves and then charging consumers a higher price at the point of sale) constitute deceptive acts or practices in violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act, S.C. 347. At the time it made or disseminated its false or misleading statements or caused those statements to be made or disseminated, Defendant knew or should have known that the statements were false or misleading and had a tendency to deceive the public.

348. Every deceptive act by the Defendant constitutes a separate and distinct violation of S.C. Code § 39-5-20.

349. Defendant's acts and practices as alleged herein are willful under S.C. Code § 39-5-110, subjecting the Defendant to a civil penalty of up to $5,000 per violation of S.C. Code Ann. § 39-5-20.

VIOLATIONS OF SOUTH DAKOTA LAW

COUNT XXXVI

350. Plaintiff the State of South Dakota re-alleges and incorporates every allegation set forth in all other paragraphs.

351. SDCL 37-24-6(1) specifies that it is a deceptive act or practice for any person to "knowingly act, use, or employ any deceptive act or practice, fraud, false pretense, false promises, or misrepresentation or to conceal, suppress, or omit any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise[.]"

352. Defendant sold "merchandise" as defined in SDCL 37-24-1(7) because it sold items that are an "object, wares, goods, commodity, intangible, instruction, or service[.]"

353. It is an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of SDCL 37-24-6(1), for any person to represent, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that South Dakota consumers will be charged an advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices, but then charge a different price at the register.

354. As set forth above, Defendant represents, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that South Dakota consumers will be charged the advertised price, including in advertisements, circulars, on the company's website and mobile application, on the product itself, on signs affixed near the product, or in shelf prices.

355. But at the register, Defendant regularly charges South Dakota consumers more than the advertised price.

356. Defendant's deceptive acts and practices have affected and continue to affect the people of the State of South Dakota.

357. The South Dakota Attorney General is authorized to bring a lawsuit in the name of the State and in the public interest to obtain a declaratory judgment and injunctive relief under SDCL 37-24-23. The South Dakota Attorney General may also seek attorney's fees under SDCL 37-24-23.

358. Each instance of a deceptive act or practice alleged herein constitutes a separate violation of the South Dakota Deceptive Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act.

VIOLATIONS OF TENNESSEE LAW

COUNT XXXVII

Violations of the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act,

Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-18-101, et seq.

359. The Tennessee Consumer Protection Act, Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-18-101, et seq. ("TCPA") declares unlawful "unfair or deceptive acts or practices affecting the conduct of any trade or commerce." Tenn. Code Ann. § 47-18-104.

360. The TCPA "shall be interpreted and construed consistently with the interpretations given by the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts pursuant to § 5(A)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, codified in 15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1)." Tenn. Code Ann. § 47-18-115.

361. Therefore, Defendant's representations alleged in Count I above, which constitute deceptive acts or practices under Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a), likewise constitute deceptive acts or practices in violation of Tenn. Code Ann. § 47-18-104.

362. Defendant engaged in deceptive acts and practices by systematically charging prices at the register higher than prices advertised, by maintaining a point-of-sale system that applied price increases at the register regardless of whether shelf price labels had been updated, and by creating the deceptive impression that consumers could rely on the prices displayed in its circulars, store shelves and signage, and in its website and mobile application, in violation of Tenn. Code Ann. § 47-18-104(a), (b)(9), (11), (21) & (27).

VIOLATIONS OF UTAH LAW

363. Section 4(1) of the Utah CSPA, Utah Code § 13-11-4(1), prohibits suppliers from engaging in "deceptive act[s] or practice[s] in connection with a consumer transaction . . . whether the deceptive act occurs before, during, or after the transaction."

364. Under the Utah CSPA, a "supplier" includes "a seller, . . . offeror, . . . or other person who regularly solicits, engages in, or enforces consumer transactions, whether or not the person deals directly with the consumer." Id. § 13-11-3(5).

365. The Utah CSPA defines a "consumer transaction" to include "a sale . . . or other written or oral transfer or disposition of goods, services, or other property, both tangible and intangible . . . to, or apparently to, a person for . . . primarily personal, family, or household purposes." Id. § 13-11-3(2)(a).

366. As described in this Complaint, Defendant offers and sells goods to consumers for their personal, family, or household use in the State of Utah.

COUNT XXXVIII

Deceptive Acts and Practices in Connection with Consumer Transactions

367. By engaging in the practices alleged in Paragraphs 3 through 15 and Paragraphs 47 through 114 of this Complaint, Defendant has committed deceptive acts and practices, including by making or causing (whether directly or indirectly, explicitly or by implication) misrepresentations or omissions of material fact to Utah consumers in connection with their transactions at Dollar General stores.

368. Specifically, Defendant has repeatedly misrepresented the prices of goods offered for sale in its advertisements, circulars, website, mobile application, product labels, store signage, and shelf prices. Consumers are offered goods for purchase at the advertised price but are often charged more than the advertised price at checkout. Defendant routinely refuses to honor the advertised or listed prices.

369. By engaging in such deceptive acts and practices, Dollar General has violated the Utah CSPA and Administrative Rules enacted pursuant thereto. Utah Code § 13-11-4; Utah Admin. Code R152-11-201.

370. Section 17(1)(e) of the Utah CSPA, Utah Code § 13-11-17(1)(e), authorizes this Court to impose fines for violations of the Utah CSPA.

VIOLATIONS OF THE WISCONSIN DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT

371. Wisconsin's Deceptive Trade Practices Act, Wis. Stat. § 100.18(1), generally prohibits untrue, deceptive, or misleading representations. Specifically, as related to this action, Wis. Stat. § 100.18(1) provides that no person may, for the purpose of increasing the consumption of merchandise or services, make, publish, disseminate, circulate, or place before the public, or cause directly or indirectly to be made, published, disseminated, circulated, or placed before the public, any statement or representation that is untrue, deceptive, or misleading.

COUNT XXXIX

Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act, Wis. Stat. § 100.18(1)

372. By engaging in the practices alleged in Paragraphs 3 through 15 and Paragraphs 47 through 114 of this Complaint, Defendant committed deceptive acts or practices, including by making or causing (whether directly or indirectly, explicitly or by implication) misrepresentations to Wisconsin consumers about the price of the goods sold by Defendant. Each misrepresentation is a separate violation of Wis. Stat. § 100.18(1).

373. By engaging in such deceptive acts and practices, Defendant has violated the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act, Wis. Stat. § 100.18(1), and Plaintiff State of Wisconsin is entitled to relief including a permanent injunction, restitution, civil forfeitures, consumer protection surcharges, supplemental forfeitures, and attorneys' fees, expenses, and costs. Wis. Stat. §§ 100.18(11)(d), 100.26(4), 100.261, 100.263, and 100.264.

VIOLATIONS OF THE WISCONSIN WEIGHTS AND MEASURES LAW

374. Under Wis. Stat. § 98.26(1)(c), no person may represent in any manner a false price in connection with the sale, offering to sell, or advertising of any commodity, thing, or service.

375. Under Wis. Stat. § 98.08(2), any person who sells a commodity or thing and uses an electronic scanner to record the price of that commodity or thing at the point-of-sale must display, in a conspicuous manner, a sign stating the requirements of subsection (1) of the statute. Wisconsin Stat. § 98.08(1) requires refunding the difference between an item's posted or advertised price and a higher price charged at the time of the sale due to the price recorded by an electronic scanner.

376. Pursuant to Wis. Stat. § 98.26(1), any person who violates Wis. Stat. § 98.26(1)(c) or any other provision of Wis. Stat. ch. 98 is subject to a civil forfeiture of not less than $10 nor more than $500 for the first offense and not less than $200 nor more than $1,000 for a subsequent offense.

COUNT XL

Wisconsin Weights and Measures Law, Wis. Stat. § 98.26(1)(c)

377. Between January 19, 2026 and February 26, 2026, the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection's Bureau of Weights and Measures, along with municipal weights and measures programs, conducted a state survey of 279 Dollar General stores located in Wisconsin. During that survey, 290 products were electronically scanned at a price higher than the price advertised.

378. Each item that was electronically scanned at the point-of-sale that recorded a higher price than the item's posted or advertised price constitutes a separate violation of Wis. Stat. § 98.26(1)(c).

COUNT XLI

Wisconsin Weights and Measures Law, Wis. Stat. § 98.08(2)

379. Between January 19, 2026 and February 26, 2026, the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection's Bureau of Weights and Measures, along with municipal weights and measures programs, conducted a state survey of 279 Dollar General stores located in Wisconsin. During the initial inspection, 35 stores did not have the refund signage posted. During the second inspection, 10 stores did not have the refund signage posted.

380. Each store that did not display in a conspicuous manner a sign explaining a purchaser's right to receive a refund of the difference between the higher price charged by the electronic scanner and the lower price posted or advertised constitutes a separate violation of Wis. Stat. § 98.26(1)(f).

CONSUMER INJURY

381. Consumers are suffering, have suffered, and will continue to suffer substantial injury as a result of Defendant's violations of the FTC Act, the GLB Act, the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act, the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act, California's Unfair Competition Law and False Advertising Law, the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act, the Delaware Consumer Fraud Act, the Delaware Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act, the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, the Illinois Consumer Fraud Act, the Illinois Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Iowa Consumer Fraud Act, the Kansas Consumer Protection Act, the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act, the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law, the Maine Unfair Trade Practices Act, the Michigan Shopping Reform and Modernization Act and Michigan Consumer Protection Act, Minnesota's Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act and Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Mississippi Consumer Protection Act, the Nebraska Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, the New Mexico Unfair Practices Act, the North Carolina Unfair or Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Ohio Consumer Sales Practices Act, the Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act, the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act, the Rhode Island Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act, the South Dakota Deceptive Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act, the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act, the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act, the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act, and the Wisconsin Weights and Measures Law. Absent injunctive relief by this Court, Defendant is likely to continue to injure consumers and harm the public interest.

GLB Act, the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act, the Arkansas Deceptive Trade Practices Act, California's Unfair Competition Law and False Advertising Law, the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act, the Delaware Consumer Fraud Act, the Delaware Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act, the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, the Illinois Consumer Fraud Act and the Illinois Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Iowa Consumer Fraud Act, the Kansas Consumer Protection Act, the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act, the Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law, the Maine Unfair Trade Practices Act, the Michigan Shopping Reform and Modernization Act and Michigan Consumer Protection Act, the Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act and Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Mississippi Consumer Protection Act, the Nebraska Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, the New Mexico Unfair Practices Act, the North Carolina Unfair or Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Ohio Consumer Sales Practices Act, the Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act, the Oregon Unlawful Trade Practices Act, the Rhode Island Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act, the South Dakota Deceptive Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act, the Tennessee Consumer Protection Act, the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act, the Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act, and the Wisconsin Weights and Measures Law;
